RED WAR IN RUHR FEARED BY BERLIN; RUSSIA SUSPECTED

300,000 Miners Are on Strike or Locked Out and Trouble Spreads to Saxony.

COMMUNISTS IN CONTROL

Connection Seen Between Their Activity and Recent Raid on Russian Trade Mission.

BERLIN, May 7.—As a result of the big Communist success at the polls on Sunday it looks as if the Ruhr district might be facing another "Red war" such as threatened in 1920 to destroy that busiest and wealthiest region of Germany. Such repetition of the "Red war" seems imminent from news reaching here tonight that 300,000 coal miners there are striking or have been locked out, owing to differences between them and their employers on the eight-hour day question.

What makes the situation even more alarming to Berlin is a strong possibility of a connection between these strikes and the recent search of the premises of the Russian Trade Mission here, which, it is believed, gave the German police proof of a conspiracy between the Russian Soviet Government and the German Communists to start a general strike throughout Germany. Connection is also seen between the Communist activities in the Ruhr which have culminated in tonight's strike and recent revelations concerning the "German Cheka," by which the German police sought to show the existence of a regular conspiracy of German and Russian Communists to spread "Red activities" through Germany to the banks of the Rhine.

Communists Gain Control.

Socialist circles in Berlin tonight received information that the Communists have been entirely successful in wresting control of the Ruhr situation from the hands of the Socialist and Christian trade unions there. There is no doubt that the Communist election victory made a deep impression on the laboring element, not only in the Ruhr but also in other mining districts, such as Saxony and Silesia, where strikes also appear imminent.

News from Essen, Düsseldorf, Bochum and other Ruhr centres shows that the Communist leaders called on the mine-owners and threatened that unless a seven-hour day and increased wages were granted the mines would be seized by the strikers and worked by them.

But what the Communist leaders are really after is to bring about a general strike, not only in mining but in all industries in Germany. There is coal enough only for a few days, and after that nearly all the factories in Germany will be compelled to shut down, which will pave the way for another "Red war." It is learned that the Minister of the Interior, Herr Severing, who suppressed the first Communist uprising in the Ruhr district, received extremely alarming news late last night which kept him and his staff busy for many hours.

In Socialist circles this sudden Communist activity is directly connected with the recent search by the German police of the offices of the Russian Trade Mission and with the conduct of the Russian Ambassador, M. Krestinsky, who, it is maintained, by creating an atmosphere of prejudice against the German Government's action sought to discredit certain damaging evidence which the German police are understood to have obtained in the said search showing active Russian Soviet propaganda in Germany.

Monarchists and Reds May Clash.

Possibilities of imminent serious trouble loom up also in an announcement of the mass meetings scheduled for next Sunday at Halle by organizations of the Extreme Right political affiliations on the one hand and on the other by the Communists.

The former plan to mobilize 250,000 members, ostensibly for the purpose of unveiling a statue to von Moltke, the German leader in the Franco-Prussian War. The Communists, seeing in the proposed meeting a challenge are organizing a huge counter demonstration, which, if up to expectations, will take to Halle next Sunday Communist hosts equaling, if not surpassing, in numbers the big array of reactionaries.

It is announced that the police will be present in large numbers, that public processions in Halle will not be allowed and that the Communists will be confined to an open space outside the city proper, to lessen the possibilities of a clash with the reactionaries. Despite these precautions, however, it is felt that both sides will appear on the scene looking for trouble, and there is a likelihood that the Government will prohibit either one or both parties concerned from carrying out their demonstration plans.

More Ruhr Miners to Go Out.

COLOGNE, May 7.—The threatened struggle over the seven-hour mining shift has definitely begun and between 350,000 and 450,000 Ruhr miners are idle. Only 10 per cent. of the men were admitted to work this morning and of this

Bandits in Bond St., London, Steal a $35,000 Necklace

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 7.—London had its own "motor bandit" outrage today.

Just after 10 o'clock this morning a small automobile came down Bond Street. Outside a jeweler's it slowed down and one man sprang out. With a wrench he smashed a hole in the plateglass window and, inserting his hand, snatched a $35,000 diamond necklace. He was in the car again in twenty seconds and it rushed off at breakneck speed.

The heavy traffic in the narrow street made the bandit's car slow down. A policeman near by blew his whistle, a mounted man galloped in pursuit and a number of other policemen commandeered a taxicab and gave chase.

Into Piccadilly the bandits turned and went west. The police were gaining and the taxicab held up the robbers near Dover Street. They jumped out, abandoning the car and, going in different directions, escaped in the passing throngs.

A reward of £1,000 has been offered for the necklace.

$500,000 HANGS UPON EXACT DEATH MINUTE

Two Die at Same Hour, One in California, and the Other Is Murdered in Albania.

PROBLEM: WHO DIED LAST

Heirs of Richard and W. T. Coleman 3d Start Unique Investigation Involving Trust Fund.

John F. Bowie, a lawyer of 37 Wall Street, has started an investigation to find out the exact time when Robert Lewis Coleman of San Francisco was murdered by bandits on the Tirana-Scutari highway, for the reason that the disposition of a fortune of about $500,000 depends on the exact moment when Mr. Coleman was killed.

Robert Louis Coleman and George B. De Long were slain on April 6 in Albania. On the same day William T. Coleman 3d, a nephew of Robert Louis Coleman, died at Monrovia, Cal.

One group of the heirs will inherit the fortune if Robert Louis Coleman died first, and another group will inherit if William T. Coleman died first.

The circumstances surrounding the deaths of the two indicate that it may be difficult to fix the exact time of death of each man to the assistfaction of rival groups of heirs, or of the California court which will be called on to settle the case.

The $500,000 involved in this matter was originally a part of the estate of Captain William T. Coleman, a pioneer, who went to California in 1849 and became a noted public character during the time that followed the discovery of gold. In 1851, when public justice had ceased to exist in California, he became one of the organizers of the Vigilance Committee which hanged four men.

In 1856 Mr. Coleman headed the second Vigilance Committee which hanged several men and banished others. He built up a large fortune in the lumber business and died wealthy in 1893.

Captain Coleman willed his estate in trust to his two sons. He provided for the inheritance of the trust by grandchildren, but directed also that the whole trust should go to either son if he survived his brother and his brother's children.

In other words, if William T. Coleman 3d died first, his share in the trust went to the uncle, Robert Louis Coleman, and on his death, to his children. If, however, William T. Coleman died last the estate would go to his heirs. He had no children, but his mother and others who would share in the fortune are said to be living.

Cabled press dispatches reported that Robert Louis Coleman died in Albania at 10 A. M. His nephew was reported to have died at Monrovia at 1 A. M. on that day. There is exactly nine hours' difference in time between the reported hours of death, but there also is exactly nine hours' difference between Pacific Coast time and Albanian time.

If both of these hours are the closest that can be established, the two men legally died at the same moment.

The official records are now said to show that William T. Coleman 3d died at 3:30 A. M., which would make him the survivor by two hours and a half and would thus give his fortune to his heirs. The heirs of the uncle will receive his share of the trust in either event.

Mr. Bowie said last night that he did not know the exact relationship of the heirs of William T. Coleman 3d, but understood that he had a mother living, and others who would benefit if he proved to have died later than his uncle.

RUNAWAY TROLLEY SMASHES ANOTHER; THIRTY ARE INJURED

IT HITS TWO AUTOMOBILES

Then Rushes On Down Upon Passengers Crowded in Rear of a Standing Crosstown Car.

MOTORMAN BARRED DOORS

Kept Screaming Women From Leaping as Speed Quickened—Police Lift Out Those Hurt.

More than thirty persons were injured just before 6 o'clock last night when the brakes on a one-man Ogden Avenue car failed on the grade down the 155th Street viaduct and it smashed into a crowded trolley standing in its path. For four blocks the car raced down hill. At St. Nicholas Place it sideswiped two automobiles. Then it rushed on to Eighth Avenue, where it crashed into the other car—a 155th Street crosstown—which was started down hill by the impact. The two cars, their momentum spent, were finally stopped at Macomb's Place.

The injured were treated by ambulance surgeons from Harlem and Columbus Hospitals, and all but four were sent home. Many who were only slightly hurt refused medical attention. They were taken home in automobiles commandeered by the police.

The specific cause of the accident was not learned. George Serfert, motorman of the one-man car, the only man who might have given definite information, was unconscious in Columbus Hospital.

The car became unmanageable when the trolley pole flew off soon after Serfert started from Amsterdam Avenue. Passengers said that the air tanks were almost empty and could not be recharged after the power was lost. Serfert ran to the rear and tried to manipulate the pole back onto the overhead wire, but could not.

It Speeds Down Hill.

The runaway car went faster and faster. Women screamed and fought to reach the door, but Serfert barred the exit and by main force kept any one from leaping from the swaying car as it rushed on down hill.

As the car neared St. Nicholas Place, a traffic policeman, not knowing it was a runaway, turned the semaphores for north and south traffic. A stream of automobiles returning from the baseball game at the Yankee Stadium were lined up waiting to make the left hand turn into St. Nicholas Place. Two started forward with the signal, just as the trolley shot by. The front ends of both automobiles were smashed and the occupants were jolted from their seats.

In one, a taxicab driven by Max L. Fein of 2,016 Union Street, Brooklyn, were Lew Cantor, a brother of Eddie Cantor, of 160 West Forty-sixth Street, and Eugene West, an actor, living at the Alamac Hotel. In the other were Mrs. Herbert J. Morris of 414 West 121st Street, and Paul Von Boeckman of 110 West Fortieth Street. All four refused treatment and went home in taxicabs. The automobiles had to be taken away by wrecking cars.

The trolley car, unchecked as it crushed the noses of the two automobiles, continued its dash across the viaduct, which was crowded with persons returning from the ball game or from work. Its wild speed and the screams of the imprisoned passengers sent people scurrying safely off the tracks.

Hits Another Trolley.

At Eighth Avenue, where many persons change from the Sixth Avenue elevated to the 155th Street crosstown line, a crosstown trolley car had stopped to take on passengers.

Serfert, seeing that a collision was inevitable unless the forward car moved swiftly, clanged his bell as hard as he could, hoping to warn its conductor, James McGill of 4,065 Tenth Avenue. But McGill was hemmed in by passengers and could not see the runaway rushing down on his car.

Passengers in the rear of the crosstown car saw what was coming, but their shouts of alarm were drowned in the noise of the crash, with its rattle of breaking glass and ripping of splintered wood.

As the cries of the injured arose, the crosstown car lurched forward and started down the hill, followed closely

Suit for $22,000,000 Searles Estate Filed By Greek Boy Companion of Late Recluse

A summons in a suit to recover the $22,000,000 estate of Edward F. Searles, millionaire recluse of Methuen, Mass., from Arthur T. Walker, his secretary, who inherited the bulk of the estate, was filed yesterday in the Supreme Court by Parker & Aaron of 30 Broad Street, attorneys for Michael Angelo Ellison, a companion of Searles's.

While the nature of the suit was not disclosed in the summons, Herman Aaron of Parker & Aaron said the basis of Ellison's claim would be that the Greek boy "held the relationship of a son to Searles and Searles intended to adopt him and leave his entire fortune to him."

"Mr. Searles had a deep affection for Ellison," said Mr. Aaron. "They made several trips together and Searles promised Ellison that he would make the boy his heir. Searles was a lonely old man. He had few interests in his life and his desire for companionship was satisfied by Ellison. It was generally understood by those around Searles that the millionaire would adopt the Greek boy. Instead, according to the will which gives Arthur T. Walker the bulk of the estate, Ellison receives only $10,000."

At the office of the Edward F. Searles estate, 111 Broadway, Mr. Walker's secretary said:

"The suit probably is like the recent one in which a lawyer sued the nephew of Searles for $315,000 and got a settlement of $10,000."

The reference was to the suit of Judge Harry F. Curtis of Providence, R. I., who asked the above amount in counsel fees from Arthur T. Searles, nephew of the elder Searles, for services which consisted mainly in obtaining letters from Edward F. Searles to Ellison. These letters, Curtis contended, enabled the nephew to effect a settlement of $4,000,000 from Walker.

The Curtis suit also disclosed the fact that Ellison was complaining of his treatment by Searles, from whom he said he expected several million dollars.

Evelyn Nesbit Drops Fight Against Thaw, But Will Press for Settlement on Son

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 7.—Evelyn Nesbit stated today that she would make no further fight against the recent decision of the Philadelphia jury which found Harry K. Thaw sane. In an interview this afternoon she said that the withdrawal of the objection to Thaw's freedom by the trustees of his estate had left the burden of fighting the decision to her and that she did not have enough money to continue the fight.

"I have fully decided that there is no further use in fighting millions," said Miss Nesbit. Denying that there had been any settlement, she said that the withdrawal of her objection did not mean that she would give up the fight to compell Thaw to make a settlement on her son Russell, 14 years old, who is a student at the Society of Friends School here. The argument on Miss Nesbit's appeal was to have been heard next Monday in Philadelphia.

"The Thaw case has been dragging along for years, and it bids fair to continue," she added. "I am awfully tired of my whole relationship with it. While I insist that Thaw is not fit to be at large, I don't mind at all personally his being out. Of course, I am fearful that he may visit Atlantic City, but my personal fears have been alleviated since I determined not to fight further against his freedom.

"Some people have the idea that I want to keep Harry locked up out of bitterness. Such is not the case. I have been acting entirely in the interests of my son Russell. I wish Harry luck. I have no dread of my own future, but Russell must be taken care of."

TAMMANY LEADERS MAY 'DRAFT' FOLEY

Proposal to 'Make Him Take It' Made on Eve of Meeting to Elect Murphy Successor.

SELECTION UNLIKELY TODAY

Subcommittee Probably Will Be Named to Choose Chieftain if Surrogate Still Refuses.

Although the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall will meet this afternoon to discuss the election of a successor to Charles F. Murphy, it is probable that no decision will be reached and that the selection of a leader, to be later approved by the Executive Committee, may be turned over to a select committee.

Surrogate James A. Foley, who apparently is the one man on the selection of whom there is almost unanimous agreement among the leaders, returned to the city last night from Good Ground, still reluctant to accept the leadership, although the pressure upon him has been markedly increased in the last few days. It is still possible that he will accept at the behest of Governor Smith. Should he decide to do so he will be chosen.

"If, at the time the committee meets this afternoon, Foley is of the same mind as he was last night, the selection of a leader today will be highly improbable, according to those who are fully aware of the sentiment in the Executive Committee. These men assert that it will be virtually impossible for the members of the Executive Committee to agree on any one but Foley. The Surrogate could be elected by an almost unanimous vote, but once he is definitely out of the running half a dozen aspirants for the place, many of whom are themselves district leaders, will be prepared to put up a fight in their own behalf.

Judge Olvany a Second Choice.

The second choice of many of the leaders is Judge George W. Olvany of the Court of General Sessions, for many years leader in a district wherein he learned all about the trials and tribulations that may beset a Tammany politician. It is doubtful, however, whether Olvany could be elected without a good deal of electioneering. Even Foley himself, it is said, could not swing the Foley strength in the committee to Olvany.

It is for the reason that a bitter internal fight might well result from any attempt to elect any one other than Foley that the more cautious of the leaders were discussing last night the idea of postponing the selection and letting a small committee handle the situation. Regardless of whether this plan goes through, it will be suggested at the meeting this afternoon, which is called for 4 o'clock.

Such a committee, if appointed, will not attempt to manage the affairs of Tammany Hall, or be in any sense a triumvirate. It will be empowered merely to canvass the situation as to the selection of a leader and report back. It will then ascertain the strength and weakness of the numerous possible candidates, obtain the views of all the leaders, and others besides the leaders who are important to the management of Tammany Hall, and report back again, possibly in a week. The selection, ultimately, will rest with the Executive Committee.

Make-up of Committee Important.

The make-up of the committee, if chosen, will be of the utmost importance, and the chances are that the members will be men who have no aspirations of their own toward the leadership. They will be men, too, in a position to weigh the suggestions of those outside the Executive Committee whose wishes it might be wise to consider. Not all of the leaders are disposed to regard lightly Mayor Hylan's disapproval of the selection of Surrogate Foley, even though nearly all of them believe it was instigated by William R. Hearst and that Hylan is likely at any time to side with Hearst against Tammany.

Not only do several of the leaders hold jobs which are not too exacting through the beneficence of Mayor Hylan, but Tammany is mindful, it appeared last night, that the Mayor is now in the throes of selecting the personnel of the new Board of Transportation, which is to take over the building of subway lines heretofore managed by the Transit Commission. Already the Mayor has announced that John H. Delaney will head that body.

Mr. Delaney is from Brooklyn and is not a member of Tammany Hall. It is fully expected that the Mayor will also appoint Grover Whalen, now Commissioner of Plant and Structures, to the Board of Transportation, inasmuch as Mr. Whalen is the man chiefly responsible for the bus system. This selection may, in fact, be announced today or tomorrow. Mr. Whalen hails from Manhattan and is a member of

COOLIDGE'S LEAD NOW IN CALIFORNIA 45,700

KLAN MAN SWEEPS INDIANA

Jackson Wins Republican Nomination for Governor—Coolidge Victory Overwhelming.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—President Coolidge's lead over Senator Hiram Johnson for California's endorsement for the Republican Presidential nomination continued to increase in returns late today, the gain being especially apparent as belated tabulations from Los Angeles County came in.

The figures from 6,198 of the State's 6,974 precincts gave Johnson 244,800, Coolidge 290,542.

The same precincts gave a slate of delegates to the Democratic National Convention pledged to William G. McAdoo almost a six-to-one lead over an unpledged group which opposed McAdoo. The figures, also from 6,198 precincts: McAdoo, 103,500; "no preference" delegation, 17,891.

The returns were representative of all but one of the State's fifty-eight counties.

On the Socialist ticket Eugene V. Debs won all votes, as did Charles H. Randall on the prohibition ticket.

When daylight came it looked as if President Coolidge had defeated Hiram Johnson. The delegates pledged to the nomination of President Coolidge were then more than 10,000 votes ahead of the Johnson delegates on the face of complete returns from 3,066 of the State's 6,974 precincts. As belated returns came in, the Coolidge lead tended to increase.

Analysis of the returns show that while San Francisco has given Johnson more than 8,700 majority, Los Angeles turned in a Coolidge majority of more than 50,000, while the precincts outside these cities are giving the two candidates almost the same vote. Thus, when the totals for 5,964 precincts were compiled this evening they showed these results:

	Precincts.	Johnson.	Coolidge.
San Francisco	510	42,269	33,537
Los Angels	1,550	56,571	106,832
State Outside	3,904	130,863	139,921

Should the trend of the several hundred precincts in Los Angeles County that are still missing follow that of the preceding precincts, Coolidge's majority will be heavily increased.

The result of the primary "is no real disaster," Senator Johnson said today in a telegram from Washington to his State headquarters here.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 7.—William G. McAdoo, after viewing the State returns, issued this statement today:

"California has spoken in resounding tones for clean politics and progressive democracy by her verdict today.

"The victory for the delegates pledged to support me in the New York Convention is overwhelming and obliterating. The Democratic Party has an inspiring opportunity. California is determined to do her part in reclaiming the Government from those who have betrayed the people, in restoring honesty and justice and in driving privilege and corruption out of high station.

"I thank my friends and supporters throughout the State for the signal honor they have conferred on me by their generous expression of popular confidence."

Klan Is Victor in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 7 (Associated Press).—Ku Klux Klan influence, an open factor in the pre-primary Republican contest that ended Tuesday, was felt with tremendous force tonight when virtually complete returns showed that Edward Jackson, Secretary of State and only candidate for Governor having Klan support, had gained a majority vote that precluded the contest being thrown into the State convention later this month.

Jackson's vote was 182,007 against 155,705 for all his opponents when 3,154 of the 3,400 precincts in the State had been tabulated tonight. The other candidates stood as follows: Shank, 76,804; Toner, 48,396; Bush, 19,349; Davis, 8,355, and Dullberger, 2,801.

Republican leaders felt that party control had been gained by Jackson forces in the election at the primary of precinct committeemen.

Leaders in the present State organization were getting ready for a fight for control, Chairman Clyde Walb being on his way here from his home in Lagrange, while Jackson backers, including Walter Bossert, Klan leader, and D. C. Stephenson, former Grand Dragon, make preparations for the business of reorganization. All, however, were silent as to their moves, but at Jackson headquarters there appeared many faces

BAN ON JAPANESE DEFERRED 8 MONTHS AS COOLIDGE INSISTS

CONGRESS FIGHT IMPENDS

Opponents Promptly Declare Intention to Block Change in Senate and House.

CALIFORNIANS ARE ANGRY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—An unexpected last-minute change in the Immigration bill which would postpone Japanese exclusion from July 1, 1924, until March 1, 1925, was agreed upon by the Senate and House conferees today upon the insistence of President Coolidge expressed at a White House conference.

Opposition to the change promptly followed its announcement, Senators Shortridge of California and Harris of Georgia declaring they would fight acceptance of the amendment when the bill reaches the Senate on the ground that the conferees exceeded their authority. Representative Raker, Democrat, of California said he would contest the report every inch of the way in the House.

V. S. McClatchy of the Sacramento Bee, speaking for the California Legion, Grange, Labor Federation and Native Sons, issued a statement assailing any treaty to be sought during the year's delay of exclusion as an invasion of the Congressional prerogative of regulating immigration and as a discriminating concession to Japan.

The change in the exclusion proposal was accomplished with surprising swiftness after a short and lively controversy among the conferees, which will be carried to the floors of House and Senate just as soon as the report on the measure is brought up for consideration.

After a sharp debate, in which Representative Raker expressed keen disapproval of this step, it was announced that the exclusion section had been amended by the conferees to add the following proviso:

"Provided, that this subdivision shall not take effect as to exclusion until March 1, 1925, before which time the President is requested to negotiate with the Japanese Government in relation to the abrogation of the present arrangements on this subject."

Acted After White House Conference.

The conferees already had announced last night completion of the bill and had provided among other things for acceptance of the House provisions on exclusion, which would become effective next July 1. This morning Senators Lodge and Reed of Pennsylvania and Representative Albert Johnson of Washington, Chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, were called to the White House.

After a conference with the President they returned to the Capitol, where Senator Reed sent a hurried call for the other conferees. He informed them the President was disappointed with the provision as it was left in the bill and desired a change to allow time for the difficulty to be ironed out through the channels of diplomacy.

Senator Reed, speaking for the conferees, declared the new provision had been proposed by the House members at the request of the President and that the Senate members accepted it because of the President's insistence. Chairman Johnson of the House group suggested the new date of enforcement at the White House conference. The President also urged the Republican leaders of the House to make an aggressive effort on the floor for the new date.

The provision adopted was the one Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, announced on the Senate floor yesterday, had been circulated as the one that President Coolidge would like to see adopted that diplomacy might be allowed to operate.

The report on the bill has been completed but it was stated tonight that it would not be made public until submitted to the House tomorrow. Action will come first in that body and Mr. Raker will open his fight by contending that the conferees have gone further than their jurisdiction allows.

The ruling of Speaker Gillett on this point will be of the greatest importance.

Widow Who Stole Husband Must Pay $55,000 to Wife

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Mrs. Maude N. Sherritt received a verdict of $55,000 against Mrs. Edith Fowler, a wealthy widow, whom she charged with alienating the affections of her husband, Max Sherritt, manager of a machine company in this city, from a jury in Common Pleas Court today.

The jury, which was out four hours, had heard testimony concerning "petting parties" and lingering kisses in Mrs. Fowler's apartment and had been told that Mrs. Fowler had asked "spiritual advice" of a negro janitor. The foreman announced that $25,000 of the verdict was to punish Mrs. Fowler and that $30,000 was to compensate Mrs. Sherritt for the loss of her husband's love and his allowance to her.

PRESIDENT PRESSES CONGRESS TO SPEED

Wants Adjournment Before Cleveland Convention, and Leaders Favor It.

ACTION ON BILLS HURRIED

Exclusion Date Change One Result—Some World Court Move Promised.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Unusual activity in Administration circles today resulted in arrangements being made to speed up the lagging legislative program, with a view to having Congress adjourn before the meeting of the Republican National Convention on June 10. President Coolidge was the leading spirit in the activity displayed. His recent indication that he intended to be the real as well as the titular leader of his party was confirmed by his course today, with the strengthening of his hold on party workers through victories in the California and Indiana primaries yesterday.

The new spirit which the President injected into party affairs pertaining to legislation was first shown at a breakfast at the White House, where the President's guests were the Republican leaders of the House of Representatives and other prominent members. From that time on throughout the day, the President was active in stimulating his followers in Senate and House to renewed efforts to make a record on which the party could go to the country in the coming campaign.

Results Show Quickly.

As a result of the series of conferences, these results were obtained:

1. An agreement by which the immigration bill will be amended so as to postpone until March 1, 1925, the time for putting the Asiatic exclusion clause into effect, to enable the State Department to negotiate arrangements with Japan that will soften the effect of the exclusion feature. This agreement was sanctioned late this afternoon by the members of the joint conference committee of the Senate and House, which has been engaged in harmonizing the differences between the two houses over the immigration measure.

2. The recommendation of President Coolidge, originally advanced by President Harding and Secretary Hughes, that provision be made for American participation in the International Court of Justice set up by the League of Nations at The Hague, will be brought forward in the Senate without delay in a modified form. The indications are that the proposal will provide that the scope of the present international tribunal of arbitration at The Hague, to which the United States is a party, shall be amplified to give the tribunal the functions of a Court of Justice. This would meet the objection by some Senators to having the United States affiliate with the League's World Court. The plan calls for supplementary action to enable the President to initiate exchanges, with a view to another international conference on limitation of armament, with the likelihood that economic questions would be included in the agenda.

3. Some of those who conferred with the President came away convinced that he would veto the Soldiers' Bonus bill, which has been passed by the Senate and the House by large majorities.

Opposes Radical Farm Bill.

4. While expressing himself in favor of having Congress enact agricultural aid legislation at this session, the President made it clear that he was opposed to the McNary-Haugen bill in its present form, and the impression was conveyed that he would be inclined to veto it if it were not considerably modified. This bill would require the Government to furnish $200,000,000 capital to a Gov-

'Uncle Joe' Celebrates His 88th Birthday; President and House Wire Congratulations

Special to The New York Times.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 7.—The eighty-eighth birthday of "Uncle Joe" Cannon was quietly celebrated here today with just a few close friends of the veteran Representative invited to attend a dinner party at his home. Miss Helen Cannon, who has devoted herself to the care of her father since Mrs. Cannon's death in 1880, returned on the Leviathan from a six months' tour of Europe, making the trip especially to be at home for the birthday celebration.

Asked by a correspondent if cards would be played after the dinner, Mr. Cannon replied: "It may end in the national game sometimes called a discussion of the rights of property." His passion for poker is well known.

"Uncle Joe" will come out of retirement temporarily on May 16, when he will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the district meeting of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce to be held in Danville. He refused to give any hint of the subject of his speech.

After a several months' abstinence from the use of tobacco, he has resumed the smoking of cigars.

Among the telegrams received by Mr. Cannon today was one from President Coolidge reading:

"My cordial greetings and best wishes go to you on your anniversary."

WASHINGTON, May 7.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, 88 years old today, was remembered by the House over which he presided for many years.

At the suggestion of Representative Garrett, Tennessee, the Democratic leader, a message was sent to the former Speaker felicitating him and wishing him continued health and happiness.

A brief tribute was paid to Mr. Cannon by Representative Holaday, Republican, who succeeded him as a Representative from the Eighteenth Illinois District.

NEW CORPORATE TAX, URGED BY DEMOCRATS, ADOPTED BY SENATE

Jones Amendment for Levy on Undistributed Earnings Wins by 43 to 32.

TAXES TO BE GRADUATED

ESTATE TAX ALSO ALTERED

Democratic Amendment Shifts Levy and Makes It a Direct Burden Upon Inheritances.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—By a vote of 43 to 32 the Senate inserted in the Revenue bill tonight the Democratic amendment taxing undistributed corporation earnings on a graduating scale running to 40 per cent., a system to which President Coolidge vigorously objects. The vote, which came at 7:45 o'clock, was preceded by a long day of speeches, the principal being made by Senator Jones of New Mexico, author of the amendment, and Senator Smoot, its leading opponent.

Again the coalition between Democrats and Republican Radicals won. Six of the insurgents voted with the minority. None of the regular Republicans voted for the Jones amendment, but for the Finance Committee amendment, which would have replaced the existing 12½ per cent. flat corporation tax and the capital stock tax of $1 per $1,000 with a flat tax of 14 per cent.

The Jones amendment imposes a flat or normal tax of 9 per cent. on corporation earnings, and also taxes undistributed earnings above 10 per cent. on a graduated basis, starting with one-quarter of 1 per cent. and going upward to 40 per cent. on undistributed earnings above 80 per cent. Just before the vote was taken, Senator Jones said that he would later accept amendments suggested by Senator Adams, exempting corporations with earnings below $15,000 or $18,000 from his graduated levies.

The vote was as follows:

Inheritance Tax Accepted.

Before the Senate adjourned tonight the inheritance tax proposed by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Democrat, as a substitute for the estates tax, was accepted on motion of Senator Smoot. The Walsh tax runs from 1 per cent. on $25,000 up to 20 per cent. above $5,000,000.

The present law imposes a tax of 1 per cent. on $50,000, running to 25 per cent. above $10,000,000. The House has approved an estates tax which ran from 1 per cent. on $50,000 to 40 per cent. above $10,000,000, but the Finance Committee struck out the House provision and reverted to the present law.

Beginning at 1 per cent. on $25,000, the Walsh tax adds an additional 1 per cent. for each $25,000 until $100,000 is reached. Between $100,000 and $200,000, there is a tax of 6 per cent. The other schedules are 9 per cent. on $200,000—$500,000; 12 per cent. on $500,000—$1,000,000; 18 per cent. on $1,000,000—$2,000,000; 24 per cent. on $2,000,000—$3,000,000; 30 per cent. on $3,000,000—$5,000,000 and 36 per cent. above $5,000,000.

The important change made under the Walsh amendment is the taxation of the beneficiary direct, rather than the estate itself. The decision of Mr. Smoot to accept it was based on his belief that differences between the Democrats and Republicans could be ironed out in conference.

Jones Attacks Holding Companies.

Opening the debate today, Senator Jones in opposing a flat 14 per cent. tax on corporations said that if a graduated scale was imposed on individuals, corporations should be taxed likewise. The 14 per cent. tax, he argued, penalized the small corporation and benefited the larger concerns. Speaking of the holding companies, Senator Jones asserted:

"They pay no tax on dividends; they are being availed of for the purpose of preventing payment of just taxes."

His plan, stated the author, would raise as much revenue as the committee scheme. He added that the 14 per cent. flat rate was unfair when it forced corporations with small incomes to pay as much as an individual with an income of $54,000.

Senator Jones did not name Henry Ford, but he referred to the Ford Corporation as an illustration of how taxation was avoided, in his opinion.

Replying to Senator Jones, Senator Smoot said:

"This amendment would levy a flat tax of 9 per cent. upon all of the income of corporations, and an additional tax ranging from one-quarter of 1 per cent. to 40 per cent., upon the undistributed profits of the corporations. It provides in addition that the income subject to this undistributed profits tax shall include both the dividends received by the corporation on stock owned by it and the interest received by the corporation on all Federal securities except those wholly exempt from taxation."

"These figures show clearly that the supposed necessity for the adoption of an undistributed profits tax does not exist, and that industrial companies, the ones which would be most seriously crippled by such a tax, are not guilty of the acts which the tax is designed to penalize.

"The harmful effect of such a tax upon the business development of the country cannot be exaggerated. The estimates of the effect of the plan upon the revenues are that the undistributed profits tax would itself raise only $6,000,000 a year, but that it would increase the yield of su tax by $300,000,000 a year in other words, the estimates submitted show that it would force the distribution by the corporations of $3,000,000 which otherwise would be retained in the business and would interfere to this extent with the business expansion and development of the country through corporate business."

Senator Smoot submitted for the record a table showing a comparison of the market and book value of certain securities. He declared that the market value was only 78 per cent. of the book value and represented "an excellent cross section of the American industrial situation."

Plans for Accord Fail Thus Far.

Negotiations between certain radicals and old line Republicans went on today behind the scenes in an effort to exchange promises of some sort of farm legislation for insurgent support of a surtax maximum of 37½ per cent.

Although Administration leaders worked hard to rally radical votes to a surtax schedule with which to replace the Democratic one written into the bill, no progress was made.

Senator Watson, acting for the Republican leaders, and Senator Norbeck as a liaison officer for the La Follette group, talked over the situation several times during the day, but later it was reported that Mr. Norbeck said the radicals insisted that if any farm legislation was promised it must be of a very substantial character; in fact, probably more far reaching than the Administration would countenance. On the other hand, the regular Republicans said they could not support the McNary-Haugen bill, which appeared to be the prize the radicals demanded.

Direct overtures were made to the radicals at a Republican conference in the forenoon when Senators Norbeck, Howell, Ladd and Frazier appeared. Nothing definite came of this meeting either, but others will be held.

Senator Norbeck was willing to support a surtax maximum as low as 32 per cent. if the Republican leaders would promise him the McNary-Haugen bill, but this offer was rejected. Later Senator Norbeck found that other radicals would not favor that rate, nor, it seems, any one lower than the Democratic 40 per cent. maximum.

Indirect impressions received by House members at a recent White House breakfast that Mr. Coolidge would, after all, sign a bill carrying the Longworth 37½ per cent. maximum, drifted over to the Senate, where radicals commented that if this was true they believed the President would not refuse to approve a bill with the Democratic schedules, which closely parallel the Longworth program in the lower brackets.

Speeches by Senators Reed of Pennsylvania, Brookhart, Johnson of Minnesota, Walsh of Massachusetts, Adams and Glass followed Senator Smoot's.

The vote on the Asiatic exclusion clause of the Immigration bill intervened at this point, and then Senator Reed of Missouri began to speak on the estates tax amendment.

AGAIN SAYS COOLIDGE GAVE FORD MESSAGE

J. M. Miller Testifies President Asserted He 'Was Trying to Deliver Muscle Shoals.'

WASHINGTON, May 7.—James Martin Miller, who in a telegram quoted President Coolidge as saying that he (the President) was "trying to deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford, told the Senate Agriculture Committee today that he had "correctly and truthfully" stated the facts in the message which he sent to Mr. Ford's secretary within twenty-five minutes after an interview with the President.

The President, Mr. Miller said, did not deny the interview had taken place. Mr. Coolidge, he insisted, brought up the subject of Muscle Shoals.

"The branding of the telegram as a lie is a gross political dissemination," he said.

Before the witness took the stand, Chairman Norris inserted in the record the letter sent to the committee by Henry Ford, in which the manufacturer said he would not be represented further before the committee, giving as one of the reasons "the recent efforts of Chairman Norris to reflect upon the integrity of the President of the United States in connection with our offer for Muscle Shoals."

At the same time, the Chairman issued a statement.

"I have no ill feelings toward any one in connection with Muscle Shoals," he said. "Mr. Ford's statement, published in the papers, that I have been trying to reflect upon the integrity of the President is simply an attempt to shift the attention of the public from the real question at issue.

"I am sincerely endeavoring to save for the people of the United States the valuable inheritance of our national resources and I will continue to do this regardless of results, and regardless of who may be involved. I do not want a controversy with the President or with any one else, but I will not deviate from what I believe to be my duty in bringing out the proper evidence before the committee, regardless of what the effect may be, either upon me or upon any one else.

"The evidence stands undisputed that the President did have an interview with Mr. Miller on the twelfth of October, 1923, and it is undisputed that Mr. Miller sent the telegram printed in the record, and that such telegram was received by Mr. Ford's private secretary. It is also undisputed that following the telegram, Mr. Miller went to Detroit and talked the matter over with Mr. Ford's secretary and with Mr. Ford himself.

"The President has not denied that the subject of this interview was Muscle Shoals. He has simply stated that he has not made an attempt to turn Muscle Shoals over to anybody. I read the President's statement into the record, so that all sides of the controversy may be heard. The committee and the Senate as well as the public can draw their own conclusions."

Gustavus Obert Jr., President of the National Fertilizer Association, told the committee there was no fertilizer trust and that there was "the fiercest kind" of competition in the trade.

Panama Canal Traffic Increases.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Secretary Weeks today received reports of the traffic movement through the Panama Canal, just compiled, indicating a gratifying increase in its tonnage for the first quarter of 1924 over that for the same quarter of 1923.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific traffic in the 1924 period was 1,985,675 tons, an increase of 145,905 tons over 1923. From the Pacific to the Atlantic the tonnage in 1924 was 4,967,745, an increase of 1,702,277 tons. The canal authorities reported there was reason to believe that 1924 would establish new records for inter-coastal lumber shipments.

Name Husband for Wife's M. P. Seat

LONDON, May 7.—Mrs. Hilton Philipson, Conservative member for the Berwick-on-Tweed Division of Northumberland, has decided to give up her place in the House and go back to the home as soon as the present Parliament ends, seemingly having concluded that she cannot do her best in both at the same time. Captain Hilton Philipson, her husband, whom she succeeded as member for the constituency, was unanimously adopted today at a Unionist meeting of the Berwick constituency as that party's prospective candidate for his wife's seat in the next general elections.

ADMITS DAUGHERTY PUT SPY ON WHEELER

Burns Tells Senate Committee Gaston B. Means Also Was Trailed by Justice Agent.

LOCKWOOD IN CONFERENCE

He and Coan Discussed Wheeler With the Then Attorney General, Burns Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—William J. Burns, Chief of the Bureau of Investigations in the Department of Justice, admitted today that former Attorney General Daugherty had instructed him to send out an agent to look into the record of Senator Wheeler.

Testifying today before the Senate committee investigating the conduct of the Justice Department under Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Burns said also that a Justice agent had been assigned to shadow Gaston B. Means, one of the principal witnesses before the committee. He denied, however, that this agent had obtained the diaries and documents which Mr. Means reported losing recently.

M. P. Kraffmiller, who for several months in 1921 lived at the Lafayette Hotel and the "Little Green House in K Street" with Howard Mannington, also was called today. He testified that he had entered into business transactions with Mr. Mannington, whereby fees were paid for the services in obtaining liquor permits and for appearance in other cases before Government departments, including the Internal Revenue Bureau and the Shipping Board.

In one transaction, involving liquor permits, the witness said, a fee of $20,000 was split between himself and Mr. Mannington. In another there was a fee of $25,000, all of which was retained by Mr. Mannington. The witness did not admit that he had done anything in violation of the law, but named several cases in which he said Mr. Mannington had been engaged.

Mr. Kraffmiller also testified that a lawyer named Fred Caskey of Marietta, Ohio, who had come here with Mr. Mannington, had bought an expensive house in Washington a few months after arriving here, although he had been without funds at the time he came to Washington.

Mr. Kraffmiller said Mr. Mannington was Mr. Caskey's only client and that Mr. Caskey's only office was in the "Little Green House." The witness said Mr. Mannington had refused to return retainers given in cases where results were not obtained. He (Kraffmiller), however, had been forced to make repayments to clients in such cases, and had been thrown into bankruptcy as a result of his expenses.

Tells of Means Being Shadowed.

Mr. Burns was first asked about the dollar-a-year men who have acted as special agents of the Department of Justice. He said he did not have the names and would not want to make them public without the consent of the Attorney General.

"The Attorney Genergl has directed that all of the dollar-a-year men be discontinued," said Mr. Burns.

Senator Wheeler asked Mr. Burns if he had a man working for him in the Bureau of Investigation by the name of Bonner. The witness said Mr. Bonner had been an employe for "a couple of years or more."

Mr. Bonner, Mr. Burns then said, had been detailed by him to watch Gaston B. Means, one of the committee witnesses, since the committee investigation started.

"And you had him shadow Mr. Means, did you?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"Yes," said Mr. Burns.

"And watch his papers?"

"No, we had nothing to do with his papers at all. They followed Mr. Means wherever hi went. That was done at the suggestion of the Assistant Attorney General [Hiram C. Todd], who was in charge of the prosecution of Mr. Means in New York."

Mr. Burns said he knew that Mr. Bonner had not obtained any of the papers and documents which Mr. Means has stated were taken from him. Mr. Bonner, he said, was in charge of the local office here and had been assisted by some of his men in shadowing Mr. Means.

Mr. Burns replied in the affirmative when asked if he knew Blair Coan, who has figured in the investigations made in Montana by The National Republican and the Republican National Committee in connection with the indictment of Senator Wheeler by a Montana Grand Jury. He admitted that he had recently had dinner with Mr. Coan at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. Burns also said that Mr. Coan had introduced H. C. Glosser to him. Mr. Glosser was formerly secretary to Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator who employed Senator Wheeler as counsel, and has appeared as one of the witnesses against Senator Wheeler.

Pressed to tell where this meeting took place, Mr. Burns finally said:

"I think it was at the Department of Justice, or it may have been in the hotel where he was stopping. I lunch there."

He denied, however, that he had a conference of any kind with Mr. Glosser.

"How many times have you consulted with Mr. Coan since he has been here in the city, since he was subpoenaed before the other committee?" demanded Senator Wheeler.

"Let me ask," interrupted Chairman Brookhart, "how many times have you consulted with him in reference to Senator Wheeler's case out in Montana?"

"Well, we talked about Senator Wheeler's case, I guess, every time I saw him," replied Mr. Burns. "I should say four or five times."

"And that was both at the Department of Justice and at the Wardman Park Hotel?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Burns.

Conferred With Lockwood.

Mr. Burns was asked if he also had conferred with George B. Lockwood, Secretary of the Republican National Committee and editor of The National Republican, who retained Mr. Coan to go out to Montana on the Wheeler case.

"Yes, I have met Mr. Lockwood and talked with him," said Mr. Burns.

"Yes, and consulted with him frequently with reference to myself?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"I wouldn't say frequently," replied Mr. Burns.

"And you conferred with him about it before any one was sent to Montana at all, did you not?"

"Yes, I think I did."

"Would you say, I demanded" Senator Wheeler, "that you did not at any time confer with Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Lockwood in the Wardman Park Hotel previous to any one being sent to Montana?"

"I positively say I did not."

"Did you at any time confer with them after this case came up?"

"Yes, after this case came up."

"And what date was that?"

"Oh, well, I couldn't tell you the dates."

Mr. Burns said he kept no diary in addition to a record that was made at his office of persons who called on him.

"Well, where was it that you met Mr. Daugherty and talked about this matter?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"I called upon Mr. Daugherty one night at his apartment and found Mr. Lockwood there, among a number of others," said Mr. Burns.

"Yes, and then is when you talked to him about this Wheeler case?" asked Chairman Brookhart.

"Yes, we talked about the Wheeler case," replied Mr. Burns.

"Was that before or after the indictment?"

"It must have been before," said Mr. Burns.

Mr. Burns said he had never met Mr. Lockwood until a "couple of months ago."

"Now, Mr. Burns," said Senator Wheeler, "How many men, if any at all, did your private agency send into Montana?"

Mr. Burns appeared indignant at this question.

"Now, let me tell you something," he said belligerently, "they have never had anything to do with this under any circumstances. I know there are a lot of fellows around here trying to give you the impression that that is true. I am telling you it is not true. I know there are a lot of these lice around here trying to—"

"Wait a minute, Mr. Burns," said Senator Wheeler. "There is not any excuse at all for your getting excited."

"Yes, there is," retorted Mr. Burns, angrily. "If you knew as much about it as I do you would get excited."

"And there is no use of browbeating the committee, because we don't get worried about it," persisted Senator Wheeler.

"I take exception to that," said Mr. Burns. "I am not trying to browbeat the committee and the committee is not going to browbeat me."

"We have not the slightest intention of trying to browbeat you," said Senator Wheeler.

"All right, go ahead, and I will answer any questions you want to ask," said Mr. Burns.

"And you do not need to tell me when I should go ahead," said Senator Wheeler sharply.

"I am not trying to tell you, Senator," said Mr. Burns.

The witness said he knew Howard Mannington very well, but did not know anything about Mr. Mannington having headquarters in the "little green house in K Street.' He said he knew Mr. Kraffmiller, but did not know that he had lived in Washington with Mr. Mannington. He never knew that Mr. Mannington had an office at the Department of Justice, but did know that Jess Smith used an office in the Department of Justice.

Sent Agent on Wheeler Inquiry.

"You also know that he [Jess Smith] gave orders to various people there in the Department of Justice?"

"No, I never heard him give an order in his life."

Mr. Burns said Mr. Daugherty had sent messages to him by Jess Smith, but that these were verbal messages.

Mr. Burns said he had a man by the name of Ralph Hateley working for him in the Department of Justice. He said Mr. Hateley had been sent by him, at the direction of Attorney General Daugherty, first to Washington Court House, Ohio, and later to Nashville in connection with an inquiry concerning Senator Wheeler.

Mr. Hateley, said Burns, died four or five weeks ago. He had been working for the Government in New York for about a year.

"You sent him on these trips to get evidence against Senator Wheeler was that the purpose?" asked Chairman Brookhart.

"We sent him to—there was a man at Washington Court House who claimed that he had information to the effect that—I forget just exactly what it was, but I can refresh my recollection on it," replied Mr. Burns. "I told him to go out and see this man and find out what it was."

"And Mr. Daugherty had instructed you to do that?" Asked Senator Brookhart.

"Yes," said Mr. Burns. "He went out there and found the man he wanted to see was somewhere in Illinois. And when the man went out there to see him he came back and told me that the man did not have any information, that he merely wanted to bring yourself [Senator Wheeler] and Mr. Daugherty together."

Mr. Burns later corrected this testimony to say that the man was found in Nashville, Tenn., not in Illinois.

"And Mr. Daugherty told you to send the man?" Asked Senator Wheeler.

"He told me to investigate that matter," replied Mr. Burns.

Says Mannington Aid Got Rich.

M. P. Kraffmiller of Lagrange, Ill., who lived for several months with Howard Mannington in 1921, first at the Lafayette Hotel and later at the "little green house on K Street," told of his relations with Mr. Mannington. The witness said he met Mr. Mannington at the Republican National Convention in June, 1920, when Mr. Mannington was associated with Harry M. Daugherty in the campaign to obtain the nomination of President Harding.

The next time he met Mr. Mannington, the witness said, was in August, 1920, at Marion, Ohio. Mr. Kraffmiller said he went to Marion to turn over $7,000 or $8,000 which he had collected among his friends in Chicago as campaign funds. This money, he said, was given by him to Mr. Mannington. Mr. Kraffmiller added that he met Mr. Daugherty at Marion either in August or September of 1920, when he had gone down with a few additional campaign funds. He had also met Jess Smith, Mr. Crisinger, now Governor of the Federal Reserve Board; William Halle, then Clerk of the Ohio Senate, and former Congressman Cole.

Mr. Mannington, said Mr. Kraffmiller, was manager of the front porch campaign at Marion. Mr. Kraffmiller added that he had visited Marion four times and took with him in all from $12,000 to $15,000 in campaign contributions. Mr. Mannington, he said, occupied headquarters adjoining the Harding home at Marion. He denied that Mr. Mannington had ever promised him anything in return for the campaign contributions he made.

"About March 10," said the witness, "Mr. Mannington took an apartment with me at the Lafayette Hotel and we remained there until May 1, 1921."

Senator Wheeler asked Mr. Kraffmiller if he had entered into any business arrangements with Mr. Mannington and the witness replied in the affirmative.

"The first," said Mr. Kraffmiller, "was the getting of a wholesale liquor permit for the General Drug Company of Chicago. Mr. Mannington did not get it. A Mr. Caskey got it, either in August or September of the same year. Mr. Caskey was an attorney from Marietta, Ohio, who was working with Mr. Mannington."

It was established that Mr. Caskey was Fred Caskey of Marietta, Ohio. Mr. Kraffmiller said Mr. Caskey had no financial resources when he came to Washington with Mr. Mannington and had, in fact, borrowed money from him, but a few months later had purchased an expensive home in Wisconsin Avenue.

Mr. Kraffmiller said he did not remember all of the details of the first transaction. Senator Wheeler asked him how much money was involved and the witness replied that "they (the drug company) paid the sum of $20,000 to me."

"What did you do with it?" asked Senator Wheeler.

"I retained $6,334.37 and the balance of it, $15,666.67 to be exact, I gave to Mannington," said the witness. "Mr. Mannington retained that amount, with the exception of $1,500 which he paid to Mr. Caskey for legal services."

Says Mannington Got Justice Files.

Senator Wheeler interrupted the course of the examination to inquire if it was not a fact that Mr. Mannington had access to Department of Justice files and that some of these files had been in the apartment occupied by Mr. Mannington and Mr. Kraffmiller in the Lafayette Hotel.

Mr. Kraffmiller replied that such was the fact, and he had seen the files there, but believed that they had to do with political patronage.

"I believe the Attorney General (Mr. Daugherty) asked Mr. Mannington to assist him in these things and to make recommendations," said Mr. Kraffmiller.

The witness said the "little green house in K Street" had been rented from May 1, 1921, at a rental of $300 a month, by Mr. Mannington and himself. He remembered one occasion when William A. Orr, private secretary to former Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York, had brought a suitcase containing liquor there.

He also testified that twenty-five or thirty cases of liquor had been delivered at the house, but he could not testify whether any of this liquor had come from the Commodore Hotel, as Senator Wheeler inferred.

Mr. Kraffmiller said that he knew Nick Cimino, who has appeared as one of the witnesses before the Senate committee. He said Cimino was a friend of Mannington and had first come to Washington about the appointment of an Italian to a job in New York. Cimino, said the witness, had also been proprietor of the Italian kitchen in New York.

Mr. Kraffmiller also recalled one conversation in which Mr. Cimino had complained that he was unable to work with "Bill Orr and the rest of the crowd in New York"; that he wanted to get more than 50 cents a case out of the whisky transactions being carried on and intended to complain to Mr. Mannington about it. Mr. Kraffmiller said he had talked with Mr. Mannington, and the latter had said:

The next business transaction he had with Mr. Mannington, the witness said involved the J. B. Scheur Company. This company, he said, had given him $25,000 to get two manufacturing permits and one wholesale liquor permit, and he had turned the entire sum over to Mr. Mannington.

Another case was that of Meecham & Babcock, who had a claim involving more than $1,000,000 before the United States Shipping Board. The fee was $5,000, and of this sum the witness said he turned over $2,500 to Mr. Mannington. The case was not settled and still is pending, he said.

Checks signed by Mr. Kraffmiller in connection with various transactions were produced and identified by the witness. Most of them were made out to Mr. Mannington.

The witness said he knew Jess Smith, and had seen him at the K Street house two or three times a week consulting with Mr. Mannington, but he (Kraffmiller) was excluded from these conferences.

Saw Haynes at "K Street House."

The witness also said he had met Roy A. Haynes, the Federal Prohibition Commissioner, at the K Street house. Mr. Haynes, he said, had come there to see Mr. Mannington about the appointment of a Prohibition Director for Ohio. The man endorsed by Haynes was not named, however, and the appointee, according to Mr. Kraffmiller, was the candidate of William Halle, one of Mr. Mannington's coworkers in Ohio.

George B. Christian, secretary to President Harding, also had been at the K Street house on one or two occasions, Mr. Kraffmiller said, but he did not recall that Mr. Daugherty had been there.

Conrad W. Crooker, general counsel for the Stockholders' Protective Association of the Boston and Maine Railroad, continued his criticism of former Attorney General Daugherty's action in regard to the New Haven decree when the session opened today.

He said he thought Federal Judge Mayer of New York had been imposed upon by Mr. Daugherty. As far as legal ability went, Mr. Crooker said, he considered Mr. Daugherty as the greatest false alarm that ever sat in the Department of Justice." As a result of what Mr. Daugherty accomplished in the New Haven case, the witness charged, the railroad had been restored to the position where it could violate the Sherman Anti-Trust act just as it was before the prosecution was started in 1914.

Mr. Crooker alleged that Mr. Daugherty had failed to prosecute the indictments against certain directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. He also criticized the course which had been taken by former Attorney General Wickersham.

"In our neck of the woods," said the witness, "it has been the policy of the Republicans to let these people go, and that of the Democrats to stop them, and I say that as a Republican."

MACDONALD DECLARES FOR AN ARMS PARLEY

British Parliament May Support Senate Action Here—Australia Also Is Favorable.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 7.—The British Parliament may pass a resolution similar to the rider attached by the United States Senate to the Navy Appropriation bill, asking for a conference for further limitation of armaments.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, asked today by Commander Kenworthy whether he would consider making proposals to the powers for a conference of this kind, replied:

"I am most anxious for further steps to be taken for the limitation of naval armaments."

Commander Kenworthy asked:

"Has the right honorable gentleman observed the rider passed by the United States Senate to the Navy Appropriation bill, asking for a conference, and can he do anything to meet it?"

Mr. MacDonald replied:

"I have observed it. They repeated it later. They have done it not once, but twice. I welcome it."

Sir Archibald Sinclair asked:

"Will the right honorable gentleman give an opportunity to the House of passing a resolution in a similar sense?"

Mr. MacDonald answered:

"I should be very glad to [illegible] the opportunity could be found in the course of the estimates, or something which will at any rate amount to that."

The Prime Minister's statement was received with applause.

Notice was given of a motion to the effect "that the time has arrived for another conference on disarmament, to be called to deal with all surface and sub-surface craft of 10,000 tons' displacement and less, and aircraft and other craft outside the scope of the Washington conference."

Australia Also Favorable.

MELBOURNE, May 7.—When Parliament resumed its sittings today Mr. Charlton, Labor leader, asked the Prime Minister whether he would use his influence in favor of the proposal by President Coolidge for another conference to consider a further reduction of armaments. Premier Bruce replied that the Government was very much in favor of such action.

"The matter had recently been considered by the British Government, he said, and the Australian Ministers were keeping closely in touch with events and would be glad to cooperate in any proposals to promote the world's peace.

Smoot Blocks Textile Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The proposed inquiry into the depression in the textile industry received a setback in the Senate today when Senator Smoot objected to consideration of the resolution authorizing it. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, author of the resolution, declared he would object to further recesses of the Senate unless opportunity was given to consider his proposal.

PRESIDENT PRESSES CONGRESS TO SPEED

ernment-controlled corporation, which would organize the machinery to sell surplus farm products. The President is said to oppose the measure, not only on the ground of economy but also because he regards the plan as a direct subsidy to farmers. It is understood that he would be inclined to approve a farm-aid measure that would provide for co-operation of farmers.

5. The President made it clear to conferees that he does not favor any large appropriation to increase the salaries of postal employes in the present condition of the Treasury. He is against the pending measure for increasing pay because it does not provide the means of raising the needed revenue.

6. While there was no discussion of the pending tax reduction measure at the White House conferences it became apparent during the day that the President had strong objections to the Tax bill as it was amended by the Senate. He objects particularly to the Senate corporation tax and the provision for publicity of income tax returns.

The White House breakfast was followed by a general conference of Republican Senators in which several members of the La Follette group, who have been shy of participating in party plans, agreed to take part. The insurgents were Senators Ladd, Norbeck, Howell and Frazier. The purpose of the conference was to agree upon a measure to provide aid for farmers. The exchange of views in the conference will be the basis of an effort to get the La Follette group to agree to modifications of pending farm aid bills which it sponsors.

Those who partook of sausage, eggs, coffee and waffles, with Vermont maple syrup, at the President's breakfast table were Speaker Gillett, Representative Longworth, leader of the House; Representative Green, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee; Representative Snell, Chairman of the Committee on Rules; Representative Madden, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations; Representatives Crampton, Begg, Magee, Darrow, Tichner, Sanders, Graham and Sinnott.

These Representatives told the President that they would be ready for adjournment early in June. Senate Republicans had told the President that they were hopeful of being ready to adjourn the first week in June. Out of the conference grew a suggestion that an effort be made to have adjournment take place by June 7.

Much doubt exists over the prospect of an early adjournment. Democratic leaders in Senate and House have indicated that they intended to keep Congress in session an indefinite period on the ground that there was much legislation to dispose of. One suggestion that has come from Democrats is that they will agree to a recess during the two big conventions, but will insist that Congress resume work in July. Some Democrats say, however, that if Congress quits work in June it should be final adjournment until the regular session in December.

The proposal to adjourn early in June received a setback from a Republican source in the Senate this afternoon when Senator Gooding of Idaho said:

"To Senators on the Republican side of the chamber let me say that you have had three years now to give agriculture some permanent relief. You did give them the best tariff bill that has ever been enacted so far as agriculture is concerned. Let me say again that it saved agriculture in this country from a complete ruin. Do not make any mistake about that.

"But if you adjourn this session of Congress without doing something for agriculture I do not believe either one of the old political parties will carry more than one or two States west of the Mississippi, and I want to say that you would not be entitled to carry them under those circumstances. So far as I am concerned I am going to fight here until some action is taken, not only to save agriculture but to save industry and to save the country from the most deplorable condition that any civilized Government ever saw in recent times."

President Coolidge's friends are immensely pleased over the outcome of the California primaries. That Mr. Coolidge should defeat Senator Johnson in the latter's own State, which he had swept repeatedly since his election to the Senate in 1916, was a surprise in spite of reports from California that the trend was toward Coolidge. Most of them thought these reports too good to be true.

Among Californians here the defeat of Johnson is regarded as a logical outcome of Mr. Johnson's recent attitude as to his candidacy for the Presidential nomination. His supporters felt that he had withdrawn as a candidate against President Coolidge when the latter defeated him in South Dakota. The refusal of Johnson to withdraw hurt him among California Republicans, it is said, and many felt that it would serve no good purpose to vote for him in what was already seen to be a lost cause.

The defeat of Johnson has a wider application in national politics, however, according to one view expressed among Republicans here. They construe it as eliminating Senator Johnson from any chance for higher political honors in the future.

The result of the California primary is interpreted as demonstrating the strength of President Coolidge with his party. There was a feeling here that his attitude toward Japanese exclusion would weaken his candidacy in the California primaries. But the result of the California contest is held to show that Coolidge is popular on the Pacific Coast as elsewhere in the country.

HONEST TAXI DRIVER FINDS $75,000 GEMS

STARTS SEARCH BY PHONE

Manager Is Giving List of Woman's Jewels to Police When Chauffeur Returns Them.

Mrs. Charles May Swift of Ferrisburg, Vt., hurrying to catch a train at the Grand Central Terminal yesterday forenoon, forgot a case containing jewels valued at between $75,000 and $100,000, which she had placed beside her in a taxicab when she left the Plaza Hotel, where she had been stopping while on a visit to this city. When she missed the jewels after leaving the cab, she hurried to a telephone in the terminal and called up James Brennan, manager of the hotel, and asked him to have a search made for the gems.

Mr. Brennan took a list of the missing jewelry over the telephone and then called up Lieutenant Joseph Ryan at the East Fifty-first Street Station to ask that a general alarm be sent out for them.

Lieutenant Ryan had scribbled down about half the list of gems when a chauffeur entered the station and walking up to the lieutenant in the telephone booth said:

"I've got a box of jewels here that a woman left in my cab."

"Hold the wire a moment," the lieutenant yelled excitedly to the hotel manager, as he turned to examine the jewel case held out by the chauffeur.

"Where did the woman enter your cab?" the lieutenant asked the chauffeur, who said he was John Cody of 99 Thirteenth Avenue, Astoria, and that he owned the cab he drove.

"In front of the Plaza Hotel," replied the chauffeur. "I drove her to the Grand Central Terminal, and when she walked inside I noticed this case on the seat. I ran in after her, but she had disappeared, so I decided to bring the case and its contents here right away."

Lieutenant Ryan lifted the lid of the case and at once saw that some of the gems answered the description of Mrs. Swift's jewels. Over the phone he said:

"I think we've got those jewels already, Mr. Brennan. A chauffeur just brought them in. Come around right away and look at them."

Mr. Brennan hurried over to the station in a taxicab, and when the list of Mrs. Swift's gems were compared with those in the case both Lieutenant Ryan and the hotel manager agreed they were Mrs. Swift's property.

The lieutenant made an inventory of the jewels which was sent to the Detective Bureau. It read as follows:

"One necklace, thirty-one blue stones and 261 diamonds; one necklace, twenty-one pearls; one platinum necklace with a large pearl pendant, surmounted by a scroll containing three large diamonds and six small diamonds; one brooch, containing seven turquoises and seven diamonds; one bracelet containing five medium-sized pearls; one lady's ring, containing four large diamonds; one bar pin set with eight large diamonds; one breast pin containing eighteen small rubies, and one bracelet containig nine pearls."

M'LEAN AND ZEVELY GO BEFORE GRAND JURY

Publisher and Sinclair's Counsel Are Witnesses at Hearing on Oil Criminal Charges.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, and J. W. Zevely, of counsel for Harry F. Sinclair, were called as witnesses today before the special oil Grand Jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Mr. McLean was required under his subpoena to produce all telegrams and letters exchanged between himself and Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior and principal figure in the Senate oil inquiry. This correspondence and Mr. McLean's private telegrams have been the subject of an exhaustive examination by the Senate oil committee.

Mr. McLean testified before the Senate investigators that he had agreed, at the request of Mr. Fall, to say that he had loaned the former Cabinet officer $100,000 cash, instead of giving him unused checks for that amount. At the same time the publisher denied any knowledge with respect to the oil leases or the actual source of the loan, which he subsequently learned Mr. Fall had obtained from Edward L. Doheny, lessee of Naval Reserve 1.

Mr. Zevely testified before the Senate committee that Mr. Sinclair loaned Mr. Fall $25,000 in Liberty bonds four months after the Secretary left the Cabinet, and at the time that he was requested to make a trip to Europe for the lessee of Teapot Dome. Mr. Zevely produced before the committee a note for $25,000 which, he said, was an evidence of the debt.

If you knew what ageing in wood does for pipe tobacco

Even the finest Kentucky Burley Tobacco (and that's the kind we use) is green and raw when it's pulled. You could hardly smoke one pipe load of it.

And here's where Velvet is different: Our ageing takes out that rawness and harshness, and makes the tobacco mild and mellow and gives it fine flavor. Ageing in wood does what no artificial treatment can do.

A Few Facts Concerning The Telegram-Mail

This statement is to say that the gossip, more or less industriously circulated, to the effect that I intend selling The New York Telegram and Evening Mail hasn't a shred of truth in it. I have no such thought, no such intention.

The Telegram-Mail in combination is giving a better account of itself than I reasoned it would before buying The Mail—the conclusion on which I decided to make the purchase.

The average circulation of The Telegram-Mail for the three months since they were amalgamated has been well in excess of 200,000 COPIES a day—net cash sales. And better yet, every week The Telegram-Mail is steadily forging ahead in circulation, spontaneous, natural circulation—not superinduced circulation.

In the matter of advertising The Telegram-Mail is giving a good account of itself. It is carrying more display advertising than The Evening Mail carried, and with the exception of The Sun and The Evening Journal carries a larger total lineage of advertising than any other evening newspaper in New York.

In my newspaper experience I have never known a newspaper that had a better field for large development or a brighter outlook for such development than The Telegram-Mail in combination now has.

GIVES COONTZ DATA ON NAVY WEAKNESS

Department Makes Public Admiral's Report Emphasizing Fleet's Bad Condition.

FOUR BATTLESHIPS UNFIT

Others Need Modernizing, With Guns Elevated to Provide Longer Range.

SUBMARINES WERE FAILURE

Aircraft Prove Disappointment—Weakness Of and Need For More Auxiliary Vessels Stressed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—With the publication today by the Navy Department of the complete text of the report of Admiral Robert E. Coontz on the Winter manoeuvres of the fleet, a summary of which was previously published in THE NEW YORK TIMES, the emphatic nature of the Commander-in-Chief's views in the weakness displayed by the battle forces and their auxiliaries became apparent. Admiral Coontz made sweeping recommendations for changes.

The material condition of the fleet is "not as good as it should be," the Admiral reports, and there "are a number of major defects which can be corrected only by a correction of national policy." He declares it will require a long time to "get the fleet up to date," because of its deferred maintenance and delayed alterations.

The report was based on the manoeuvres off Panama and in the Caribbean Sea. Admiral Coontz says:

"It appears that any considerable active operations by the fleet undertaken at the present time, or in the near future, would be hampered by material defects and shortcomings; and for the correction of some of these there is small immediate prospect."

Coming from the ranking American naval officer afloat, who had served as chief of naval operations before taking over supreme command of the nation's battle forces at sea, the statements of Admiral Coontz are expected to arouse deep interest in Congress.

The report has been in the Navy Department nearly two months. The first intimation that such a document existed, along with a summary of part of its contents, was contained in a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, published April 30.

Recommendations are made by the Admiral for measures to modernize the battleships Florida, Utah, Arkansas, Wyoming, New York, Texas, Nevada and Oklahoma, including the elevation of their turret guns to give them greater range in battle. He tells how, as related at that time in a dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES, orders were received from the department, shortly before one of the problems began, limiting the boiler pressure of the battleships Wyoming, Arkansas, Florida and Utah to 160 pounds, which entails a maximum speed of about 14 knots, and how these ships had to drop out of the manoeuvres because their boilers were in bad shape.

Much attention is paid to the slow speed of auxiliary ships, which limited the progress of the fleet as a whole to 7½ knots, as well as to marked deficiencies found in the number, types and capacities of these ships. He recommends the elevation of turret guns on all battleships deficient in that respect, to provide a parity in range.

Text of the Report.

The report, which was given to the public under Secretary Wilbur's instructions, reads:

United States Fleet, U. S. S. Seattle, flagship, at sea, en route from Culebra, P. R., to New York, N. Y., March 3, 1924.

From Commander-in-Chief, U. S. fleet, to the Chief of Naval Operations.

Subject: Material Effectiveness—Fleet Problems II., III. and IV.

The Commander-in-Chief summarizes herein his conclusions in regard to material matters based on Fleet Problems II., III. and IV.

Inasmuch as these problems followed in close sequence and many of the lessons learned in one were repeated in others, it has been thought best to regard them as a whole, considering major items rather than those numerous deficiencies whose existence is amply set for in reports on "Material Readiness for War"; in work requests and summaries of the same; in the reports of the Bureau of Engineering on "Changes in Present Machinery Arrangement to Provide Security Against Derangement"; in Part IV. of the reports of gunnery exercises; in the reports of engineering performances, etc., which are available in the department for perusal and appropriate action by any bureau or office which may be interested therein.

In order that there may be complete understanding as to what part of the fleet is covered by this report, there is attached hereto (Appendix A) a list of ships taking part in Fleet Problem IV., which was the last of the series, and therefore should represent the final test in so far as there can be said to have been any final test. The fleet speed contemplated was 10 knots for this problem, which had to be reduced on account of the slowness of auxiliary ships, which could not keep in touch.

In general it is indicated that the difference in operating conditions in the Atlantic and in the Pacific has a marked effect on the material. The weather, wind, sea and temperature in the Atlantic make inroads on general material effectiveness in excess o fthose experienced in the Pacific. This is particularly indicated in the experience of the smaller and less capable units.

The material condition of the fleet is not as good as it should be. The defects may be looked at from several points of view. There are a number of major defects which can be corrected only by a correction of national policy, which must be worked for. There is in the fleet what may be called a deferred maintenance resulting from a failure to keep the ships properly repaired and up to date in beneficial alterations. This is partly due directly to insufficient appropriations and partly due to a high overhead expense at navy yards, which uses up the money available without putting a sufficient proportion into ships.

There are some instances of faulty design and there are some defects probably due to faulty administration. The Commander-in-Chief does not believe that the ships have been getting their fair share of overhaul time. Operation of the ships must be extensive when there is so much personnel to be trained but when skilled personnel is short, as it has been, there should be allowed ample time for the inadequate personnel to accomplish the upkeep.

It would appear probable that insufficient regard may have been given to operating schedules to the upkeep time necessary with unskilled personnel, to the delays incident to wind and weather and to the demands for unforeseen operations which are always coming to us from outside the fleet schedule. The Commander-in-Chief will give this matter attention and endeavor to correct it.

There is a conviction that overmuch time is spent by the personnel best qualified to help upkeep in administrative machinery, such as reports, records, &c., rather than in producing the most useful work.

The Commander-in-Chief would like to enlist the effort of the entire naval personnel in simplifying procedure and administration and stabilizing them, so that effort may not be diverted from really useful channels, and so that office work may be reduced to a minimum in ships and at sea, where it is not conveniently executed.

Under the circumstances, it would appear that it will require a long time to get the fleet up-to-date on its deferred maintenance and its delayed alterations. It appears that any considerable active operations by the fleet undertaken at the present time or in the near future would be hampered by material defects and shortcomings, and for the correction of some of these there is small immediate prospect.

The Commander-in-Chief fully realizes the handicap imposed on material conditions by the large numbers of untrained officers and men, but this is a difficulty which time and work will remedy.

FLAGSHIPS.

There is a shortage of ships adequate for the exercise of command. The Seattle, independent flagship of the Commander-in-Chief, is not in the best material condition, particularly as to her boilers. Since she must be continued in this duty until a modern ten thousand-ton cruiser can be built to replace her in the special functions which she now performs, she should be converted into an oil burner if possible. Otherwise a complete reconditioning of her boilers should be undertaken. The Commander-in-Chief recommends further that all the armored cruisers be kept in as good condition as practicable and that the best three be placed in readiness for use as the first step.

The Procyon demonstrated that she is too slow for flagship of the Commander's fleet base force, who after being appointed to command the convoy in Problem IV. was unable to keep touch with the fleet at ten knots speed. One of the old armored cruisers will be a suitable flagships for the Commander fleet base force.

The Savannah is not a fit flagship for the commander control force. Having been designated in Problem IV. to exercise one of his outstanding functions (that of seizing an advanced base), he not only found that he was hampered by personal command of the Atlantic submarine divisions but at the last moment before leaving Cristobal had to shift his flag to the Henderson because the Savannah had to remain at Cristobal to fulfill her duty as submarine tender for the divisions of submarines which could not sail with the fleet. This arrangement is objectionable. One of the armored cruisers would be a suitable flagship for the commander control force.

The Shawmut, flagship of Commander of Mine Squadron 1, did not take part in Problem IV., having been withdrawn to escort Atlantic air squadrons through the West Indies at a time when Commander mine squadron should have been exercising his legitimate functions with the fleet. If sufficient suitable aircraft tenders cannot be found and maintained the requirements of the air force should be otherwise met or modified as to time so as not to interfere with operations of other forces.

The lack of destroyer leaders has been keenly felt in all the problems. A destroyer squadron commander has a very considerable task. The present squadron leaders do not have that excess of offensive force, speed and reliability which they ought to have in order to lead. The squadron commanders do not have the necessary facilities for properly exercising command administratively or tactically. They are crowded and uncomfortable to a degree incompatible with planning and thought.

BATTLESHIPS.

Shortly before the Problem IV. opened orders were received from the department limiting the boiler pressure of the Wyoming, Arkansas, Florida and Utah to 160 pounds, which entails a maximum speed of about fourteen knots, with accompanying difficulties in the operation of auxiliary machinery. It has since been determined that these boilers are in bad shape.

Thus four of the battleships remaining to us have become unfit for taking their positions in the line and unable to support nearly every sort of operation. The Arkansas's estimated radius of action had fallen to about 5,100 miles.

It would seem that if a battleship is to last twenty years a program of reboilering and reconditioning should be placed in effect, analogous to the replacement of guns. One is useless without the other. The Commander-in-Chief considers that the sooner these ships are converted into oil burners and reboilered the better the fleet as a whole will be.

The battleships of our fleet are of different design and cannot fight together at long ranges because of the lack of high elevation of turret guns in some of them, thus making it impossible to take advantage of the power of the newer ships. This should be corrected as soon as possible, so that all ships can engage at approximately equal long ranges by increasing the elevation of turret guns in those ships which are deficient in this respect.

The Commander-in-Chief urges a thorough program of modernization for these battleships. If begun at once it will take several years to complete. Meanwhile the ships deteriorate and obsolesce. This modernization should include all the coal-burning battleships, which should be reboilered and fitted for oil burning.

None of the battleship flagships have proper provisions for flag plotting room on the bridge, nor for battle stations for the Admiral and staff. The Maryland and California are less objectionable in this respect than the others. There is too little room for the plotting, and no room for the Admiral, Chief-of-Staff, or other staff officers to work or to take shelter in case of bad weather. This should be remedied and designs covering alterations should be prepared for the individual ship concerned.

Such is the effect of bad material conditions on organization and command, that the Commander-in-Chief recommends:

The transfer of the commander control force to an armored cruiser.

In view of the deficient mobility of the Wyoming, Arkansas, Florida and Utah, it may be necessary to transfer the flag of the Vice Admiral, commander scouting fleet, to the New York; or perhaps at a future time to personal command of the light cruiser divisions, scouting fleet, where he can have improved mobility to assist in the exercise of his functions. In this connection consideration must be given the ships to be employed annually for the midshipmen's practice cruise. The Commander-in-Chief would prefer this work to be done by armored cruisers.

CRUISERS.

None of the light cruisers took part in Problem IV. They were much needed as scouts, as supports for the screen, and as linking vessels. It is hoped that more cruisers will be built soon, to be of ten thousand tons, mounting eight-inch guns. An expedition like that undertaken in Problem IV. would require many more modern cruisers than are now available in order to make it a possible or a useful undertaking.

DESTROYERS.

Generally speaking the destroyers taking part in the exercises performed well, with some indications of the necessity of better upkeep. Many of them burn too much fuel and use too much make up feed. The Commander-in-Chief will give this attention. They are not capable squadron leaders, and cannot do the work of cruisers which they have been attempting for lack of something better. Their signal searchlights are not powerful enough and are not arranged conveniently for signalling long distances, which is a necessity in the screen. It is noted that the night fighting lights of some of them are on one switch which is improper, and not in accord with the standard plan.

The Commander-in-Chief believes that the habitual running of destroyers at speed below fifteen knots is not economical in the long run. It fails to develop alertness in the personnel and keeps engines, auxiliaries and boilers in operation an increased length of time with very little saving in fuel, while adding to the discomfort of the personnel.

SUBMARINES.

Of the combatant ships taking part in the problems the submarines are the worst. Their design is obsolete and faulty. Their ventilation is poor and at times almost non-existent. The temperatures in the engine room rose as high as 135 degrees. They are unreliable. Some of their fuel tanks leak. Either spoiling their fresh water, or enhancing the fire menace, or leaving an oil slick whereby they can be tracked. The radius of the Holland boats is much less than rated and they drag excessively when loaded.

All the submarines are so deficient in speed as to be of small use for fleet work except by accident of position. They must be used with the fleet either so far ahead as to be out of the way (in which case they are a source of worry) or assembled astern, from which location they cannot gain effective position in case of contact.

In regard to the submarines the Commander-in-Chief realizes with regret that there is nothing better in sight, and consequently the personnel will do the best it can to produce the maximum results with those the fleet has. The work of the personnel of these ships is in many cases admirable.

MINE LAYERS.

The mine layers had no chance to demonstrate their usefulness. The Shawmut was absent escorting the Atlantic air squadrons through the West Indies, the Aroostook is still employed with the air squadrons, Pacific. She lost touch with the main body in Problem IV., but rejoined later. There was noted a great shortage of mines for such expedition, and a non-existence of modern mines. These deficiencies should be rectified.

MINE SWEEPERS.

Seven mine sweepers arrived at Culebra. They were nothing like enough for the task imposed in Problem IV. Their speed is not to be depended on when accompanying the fleet, especially as the sea is choppy, on account of their light tonnage. Their machinery is not entirely reliable, but considering their size they did quite well. The Partridge and Kingfisher had to be towed in Problem II. Gannet, Brant and Partridge had other casualties. It is believed that the number of mine sweepers in commission should be increased.

AIRCRAFT.

In problem IV., Langley represented a modern plane carrier, although she had only six planes which she used to good purpose, considering their numbers and capabilities, and Langley's own characteristics. The Atlantic air squadrons had twenty-seven seaplanes with the Black forces in problem IV. The seaplanes were useful working from a base. An attempt should be made to operate seaplanes from a carrier.

It was demonstrated that a modern fleet must have its aircraft, fighters, at least, if nothing further can be developed.

No other ships than the twenty sent up any planes. The catapults do not seem to be working well and aviators cannot be expected in peace time operations to sacrifice themselves so readily as the theory of scouting has led some to suppose. The actual distance land planes should go from succor is ten miles at present, else they may sink before help arrives after a forced landing in the water. Until it has been demonstrated that planes will operate at sea from the battleships where they are now carried, it would seem premature to alter or rearrange any other types of combatant ship for their accommodation.

The air squadrons, Pacific, did not take part in the problems II. and IV., except potentially, the planes being boxed for transportation. VF Squadron 1 was absent on North Island. VF Squadron 2, composed of obsolete planes, was present. VO Squadrons 1 and 2 carried no ordnance equipment because equipped with radio. These planes are obsolete and much worn in service. VT Squadron 1 did not carry machine guns nor radio equipment. No torpedoes or bombs were available.

It is doubtful if these planes could have lifted a torpedo off Colon. They are not fitted for bombing. These planes cannot land or take off in a moderate sea, and are hence ineffective. Under the upkeep conditions obtaining, probably not over half the planes in the problem could be operated at any one time.

Generally speaking, the Commander-in-Chief recommends concentration of attention and available funds on a very few types of planes useful to the fleet, and their equipment. The quantity and effectiveness of the air force actually available to the fleet did not appear favorable from a material point of view.

AIRCRAFT CARRIERS

Langley was useful in spite of her small number of planes and her crudeness. Her slow speed made it necessary in Problem IV. to place her in the convoy instead of in the van with scouting fleet, where she certainly belonged, upon approach to the base which was to be seized. Her use was limited because planes cannot get on or off either end, and because she had to head into the wind, thus losing position and enhancing her liability to attack. Speed and good manoeuvring qualities are essential. Arresting gear, deck lighting and other material requirements to permit night flying should be developed. Aircraft carriers should be fitted with separate radio receiving rooms to permit duplex operation in order that planes in the air may be communicated with efficiently while radio work with other units is going on.

The construction of the new carriers should be expedited. In connection with their commissioning, it should be borne in mind that each will require the constant attendance of from three to six destroyers, which should be provided for this purpose.

DESTROYER TENDERS

The fleet arrived at Culebra without any destroyer tenders. They are all deficient in speed. The Melville had to be towed in Problem II., and can make only about ten knots. The Altair broke down in Problem IV. and had to return to Cristobal. Bridgeport lost touch with the convoy because she could not make enough speed. There is no remedy except the reconditioning of these tenders and the early completion of more capable ships to replace them.

SUBMARINE TENDERS

The fleet arrived at Culebra with one submarine tender, the Beaver, which carries the pennant of commander submarine divisions, Pacific. There tenders are slow and unreliable in mobility, not adequate in capacity, and the early completion of new ones is hoped for. The total capacity of all tenders is too small for the submarines of the paper organization for operation with the fleet in time of war. Fulton could not take part in Problem IV. She is too unreliable to permit taking her away from Coco Solo. Her submarines operated from Culebra without a tender, to their great inconvenience.

AIRCRAFT TENDERS

Aroostook accompanied the fleet; lost touch en route to Culebra on account of remaining with Procyon and rejoined before arrival. Planes from Aroostook took part in Problem III, basing at Coco Solo. Planes from Wright operated from Culebra as a base in Problem IV.

TRANSPORTS

More study should be given to the design and equipment of transports for expeditionary forces. The Henderson was considerably overcrowded in Problem IV. and men could not have continued on board her very long under the conditions. She was 40 per cent. over her probable capacity for a long trip, having on board about 1,700 men. Her board equipment for landing men is deficient and she has only one crane. Facilities for embarking men in boats are inadequate. The boats of supporting ships should not be depended upon. The Beetle takes up too much room. Therefore special designs should be made for the boats and their stowage. There should be quarters for beach master and assistants, whose task is a very difficult and delicate one at best. A separate design is necessary for artillery transports. It is recommended that plans be prepared for consideration.

AUXILIARY TYPES

The common deficiency of these is in speed. Our train in convoy would limit the fleet speed to about 7½ knots. In Problem II., the battle fleet dropped its convoy because the main body had to make good 9 knots (i. e., make about 11 to allow for fueling at sea.) With a train of seventy ships this would be a serious matter. In Problem IV. part of the small convoy starting was lost, specifically Bridgeport, Mellville, Jason, Procyon (flagship commander fleet base in command of convoy) and Aroostook, which remained with Procyon. The absence of most of the auxiliary ships of the paper organization prevented a further demonstration of their general inability to keep touch.

The Commander-in-Chief recommends for the present a simple annual full power trial for all auxiliaries of the fleet to demonstrate what they can do, fuel consumption and speed. The effect of head seas (for wind against current) is particularly noticeable in the reduction of speed of vessels with full lines.

The advisability of having towing gear in as many auxiliaries as possible demonstrated in Problem II. Not only that, but the gear should be kept ready for use at short notice in making a fleet passage.

Oiling at sea, alongside, was successfully carried out in Problem II. It is considered that there should be no trouble in oiling light cruisers; and probably not much difficulty in fueling a battleship, but there was no opportunity to test this.

There is apparent a necessity of providing distilling ships to accompany an overseas expedition to supply the expeditionary forces, tenders, and ships which run short of water during the passage because of loss or salting of water. Upon the arrival of the expeditionary forces, tenders and there would have been no water there (a defeated enemy would have seen to that); and there would have been none immediately available except from combatant ships.

RADIO AND VISUAL SIGNAL

The radio equipment is not up to date in that:

The devices for setting frequencies are not good enough. In operations when a ship goes from one task force to another it should be possible to shift frequency accurately by setting a dial. It would usually be impossible to send test messages to tune in as is now necessary. Flagships should be equipped first.

Base force flagships, tenders and repair ships should be equipped for low-power continuous wave intrafleet communication in order to permit them to handle without interference the continuous large volume of traffic incident to the performance of their mission.

Destroyer squadron flag boats require long-range tube transmitters, with provision for reducing power for short range work. The four contracted for with the General Electric Company would be suitable for trial and could be installed by forces afloat prior to Nov. 1, 1924.

In designing and supplying apparatus care should be taken that there is consistency between the capabilities of sets furnished the several classes of ships. The captain of a battleship may have in his task force any or all classes of craft including aircraft, submarines and mine sweepers. The flag officer in Henderson had under his command in Problem IV. battleships, destroyers, submarines, mine layers, air craft and mine sweepers.

The action taken in the interdepartmental radio conference makes some of our radio apparatus more or less obsolete because the frequencies for which they were designed are not now available for use. Limitations in use of frequencies by action of the interdepartmental board should not become effective until the apparatus has been altered to conform to the new requirements.

There was general complaint throughout all the problems on the inadequacy and unsuitable mounting of signal searchlights. The problem of types of lights and their mountings should be given special study in each ship and in each type.

Visual signal equipment for submarine and aircraft needs improvement. Blinker tubes were another cause for complaints. Variation in power and in screening effect should be introduced if such a design can be produced simply without adding to electrical difficulties.

Types Failing to Reach Culebra.

Light cruisers.
Destroyer tenders.
Store ships.
Colliers.
Tugs.
Repair ships.
Seaplanes.
Lighter-than-air aircraft.
Miscellaneous auxiliaries.

No items have been mentioned above and beyond those which should have attention within the department or those which in the judgment of the Commander-in-Chief should be brought to the department's attention. Details of these items should be studied, using data from other sources, including the more detailed reports of certain unit commanders submitted herewith. Certain items are so important that the Commander-in-Chief repeats them again in brief form as major topics for consideration and action.

Need for the following building program is demonstrated:

Complete aircraft carriers.
Complete destroyer tenders.
Complete submarine tenders.
Construct cruisers.
Construct modern submarines.
Construct destroyer squadron leaders.
Construct heavier-than-air aircraft for use with the fleet.

The following additional measures should be taken:

Modernize the battleships Florida, Utah, Arkansas, Wyoming, New York, Texas, Nevada and Oklahoma. This includes increase in elevation of turret guns.

Initiate a replacement program for boilers, auxiliary machinery and electrical equipment.

Devote increased funds and effort to material upkeep of the fleet.

Prepare armored cruisers for service.

Institute an annual full power trial for auxiliary types of ships.

Develop heavier-than-air aircraft for service with the fleet.

Improve the catapults in battleships and cruisers.

Complete anti-aircraft batteries, including machine guns.

CENSURES WILBUR'S SPEECH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 8.—The Daily News says editorially that the speech made by Curtis Wilbur, the American Secretary of the Navy, on Monday appears to possess a rather sinister significance." It then quotes the following passage from Mr. Wilbur's speech:

"I stand for a navy, the equal, at least, in every respect, of any power on land or sea, and I see no reason why we should not undertake so to advance our navy along lines not restricted by mutual agreements that we shall again be in a dominating situation and again secure mutual limitation in all activities along lines at present unrestricted by any treaty."

"The moral theory implied in this strange declaration," says The Daily News, "seems to be that the most agreeable method of promoting reduced naval armaments is to build up a huge national navy and then, when you have outstripped all competitors, to call a conference at which in the blessed role of peacemaker you will effectually prevent your competitors from overtaking you again. Unless Mr. Wilbur is gravely misreported he is a militarist and would better serve the cause of peace by holding his peace about it and devoting all his energies to his chosen task of restoring the American navy to its 'dominating situation' in the world."

ASKS AID OF POLICE TO MAKE ESCAPE

ROBBERY NEAR CATHEDRAL

Amsterdam Avenue Druggist Lost $522—Ten Suspects Arrested After Auto Chase.

Thirteen days after being paroled from Sing Sing, Thomas Meyers, 25 years old, said by the police to have a long criminal record, was arrested early yesterday, charged with holding up a restaurant, stealing $85 from the cash register and shooting the proprietor.

Meyers was arrested by two detectives who happened to be in front of the restaurant, at 868 Third Avenue, near Fifty-second Street. The detectives, in civilian clothes, were standing near a taxicab when Meyers rushed out of the restaurant.

The fugitive mistook the detectives for chauffeurs.

"Hey, buddies," yelled Meyers, "I just gave the 'wop' inside the 'works.' Start your cab up and help me make a getaway."

The detectives let Meyers get into the cab. Then they drew their pistols, showed their police shields and put the surprised hold-up man under arrest. Taking him back to the restaurant, they found John Gatti, the proprietor, with a bullet in the leg, but not seriously wounded. When arraigned before Magistrate Oberwager, Meyers was held without bail on charges of robbery, felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan law.

Hold-Up in Shadow of Cathedral.

Soon after the hold-up of a drug store at Amsterdam Avenue and 111th Street, near the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, ten men in a speeding automobile were arrested early yesterday morning by policemen in another machine. Max Rosen, proprietor of the drug store, and Joseph Roth, a clerk, were alone in the store when several robbers entered. They held up Rosen and Roth and took $522 in cash and a gold watch. They escaped in an automobile in which several other men had been waiting outside.

Detectives searched the neighborhood for some time in vain. They were just about to give up the hunt when a big automobile sped south on Amsterdam Avenue past the drug store which had been held up. The detectives chased the speeding machine in their own car, calling for it to halt.

At 108th Street, the fugitives turned west to Broadway, where they turned south. The detectives continued the chase, firing several shots. Other automobiles and taxicabs joined the pursuit. Just beyond 104th Street the fleeing car was overtaken and forced into the curb. Ten men were found in the automobile. All were arrested on the charge of suspicion of robbery and Magistrate Jean Norris held them in $10,000 bail each for examination tomorrow.

Five men were arrested at Fourth Street and Second Avenue yesterday on the charge of stealing a $4,500 truck, loaded with $6,000 worth of shellac, at Thirtieth Street and Twelfth Avenue on April 30.

Charged with getting $147 worth of radio supplies on a worthless check from Clarence Morrison & Co., 2 Stone Street, Samuel Snow, an electrician, of 201 East Ninety-fifth Street, was held in $15,000 bail by Magistrate Conway in the Ridgewood Court in Queens yesterday.

BARING'S TRIAL PUT OFF UNTIL MAY 22

Court Gives Him Ten Days More to Prepare Defense to Wife-Poisoning Charge.

Judge William F. Bleakley of the Westchester County Court in White Plains yesterday postponed until May 22 the trial of Clarence O. Baring, accused of attempting to poison his wife with arsenic and disease germs. The trial had been set for May 12.

The postponement was granted on motion of Charles E. Long, counsel for Baring. The delay was granted after Long had submitted an affidavit asserting he needed time in which to go to Norfolk, Va., Baltimore and Chicago to take depositions of witnesses. By these depositions, said Long, he would be able to establish the truth of Baring's story that his purpose was not to kill his wife but to make her ill. In his confession, Baring had told District Attorney Arthur Rowland that he planned to make his wife so ill that she would accompany him to California, their absence to give him an opportunity "to get rid of the other woman."

District Attorney Rowland demanded that Long make known the names of the witnesses out of town. In the argument that followed between the two lawyers, the Court directed that Long submit an affidavit later in the day. When Long complied in the afternoon, he said to the Court:

"I am going to call for the testimony of C. B. McKenna, President of a large manufacturing concern in Norfolk with whom Baring did business. I will prove by McKenna and the proprietor of the Hotel Lorraine in Norfolk that Baring intended to return there in the near future on business. This clearly indicates he did not intend to commit any crime, that he did not desire to kill his wife and that he did not intend to leave the country. If he did plan to travel to Europe this Summer, it was with his wife, and he would have returned before the Fall."

67 JERSEY CONVICTS RECEIVE CLEMENCY

Augustus Eberhard of New York, Who Lured Aunt to Death in Hackensack, Pardoned.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 7.—The State Court of Pardons, headed by Governor Silzer, granted clemency today to sixty-seven of the 170 prisoners who applied for it. Thirty paroles will not become effective until completion of minimum terms. Eleven slayers are among the prisoners affected.

The homicide cases in which clemency was granted include that of Augustus Eberhard, Bergen County, sentenced Sept. 24, 1908, thirty years, for murder. Parole effective today.

In September, 1908, Eberhard, who lived in New York, enticed his aunt and her daughter to Hackensack. His wife accompanied them. Arriving by train the three then started to walk the railroad tracks to Rochelle Park. They were waylaid. The aunt was shot in the back, fell across the rails, and her body was cut in two by trains that followed. Two shots fired at his cousin inflicted slight wounds but the young woman escaped by running a half mile to the nearest house.

Eberhard went to Chicago but returned a week later. He buried $3,000 taken from his aunt near a tree close to the Lackawanna Railroad bridge over the Passaic River near Paterson. He then shot himself in the leg, limped into Paterson and told the police he had been captured and kept prisoner by the gang that shot his aunt a week before. He was shot when escaping, he said. He was shot when escaping, he said late Prosecutor Ernest Koester and Chief of Police Dunn of Hackensack, but upon being sentenced to thirty years, swore he would kill both these men when he left jail. Both have since died.

EBERT CONSULTS MARX ON ELECTION

THEY OPPOSE EXTREMISTS

No Certainty Yet as to Whether Nationalists or Socialists Will Be Strongest Party.

By T. R. YBARRA.

BERLIN, May 7.—Three days have elapsed since the German election, yet it is impossible to say for certain yet which will be the strongest party in the next Reichstag, whether the Socialists or the Nationalists.

According to figures so far the Socialists have 100 seats against the Nationalists' 96, but the Nationalists claim as theirs nine seats which fell to the Landbund Party, which would make their total 105. The question whether the Landbund seats are to be added to the Nationalist total will be decided by a vote of the Reichstag members, which means that the uncertainty will continue for a fortnight, since the new Reichstag is scheduled to meet for the first time on May 22.

The present Government will doubtless continue in office until that day. The final results of the election will not be announced until May 16.

President Ebert Confers With Marx.

President Ebert returned to Berlin today from Mergentheau and immediately went into conference with Chancellor Marx regarding the questions arising from the election.

Meanwhile it is becoming increasingly clear that no responsible political party wishes to go on record as absolutely opposed to acceptance of the Dawes report. Most significant is a manifesto issued today by Dr. Hergt, the noted Nationalist leader just elected to the Reichstag, to the effect that the Nationalists' attitude toward the report does not presuppose rejection. Dr. Hergt adds, however, that it will be impossible to separate political from economic questions in dealing with the Dawes report.

Apparently believing the Nationalists to be the strongest Reichstag faction and hence that the same Nationalists' leader will be summoned to form the next Government, Dr. Hergt furthermore declared that no German Government under Nationalistic influence will sign promises which it cannot fulfill. A significant point in his manifesto is his criticism leveled at the "Völkisch" extremists, which seems to foreshadow that the Nationalist Party will continue its recent tendency toward moderation and not combine with those extremists who all along have been hostile to the Dawes report and a conciliatory German foreign policy.

In all quarters today Dr. Hergt's manifesto is taken up as the official Nationalist keynote proclamation. Additional importance attaches to it because it appears in the Lokal Anzeiger, which newspaper only a few days ago branded the Dawes report as impossible of acceptance by Germany. Dr. Hergt's statements are held to be evidence that the Nationalists are committed to a policy of moderation.

The parties forming the present German Government are cool toward possible participation of the Nationalists in the new Government. Germania, the Centrist organ, today states that the Nationalists grew strong as an opposition party and that it might be well for the Centrists to do likewise if Nationalists should enter the Government. The Democratic party also is averse to cooperation with the Nationalists in the Government judging from recent utterances, and the Socialists who have been accustomed to support Chancellor Marx's Government are practically sure to withdraw their support from the new Government if it includes Nationalist elements.

Bernstorff's Majority Small.

BERLIN, May 7 (Associated Press).—Full returns from the district from which Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, was elected to the Reichstag in Sunday's balloting show that he received only 976 votes more than the 60,000 required to insure him a seat.

Among the Democrats elected was Baron Hautmann von Richthofen, who was a member of the last war Reichstag and the National Assembly. Baron von Richthofen was Secretary of the German Embassy at Washington in 1910 and Chargé d'Affaires in Mexico in 1913, but is no longer connected with the diplomatic or other Government service.

GERMAN LOAN PLANS ARE BEING PUSHED

Reparation Board Members and London Bankers to Hold Conference.

PARIS, May 7 (Associated Press).—Members of the Reparation Commission who recently sounded out J. P. Morgan, are planning further meetings with London financial authorities some time within the next ten days regarding the project for an international loan under the experts' plan, according to information in the highest reparation circles today.

Such men as Sir John Bradbury, British representative on the Commission, and Louis Barthou, its President, who conferred with Mr. Morgan, are anxious to push the flotation of a loan so far ahead that once the French elections are over giant strides may be made toward a general settlement.

Efforts are now being concentrated to make the flotation of the proposed loan as universal as possible, not relying wholly upon American and British subscriptions, but endeavoring to get the highest percentage possible subscribed in France, Belgium and elsewhere on the Continent. Members of the Commission are bending all their energies toward realization of the conception that the more people interested in the loan's success the more certain that success will be.

FUTURE OF DAWES PLAN WORRIES THE FRENCH

They Think Germany Will Adopt It, but Fear She Will Later Default.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

PARIS, May 7.—Outlook for the experts' reparations plan is at present somewhat clouded and will probably not become bright again for some weeks. The rather deceptive speed attending the first negotiations over the Dawes proposals has tended to increase the importance attached to difficulties of a political nature which those who had followed the reparations negotiations at first hand during the past four years never doubted would arise.

The most serious issue now visible results from last Sunday's German elections. While there was not a landslide to the right, as France feared there would be and as had been predicted, the gain in the Nationalists' strength plus the unexpected gain of the Communists causes a situation which, the French say, will bear watching.

There are two possible outcomes to the Berlin situation as seen here: Either the Centre, on which the present Government rests and which still has a majority of votes in the Reichstag, will continue to govern, or the Nationalists will get power on the ground that their party with its appendages has more votes than any other single party. If the latter happens Berlin will be in the hands of those openly opposed to the experts' report. If the former happens the Government will still lack the necessary two-thirds for passing some of the laws made necessary by the Dawes plan and which contravene the German Constitution.

It is the general opinion here that the Reichstag will pass the needed laws, but the French feel that the gain in the Nationalists' strength plus the power of the Communists, who will naturally fish in troubled waters, increases the possibility of Germany accepting the report, reaping the benefits the first few years and then failing to carry it out. The experts, especially the Americans, considered this danger would be greatly lessened once the plan had been put into operation and the German securities were getting into the hands of the nationals of many nations, including Americans.

However, the growth of Nationalist strength in the Reich increases the French demand that beforehand the Allies, notably England and France, should agree on penalties which would automatically come into effect in case of German default. This added insistence of the French naturally increases the difficulties in the situation arising from Premier MacDonald's continued refusal to listen to any such scheme, saying German default is something to be dealt with when it occurs.

Furthermore, a report is current in Paris today that Mr. MacDonald told M. Theunis, the Belgian Premier, in the course of last week-end's conversation at Chequers, that he still thought the French and Belgians should evacuate the Ruhr. It is well known here that Mr. MacDonald holds this opinion personally, but in view of the adamant stand of M. Poincaré it had been hoped that for the sake of practical progress the British Prime Minister would not raise the issue. There is no official confirmation this alleged statement by Mr. MacDonald, but it is taken for granted that the Germans will seek to gain advantage from any divergence between Paris and London. It was because he foresaw allied differences that M. Poincaré insisted that before the allied Governments acted, Germany should pass the necessary laws to put the Dawes plan into operation.

The Reichstag meets on May 22, and shortly thereafter the situation should clarify one way or the other.

It would greatly surprise observers here if next Sunday's French elections brought any notable change in France's foreign policy. It is true enough that M. Poincaré's position in domestic politics is not strong, but his German policy appears to be the policy of the nation and for the moment foreign politics dominates home politics for France. Even his opponents admit that M. Poincaré will not be ousted at once by the election result and will remain in power to complete the Ruhr negotiations. And due to the fluid nature of the French Chamber any great progress of the reactionaries in Germany would certainly increase M. Poincaré's strength in the French Parliament even though Sunday's elections bring the expected slight movement to the Left.

ROUT ANOTHER REBEL BAND

Havana Officials Think Danger Past —Washington to Ship More Arms.

HAVANA, May 7.—It was said semi-officially today that the rebellious movement in Santa Clara Province might be considered over, but Americans who have been watching the situation carefully expressed the opinion that the end probably could not be definitely announced for another forty-eight hours.

Government forces were in contact today near Manacas-gua, Province of Oriente, with the band of rebels led by Jose del Carmen Hernandez, according to the War Department. The rebels were dispersed and the troops took two wounded men prisoner and accepted the surrender of three other rebels. Fourteen horses were captured. It was officially reiterated today that there has been no real revolutionary outbreak except in Oriente Province.

General Enoch H. Crowder, the American Ambassador, spent more than an hour today with President Zayas discussing the general situation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The United States Government authorized today the shipment of $200,000 worth of arms and munitions to the Cuban Government. This shipment was authenticated by Secretary Weeks after a conference today with General Pershing, Chief of Staff, and General Hines, his assistant, during which it developed that the Ordnance Department could furnish Cuba the rifles, pistols, machine guns and ammunitions it desired.

RED WAR IN RUHR FEARED BY BERLIN

By T. R. YBARRA.

percentage it is expected that the majority will leave at the end of seven hours and will be dismissed by their employers.

A joint statement has been issued by four miners' unions expressing their united determination to fight for a seven-hour shift below ground and an eight-hour shift above ground, despite the award of the Minister of Labor.

Lockouts in Saxony.

BERLIN, May 7 (Associated Press).—The lockout declared against the miners in the Ruhr Valley yesterday, which is estimated to have thrown 300,000 men out of work, was extended today to Saxony, where the owners were moved to declare the lockout because of the refusal of the workers in the Chemnitz and Zwickau districts to work more than eight hours.

It is predicted that 200,000 metal workers in the Ruhr region will be involved in the labor trouble by tomorrow. The occupation authorities have promised strict neutrality.

DUESSELDORF, May 7 (Associated Press).—The mine owners throughout the Ruhr today posted notices at the pitheads that only miners who expressed a willingness to work an additional hour would be allowed to go below. Very few of the miners thus far have acquiesced in the demand of the mine owners. It is estimated that the production of coal will be reduced to one-fourth of normal in consequence of the lockout.

The leaders of the organization known as the Intellectual Manual Workers' Union met today at Bochum and decided to favor a general strike, to include emergency work in mines. The four big miners' unions, however, decided against this procedure, although its leaders persisted in their refusal to permit the members of the unions to work the additional overtime.

Labor in the mines which are being operated by the occupying powers continues without interruption.

KRESTINSKY QUITS BERLIN.

Ambassador to Be Followed to Moscow by Trade Chief.

BERLIN, May 7 (Associated Press).—M. Krestinsky, the Russian Ambassador to Germany, left for Moscow this evening. M. Styomanakoff, chief of the Russian commercial delegation in Germany, will depart for Moscow tomorrow.

MOSCOW, May 7.—The Russo-German crisis is still acute, with a marked increase of press and popular interest. Official circles are non-committal, apparently awaiting M. Krestinsky, who is expected to leave Berlin as soon as M. Stomanyakoff returns there from London. Just what form the "serious consequences" threatened unless the Germans apologise is not divulged, but there is reason to believe that Germany will be faced with a complete closing down of Russo-German trade and removal of the Soviet Trade Mission elsewhere if the present attitude of Dr. Stresemann is not modified.

BAN ON JAPANESE DEFERRED 8 MONTHS

If he overrules the point of order the matter undoubtedly will be appealed to the floor to see whether the House will sustain him. Under the House rules the conference report must lie over one day and it cannot be reached until Friday. It will be taken up in the Senate after the House acts.

California Primary Enters Issue.

Mr. Raker was particularly frank in his criticism of the action of President Coolidge. He declared that last week news came from the White House indicating that the President was for exclusion.

"This was sent out and published in the newspapers of California," Mr. Raker said in an interview. "The President was for exclusion last Saturday, but now that the California primary has been held he has changed. Now he wants Congress to waive its rights so he can have time to enter into a treaty with Japan. I want to protect the American people against this immigration, and intend to fight this new amendment."

Senator Reed defended the action. "Exclusion is definite and final under this bill," he said in a statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES. "The change made at the President's request is merely the extension of a proper courtesy to a friendly nation. But it does not change the fact of exclusion."

The Senator denied that the California primary situation had anything to do with the attitude of President Coolidge and declared the conferees had not overstepped their authority. He added that a good precedent could be cited to the Senate for just this kind of change by a conference committee.

Senator Harris of Georgia voted against the provision in the conference report. He said he favors the exclusion paragraph as passed by the Senate. He reserved the right to oppose that part of the conference report on the floor of the Senate when a separate vote is asked.

Senator Harris said the final legislation presented by the Conference Committee was much better than originally believed possible when immigration legislation was first taken up by Congress at this session.

He said he favored greater restrictions on the number of immigrants permitted to come to the United States after July 1, when the present law expires, but expressed pleasure that legislation was finally obtained providing for the 1890 census on a 2 per cent. quota basis, as the best possible solution at this time.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Commenting tonight on the new provision on Japanese exclusion, Senator Shortridge of California declared there was sufficient time before July 1, 1924, the original date of enforcement, to abrogate the gentlemen's agreement and said:

"Negotiation of such abrogation would have comprised nothing more than an interview across the table between representatives of the two Governments in order that formal notification could be given that the arrangement was at an end. This method of concluding it was agreed upon when it was made. If ulterior motives are behind the delay, of course, additional time will be required."

Voices California Protest.

V. S. McClatchy of Sacramento, speaking tonight in behalf of California State organizations, after mentioning that the postponement of Japanese exclusion was reached at President Coolidge's insistence on the day following the Presidential primaries in California, said:

"The President, I feel sure, could not have realized that this extension of time during which the present Gentlemen's Agreement would remain operative, would put it within Japan's power to treble practically the Japanese population of the United States and that her present policy indicates she would take advantage of such temporary factory owners abroad, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, but owing to his age, 60 years, he was allowed to go free.

"There are over 40,000 Japanese bachelors in this country, according to Japanese authorities, every one of whom could bring from Japan within the period referred to, if the present agreement be in force, a Kangodan bride, whose duty it would be to become the mother of the average family of five children.

"There would be then a potential increase within a few years of Japanese population to the extent of 240,000, in addition to the increase to be expected from birth rate among those already here.

"What Japan's policy would be under these circumstances is clearly indicated by what she is doing or permitting now. The Japanese newspapers of San Francisco report that during the preceding three months, February, March and April, 2,000 Japanese bachelors left San Francisco for Japan for the purpose of securing Kankodan brides and returning with them before July 1, when it was expected the exclusion measure would become operative.

"The Government of Japan directly encourages this element of immigration by allowing such searchers for brides three months' stay in Japan, while if they came for business or pleasure they would be limited to thirty days, or compelled to remain and perform their military duties.

"The gentlemen's agreement, as explained by President Roosevelt, was made for the express purpose, endorsed by Japan, of preventing an increase of Japanese population in continental United States. That purpose has been steadily violated by the manner in which the agreement has operated."

JAPAN STILL HOPES FOR NEW AGREEMENT

Exclusion Issue Is Kept Out of Elections, but Will Come Up in New Diet Next Month.

By WILFRID FLEISHER.

TOKIO, May 7.—It makes no difference so far as Japanese public opinion is concerned whether exclusion comes into effect by legislation of Congress or whether it is forestalled by an agreement with Japan carrying out the same measure. Japan feels bitter disappointment and resentment over the passage by Congress of the exclusion clause itself.

It is likely that the Japanese Government would prefer an arrangement with the United States, as this would appear to save the face of the Government to some extent, but this view is not entirely shared by the public, of which a large section is manifestly opposed to what it considers surrender to the American Congress.

It is not likely that there will be any demonstrations of a hostile character for the time being. The most remarkable feature of the situation has been the admirable control by the Government of public opinion and the restraint which Government has exercised.

The Government was able to carry this to the point of keeping the issue from entering the election campaign which is now in full swing preparatory to the polling on Saturday, although the immigration question would have been the strongest asset in the hands of the opposition.

An official of the Foreign Office stated today that the Government would try to continue to exercise a restraining influence over public opinion to prevent any acts of violence, as it was felt that demonstration of a hostile character would be of no avail and would further estrange the relations of the two countries. The same official said he expected that there would be some popular agitation for several weeks to come, but he believed this would ultimately be overcome.

Ambassador Woods was received at the Foreign Office this morning by Baron Matsui, with whom he discussed the situation. It is understood that the attitude of the Government, which has been consistently the same since the presentation of the Hanihara note, will for the time remain a policy of non-interference.

Mr. Woods has been in constant communication with the State Department since the Senate passed the exclusion clause, and it is evident that the American Government is acting in full cognisance of the situation here.

I learn on high authority that Premier Kiyoura recognises that the presentation of the Hanihara note was a blunder for which he is prepared to assume entire responsibility. It is certain that the immigration problem will be one of the principal questions to be brought up at the next session of the Diet in June, and if the present Government is still in power after the elections, Premier Kiyoura and Baron Matsui will publicly assume responsibility for the Hanihara note.

TOKIO, May 7 (Associated Press).—Reports that the Cabinet will resign shortly are receiving increasing attention and space in vernacular newspapers. Two reasons are assigned, first, the "diplomatic failure" regarding the United States immigration ban, and, second, the improbability of Government supporters obtaining a majority in the general election next Saturday.

LADY ASTOR SAYS PEACE IS IMPERILLED HERE

While We Lead in Peace Societies, Senate Takes Dangerous Action Toward Japan, She Says.

LONDON, May 7 (Associated Press).—Lady Astor, speaking before a conference of the International Council of Women at Wembley today, declared that America had more societies for the propagation of peace than any other country in the world, but that only recently a dangerous thing had happened in the Senate with reference to Japan that might lead to a war some time in the future.

Lady Astor's statement with regard to the Senate's action on the Japanese exclusion clause of the immigration bill appeared to be somewhat in the nature of an interpolation as her subject was the drink traffic.

"I never knew anybody who was made more peaceful by a drink," she declared amid laughter. She said the most notorious and recent example of international friction fostered by the liquor trade was the rum-running episode, which had been checked, she hoped, by the Anglo-American agreement and extension of the right of search. She said she would like to assure her American friends that public opinion in Great Britain was deeply ashamed of the inglorious business of rum-running.

"You will not prevent war by talking peace, you must live peace," she said.

SOVIET COURT DOOMS TEXTILE TRUST HEADS

Decrees Death to Tshrdynzeff and Kalinin, Convicted of Betraying State Capitalism.

MOSCOW, May 7 (Associated Press).—Tshrdynzeff and Kalinin, directors of the State Textile Trust, the largest Government textile syndicate in Russia, were sentenced to death today after a trial, lasting a week, on charges of corruption, exploiting a State organization in their own interests, plotting with others to combat State capitalism in favor of private enterprise and giving information secretly to former owners of textile factories who are now abroad.

Thirteen other convicted Government officials, all former directors of large independent pre-war textile factories, were sentenced to various terms, ranging from two to ten years, of strict isolation and to confiscation of all their property.

Shumofsky, Governor of Smolensk during the Czarist régime, who was accused of accepting remuneration for information sent to former factory owners abroad, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment, but owing to his age, 60 years, he was allowed to go free.

"Comrade" Smyrnoff, recently a workman in the largest bakery in Moscow, presided at the trial, while the most eminent lawyers in Russia defended the prisoners. Dressed in a black cotton blouse and assisted by two factory workmen, Smyrnoff presented an unusual appearance at a trial Judge.

The verdict was received in silence by the packed courtroom, followed by expressions of approval when the Judge announced that the prisoners would have seventy-two hours in which to enter an appeal.

Tshrdynzeff and Kalinin seemed stunned when the death sentence was pronounced, while Shumofsky made the sign of the cross when it was announced he had been saved by his age.

EX-UNDERWORLD QUEEN DEAD, MURDER HINTED

Sophie Lyons, Rich and Respected, Slain by Detroit Criminals, Police Suspect.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, May 7.—Did Sophie Lyons, for forty years rich and respected, a business woman and a firm friend of those who had fallen, die at the hands of the underworld in which for a long time she was the ruling queen?

The question was asked today soon after Mrs. Sophie Lyons Burke died in Grace Hospital from cerebral hemorrhage. It was learned that hold-up men she had befriended and tried to reform, but whose names she always kept secret, had threatened to "get" her after accusing her of "squealing" to the police. Just before Mrs. Burke, to use the name by which she was known among her neighbors, collapsed in her home Tuesday noon, she was alone with three men who went there on the pretext of renting property.

She was heard to cry, "Quit, don't do it," before she lapsed into a coma and was taken to the hospital.

"Once a thief, always a thief, is the blackest lie ever hatched," has been the slogan of Mrs. Burke, or Sophie Lyons, since the day of her reformation.

Practically all her fortune of about $1,000,000 was amassed through real estate deals in Detroit. In recent years she has spent much of her money and time in aiding criminals to reform. She was born in New York City, where, at the age of 6, she was taught by her stepmother to pick pockets. She learned every trick of the thieve's trade before she was 10.

She traveled through England, France, Italy, Germany and Russia, and figured in crimes which stirred both sides of the globe. She married Ned Lyons and became implicated with him in bank robberies, safe-blowing and swindling operations involving millions of dollars. She was arrested hundreds of times and locked up in fifty jails. She was implicated in the daylight robbery of the Manhattan Bank in New York City of $3,000,000 forty-three years ago. At about the time of her reformation she became the wife of Jimmy Burke, formerly a notorious swindler.

DUELLISTS KILL EACH OTHER

Volley of Pistol Shots Leads to the Discovery of the Two Bodies.

A volley of pistol shots in a deserted Brooklyn Street about midnight led to the discovery that two Italians had fought a duel, in which each had killed the other. Peter Dusemi, 24, butcher, was found dead with five bullets through his chest, after he had crawled to the door of his shop at 223 Johnson Avenue. The police followed the trail left by Dusemi's wounds on the sidewalk to find the body of an unidentified man, about 25 years old, lying in the gutter in front of 255. A bullet had gone through his brain.

Police of the Stagg Street were unable to learn anything about the feud leading up to the shooting. The exchange of shots was heard by several persons but none would say that they had seen the duel.

BUSINESS BACKS HUGHES ON JAPAN

United States Chamber of Commerce Condemns Exclusion by Congress.

FAVORS NEGOTIATION PLAN

Hoover Tells Convention Tide of Government Regulation of Industry Should Be Stemmed.

CLEVELAND, May 7 (Associated Press).—A resolution declaring that "friendly negotiation" instead of Congressional enactment should offer the approach to the solution of the Japanese immigration problem was adopted unanimously today by the foreign commerce section of the twelfth annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Subject to the approval of the Board of Directors, the declaration will be submitted to the final plenary session of the convention. Leaders expect its ratification by a safe majority. It was introduced by Edward A. Filene of Boston and by three representatives of Pacific Coast States, following an address on "Foreign Trade from the Standpoint of the Western States" by Robert N. Lynch, Vice President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, which concluded with a presentation of the opposition viewpoint on the exclusion issue.

In the remarks of the speakers who followed, there was only reaffirmation of Mr. Lynch's arguments.

The resolution approved follows:

"Resolved, That we heartily support the Secretary of State in his efforts to deal with exclusion of those ineligible to citizenship by friendly negotiation instead of by act of Congress.

"We regard the method now proposed by Congress, abrogating the so-called gentlemen's agreement with Japan, backed by the treaty of 1911, without proper notice and conference, as an unnecessary affront to a friendly nation, and one which will weaken and embarrass our country in its treaty relations and obligations with all other powers."

The national membership referendum of the Chamber on transportation policy sustained by large majorities fifteen recommendations of a special committee appointed to formulate a unified national policy, it was announced today. Virtually the entire membership of some 1,300 business organizations affiliated with the National Chamber voted on the committee report, which recommends "full cooperative service of all agencies" as a basic factor of economy and efficiency.

In an address by Secretary of Commerce Hoover on "Some Phases of the Government in Business," the Secretary said that "the basic principles laid down in the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount are as applicable today as when they were declared, but they require a host of subsidiary clauses."

Mr. Hoover spoke of the advancing tide of State and national regulation of business and industry and held that it was "vitally necessary" to stem this tide to preserve the initiative in men which builds character, intelligence and progress.

strange to State politics, but all apparently happy over the victory.

While it appeared a fight for party control was a certainty, some observers feel that Jackson, in the flush of victory, might desire to make peace with the present organization forces in the belief that their help would be needed by him in the Fall campaign.

Jackson first gained favor with Klan leaders, according to them, by granting their organization a charter in Indiana. This was three years ago and meanwhile the Klan has grown in strength, some leaders claiming an Indiana membership of 500,000 to 500,000.

The voting strength of the Klan also appeared on the face of returns in the Democratic Gubernatorial contest. Neither of the candidates having its support or the support of its opponents was able to gain a plurality vote.

Returns for 3,003 precincts give McCulloch 50,195, Durgan 42,808, Cravens 39,344, Holt 28,660, Crittenberger 26,442, Batt 17,564, Priest 6,361, and Risk 5,447.

The only contest for Presidential preference was between President Coolidge and Senator Hiram Johnson. The President's strength was overwhelming. In 3,009 precincts Coolidge got 262,715 votes against 48,831 for Johnson, thereby gaining Indiana's thirty-three delegates to the national convention.

FIGHT CALL IS SENT TO PARK GRAB FOES

Will Meet Next Monday to Plan Combined Action Against Proposed Invasions.

83 ORGANIZATIONS NOTIFIED

Roulstone, Head of New Committee, Takes Steps to Carry On City-Wide Campaign.

Representatives of the eighty-three organizations of the city which helped the fight against the park grabs recently authorized by the Board of Estimate for a music and art centre and a war memorial will meet next Monday at the Russell Sage Foundation Building, 130 East Twenty-second Street, to discuss plans to continue the fight.

The call for the meeting was sent out yesterday by William Bradford Roulstone, 61 Broadway, as head of the Advisory Committee for the Conservation of the Parks. The committee was organized several weeks ago as a medium through which business men's organizations and other associations might fight park invasions. The call read:

"A meeting of the various organizations which have agreed to unite to adopt measures for the protection of the parks of the City of New York is hereby called and will be held on Monday, May 12, at 4 o'clock, in the east hall of the Sage Foundation Building, 130 East Twenty-second Street.

"Please be sure to have one or more of your members present to cooperate in the completion of the organization of this committee, which it is intended shall become a permanent committee for the conservation of the parks. Will you be good enough to advise us who your representative will be?"

Some of the organizations in the group of eighty-three expected to respond to the call for the meeting are:

Parks and Playgrounds Association of the City of New York, City Club, Chamber of Commerce, New York Chapter American Institute of Architects, Woman's League for the Protection of Riverside Park, City Historyl Club, Greenwich House, League of Women Voters, Citizens' Union, Broadway Association, United Neighborhood Houses, New York Chapter American Society of Landscape Architects, Municipal Art Society, Fifth Avenue Association, Henry Street Settlement, New York Branch Shut-In Society, New York City Federation of Women's Clubs, American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, City Gardens Club, Actors' Fidelity League, New York Urban League, New York Child Welfare Committee, American Fine Arts Society, Architectural League, Allied Patriotic Society, West End Association, Riverside Community Councils, Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association.

TAMMANY LEADERS MAY 'DRAFT' FOLEY

the Democratic County Committee, but, by at least some of the leaders, he is regarded more as a Hearst man than as a Tammany man.

Would Avoid Break With Hylan.

There will be still a third membership on the Board of Transportation to provide for and it is possible that an out-and-out Tammany organization man may get that position. There is also the possibility that the Mayor, intent on making the new body appear throughly representative, may select for the third position a man from Queens or one from the Bronx, in both of which boroughs the transit question is a live issue. Should he adopt the latter course Tammany would be left without representation on the new board, except as it might be served through Mr. Whalen. That prospect does not appeal to the Tammany district leaders.

This is one of several matters being discussed in connection with the leadership and the attitude of Mayor Hylan toward Surrogate Foley. If it can possibly be done, Tammany will avoid anything that might be construed as a break with the Mayor at this time. If such a break is to come the organization will endeavor to make the Mayor take the initiative. Total failure to recognize the claims of Tammany Hall in making up the slate for the Board of Transportation probably would be regarded by many leaders as evidence that Mayor Hylan intends to cut loose from the organization which rolled up a substantial plurality for him when he was last elected.

Some of the members of the Tammany Executive Committee were disposed last night, as far as Foley was concerned, to "make him take it," or in other words to elect him leader regardless of his own refusal, and then make the job as easy for him as possible on the theory that he should be willing to make a sacrifice to help the Smith Presidential boom. It is anticipated that Governor Smith will have a last word to say as to this.

New Element Enters Situation.

While Tammany men generally believed last night that Governor Smith had been too busy with his work in Albany to pay any attention to the situation in the Wigwam, others were disposed to believe that a long distance connection would be made for the Governor between New York and Albany before the night was over and that if the Governor thought it wise to do so he would persuade Foley to accept the leadership at least for the time being.

A somewhat new element entered into the situation in that a few of Foley's personal friends suggested to him that if he accepted he would not be able to "stand the gaff." These men, who have an intense admiration for the Surrogate, contend he is too temperamental and too sensitive for the job, as any Tammany leader is sure to get a "pounding" sooner or later. These friends expressed the belief that Foley would go "all to pieces" and possibly resign before the municipal election next year. This, they held, would be detrimental to the organization. How great weight such arguments have with Foley he has not disclosed.

Olvany is talked of as "more of the Murphy type" of leader. He has had experience as leader in a district, which Foley has not had and for some time he was sufficiently close to Murphy to be able to study the Murphy technique. He has the reputation, too, of being cautious. However, he is not nearly as popular, either with the leaders or with the rank and file, as is the Surrogate.

William Allen, Chairman of the Executive Committee, who will preside at the meeting this afternoon, is for the election of Foley. If Foley will not take the job, then Allen himself is a candidate. Former Sheriff Knapp is also in the running and several of the district leaders were advanced as candidates before the sentiment in favor of the selection of Foley crystallized. If at the meeting this afternoon Foley refuses to accept and the committee does not determine upon the drafting process, it will be a wide open race for the leadership, with Olvany a little in the lead, and the select committee expedient probably will be resorted to.

STOLEN BABY FOUND; COUPLE ARE HELD

NEIGHBOR SOLVES MYSTERY

Leads Philadelphia Police to a House Only Ten Blocks From the Home of Child's Parents.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Ten-weeks-old Corinne Modell, the kidnapped baby whose disappearance stirred the entire city, was restored to her parents this morning. The child was well and unharmed.

Only ten blocks from its own home, the child was found in a house at 5,136 Warren Street, clutched in the arms of Mrs. Mary De Marco, the woman for whom police and detectives have searched tirelessly since Monday afternoon. The woman and her husband, Anthony De Marco, a cement finisher, were held to answer charges growing out of the case.

Two stories were told by Mrs. De Marco in explaining how she came by the child. To the police she told a tale of the baby being handed to her by a woman in the street while to her own physician she admitted that she stole the infant in order to make her husband believe she was its mother.

The clew that resulted in the finding of the kidnapper was given to the police last night when Mrs. Leon Churchill, who knew Mrs. De Marco by sight, told the police of her suspicions. She said she had seen Mrs. De Marco return home on Monday with a large "bundle." At 10 o'clock detectives went to the Warren Street house and, confronting Mrs. De Marco, accused her of having taken the Modell baby. The woman denied the charge, asserting that the infant was her own child, born the day before, and referring to Dr. M. C. Thrush, who, she said, had attended her. It was not until this morning that the police finally succeeded in getting in touch with Dr. Thrush and bringing him to the Warren Street house. The physician had the detectives leave the room, when the woman broke down and confessed she had taken the child.

About a month ago, Dr. Thrush said, Mrs. De Marco had visited him, telling him that her husband was extremely fond of children, and since she couldn't have one of her own, she wished to get another woman's child. Dr. Thrush suggested that she adopt a child from some of the institutions, offering to assist her in making such arrangements. The woman left his office apparently very much dejected, he said, and the next time he saw her was when he was summoned to the house by the police to find her holding the Modell child in her arms.

De Marco, who has been married about a year, was apparently completely taken in by the woman's deception, and it was some time before he could be convinced that the baby was not his own.

"She told me," he said, "that she would give birth to a baby this month, and when I got home from work Monday night she came to me and said, 'Here is our baby.' I was so happy, for I had always wanted a child of our own, and I never suspected that the baby was not ours."

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Rewards totaling $3,000 will be paid for the return of the Modell baby by the Mutual Trust Company, Mayor Kendrick, in behalf of the city, and the Sixteenth Street Business Men's Association of West Philadelphia. The recipient has not yet been determined. Mrs. Churchill announced that should she be adjudged the one who gave the information leading to the recovery of the baby, she will divide the money with the neighbors who helped her in her investigation. The Philadelphia Inquirer also offered a reward of $3,000 for exclusive information, leading to the recovery of the baby.

WILL OF C. F. MURPHY TO BE READ SATURDAY

Document Reported Missing Is Found in a Safe-Deposit Box.

Charles F. Murphy's will was found yesterday in one of his safe deposit boxes. It was sealed and will not be opened until Saturday morning, in the Surrogate's office, when it will be read and, according to present plans, made public.

For a time yesterday, the report was spread that the Tammany leader either had left no will or the document had disappeared. The report was based on the application made by Arthur J. Baldwin, who was counsel to Mr. Murphy, to Surrogate John P. O'Brien for permission to open three safe deposit boxes held in Mr. Murphy's name. These boxes were in the vaults of the Guaranty Safe Deposit Company, the Safe Deposit Company of New York and the Madison Square Safe Deposit Company.

Mr. Baldwin appeared before the Surrogate as representing the widow, Mrs. Margaret J. Murphy. He announced that he asked for the order so that he might make a search for the will, which he believed was in one of the boxes. The Surrogate issued the order. Later Mr. Baldwin announced he had found the will. Arrangements for opening it and probating it on Saturday morning were made last evening.

MRS. W. B. LEEDS ON STAND

Testifies to High Regard for Son's Wife, Who Sues Her.

Mrs. William Bateman Leeds, widow of a New York lawyer, testified before Supreme Court Justice Lydon and a jury yesterday in the suit brought against her by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mae Joyce Leeds, that she still has a high regard for her son's wife, despite the suit. The plaintiff seeks $250,000 damages on the ground that the elder woman had her committed to a sanitarium at Englewood, N. J., in 1920. The witness said she took no step concerning the younger Mrs. Leeds that was not prompted by sincere regard for her interest.

Mrs. Leeds testified that she allowed her son, William S. Leeds, $400 a month and that after persuading him twice to return to his wife, only to see him leave a third time, she discontinued the allowance to him and sent the checks directly to her daughter-in-law. The trial will continue today.

QUEENS DOG WINS VERDICT.

No Damages to Man He Ran Over—Crusade Against Unmuzzled Pets.

A jury in the Supreme Court, Queens, decided yesterday in favor of John Roach Jr. of Jamaica Avenue, Richmond Hill, who was sued by Harold Smith of 8,405 102d Street, Richmond Hill, for $5,000 damages because Roach's dog ran over Smith, causing him to have his right leg in a plaster cast for weeks.

The defense insisted a dog had a right to romp on the sidewalk and it was up to pedestrians to keep out of his way. The jury deliberated three hours.

Jury Acquits E. J. Carpenter.

AUBURN, N. Y., May 7.—Edwin J. Carpenter, former member of Assembly from Steuben County, was found not guilty of driving an automobile while intoxicated by a jury in Supreme Court here today. Mr. Carpenter, who had voted as a "dry" in the Legislature, charged that enemies had conspired to place liquor in his automobile unknown to him and that the arrest was the result of a "frame-up."

SIMPLE COIL MAKES 'BOTTLED SUNSHINE'

Dr. C. H. Sharp Lights Tomadelli Lamp in Court Without the Inventor's Machine.

USED ORDINARY CURRENT

State's Expert Not Allowed to See Apparatus Work—Woman Stockholder Still Has Faith.

Using a simple high-frequency coil, attached to an electric light socket, Dr. Clayton H. Sharp, an electrical expert, caused the copper filament in a Tomadelli "bottled sunshine" lamp to glow yesterday in the office of Referee Joseph E. Newburger, who is presiding at hearings in the State's injunction suit against the Tomadelli Electronic Corporation.

After the demonstration, Vincent L. Liebel, representing the defendant, vigorously denied that it had proved anything. He brought from Dr. Sharp the admission that the glow was the mere electrical phenomenon which always occurs when an electric coil is brought into contact with a metal.

Dr. Sharp said that from his observation of the apparatus it had neither commercial nor practical application. Many of Tomadelli's statements to him, he said, were contrary to "known scientific facts."

"In your opinion," asked Wilber W. Chambers, Deputy Attorney General, "would it prove anything if the lamp did glow for a short time?"

"If it glowed while in Mr. Tomadelli's board, at the receiving end of his apparatus, it would not prove anything," was the reply.

Dr. Sharp described many of the thousands of parts of Tomadelli's complex invention, and how it was supposed to collect vibrations or electrons from the atmosphere, pass them down five cables, raise them to high voltage, and, through proper manipulations, send a flash down a tunnel of tar paper to the receiving end of the apparatus.

However, the witness had no opportunity to see the actual production of "cold light" in the Tomadelli laboratory. If he cared to see a demonstration he would have to return at night he was told, because trains passing near the building caused such vibrations as to make things dangerous in the plant.

"Tomadelli didn't explain why vibrations from the trains were not equally obnoxious in the evening," Dr. Sharp said. He returned at night, however. Tomadelli removed his shoes, substituted canvas tennis shoes, and then put on a rubber rain-coat, the witness said. The inventor insisted, the witness added, that he stand in back of the lamp board, which was more than six feet high, whence he could see absolutely nothing. He suggested places of vantage, but Tomadelli had ready reasons for refusing his requests, Dr. Sharp declared.

"Mr. Tomadelli said he had been advised by counsel not to permit us to see the operation," asserted Dr. Sharp, "because they were afraid we would get the secret of the invention. It would be manifestly impossible for any one to get the secret of such a tremendously complex apparatus while watching a demonstration."

Mrs. Honore Walsh, of 119 Harmon Street, Brooklyn, testified that she purchased ten shares of Tomadelli stock for $10 because of the strides electricity has made in recent years. A representative of the corporation told her, she said, that in one year a share would be worth $100 and promised it would even reach $1,000.

"I haven't lost faith in it altogether yet," said Mrs. Walsh.

The trial will be resumed today.

VETERANS HELPING CAMP WITH BONUS

Legion Commander Says Ex-Service Men All Over State Are Contributing.

Edward W. Spafford, State Commander of the American Legion, announced yesterday that all over the State war veterans, whether members of the Legion or not, were contributing a part of their State bonus to the Veterans' Mountain Camp, opened by the Legion at Tupper Lake. He expressed regret at criticism of the camp and attacked the City Club Post of the Legion, who were long active in their opposition to the bonus. Of that post he said that "it seems as if pique and disappointment have caused them to oppose and to lie about the greatest humanitarian project ever undertaken by a veteran organization."

Explaining the Legion's position on contributions toward the camp, Commander Spafford said:

"We asked for an average of 10 per cent. from all veterans, and I shall be very much disappointed if we do not get it. The veteran coming down with tuberculosis now cannot trace his disability to war service, yet he will need hospitalisation, and how is he going to feel if he applies for entrance to the camp which he has not aided when he could? I am informed that General Lafayette Police Post here in New York City, the largest in the State, is going to contribute to a man, some even giving $100."

More than 1,500 applicants crowded into the 106th Regiment Armory at Bedford and Atlantic Avenues, Brooklyn, last night. Hundreds were turned away because they had neglected to bring their discharge papers. A force working under Charles Edwards, Chairman of the Bonus Committee of the 106th Infantry Post, disposed of more than 400 blanks. At the Thirteenth Coast Defense Command Armory at Sumner and Jefferson Avenues, hundreds were turned away last night because the committee did not receive the blanks until a late hour.

HIT BY GIRL MOTORIST.

Mother and Son Run Down by Miss Griffin, Learning to Drive.

Mrs. Bridget Ward of 314 West Forty-ninth Street and her 3-year-old son, Thomas, were cut and bruised yesterday when they were knocked down in front of their home by an automobile driven by Winifred Griffin, 20 years old, of 298 Fourteenth Street, Brooklyn. They were attended by Dr. Sneering at Roosevelt Hospital, and later taken to their home. Miss Griffin had just bought the car and was receiving driving instructions from Arthur Elder, a demonstrator and salesman. Policeman Ward of the West Forty-seventh Street Station served her with a summons for operating the car without a license and negligent driving.

Geniuses and Others

THERE are men—called geniuses—who never think about their clothes—they are not supposed to—they look it.

There are others—just folks—who think about their clothes all the time—and they show it in their embarrassed uneasiness.

Then there's the man who has thought enough about his clothes before he got them—so that he can forget them while he's in them—he's at ease.

There's comfort, indescribable, in the complete assurance of being well dressed—in knowing that your clothes are a part of you—expressing you at your best.

It's the infinite care to each detail of construction—the "little" important points, the skilful fashioning by hand, that makes Goodman & Suss 23 Point Hand-Tailored Clothes the choice of the well-dressed man.

METHODISTS VOTE FOR CHURCH UNION

General Conference Agrees, by 842 to 13, to Merger of North and South Bodies.

WILL HEAL 80 YEARS' SPLIT

Southern Branch Will Call a Special Conference at Once to Ratify Unification.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 7.—The Quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church voted today in favor of unification with the Methodist Episcopal Church South. The vote was 802 in the affirmative and only 13 in the negative. The victory was marked with wild cheering and shouting.

Efforts for the union of the Northern and Southern churches have been under way for many years. The united Church will have 8,270,704 members.

	North.	South.
Ministers	20,517	7,814
Members	4,566,540	2,330,151
Sunday schools	36,597	16,647
Officers	408,906	154,893
Members Sunday schools	4,648,061	1,871,416
Churches and institutions	28,430	11,464

A movement to make the vote on union unanimous was blocked by George E. Hume, a banker of Vanmuys, Cal., an assistant secretary of the conference. The others who voted "no" were the Rev. Dr. Samuel Alonso Bright, Superintendent of the Albergueque District, New Mexico; the Rev. Samuel M. Strayhorne, a negro, of Nashville, Tenn., and the delegation of five minister and five laymen from the Oklahoma conference. Some of the Oklahoma delegates announced that they favored the union, but as their conference had voted against it they felt that they could not support it.

The exact name of the merged Church is to be determined later.

Word Sent to Southern Bishops.

The Secretary was instructed to telegraph the conference action to the Secretary of the General Conference of the Church South. Bishop McDowell had announced that the Southern Bishops were in session at Nashville, Tenn., awaiting the action of the Church North, and that as soon as they knew the union had been agreed to here they would call a special meeting of the General Conference of their Church to take similar action.

If the Church South adopts the union, as is expected, the question will be sent for ratification to all the 165 annual local conferences in the Church North and the forty-two conferences in the Church South. If two-thirds of each branch vote for the unification it will go into effect immediately thereafter. It is virtually assured that more than the necessary two-thirds will do so.

The report for unification presented by Bishop McDowell was a joint report agreed upon by the two commissions from the two churches, the final meeting of which was held in St. Louis. At this meeting all the representatives of the Church North and all except three of those of the Church South voted "Yes."

"The plan is to unite first by living together and then by working together," said Bishop McDowell, "and then it will not take long to find we are together. It is the forward look and not the backward look we are asking you to take.

"We are willing to take the Methodist Church South as it is, and that church is willing to take us as we are.

"It will justify pretty nearly any sacrifice we are called on to make if this plan of unification can be adopted."

Not one speech was made against unification. There were at one time fourteen delegates on their feet trying to speak in its support.

Dr. Downey's motion to adopt the unification report was seconded by the Rev. W. A. Hughes and the Rev. Charles A. Tindley both negroes, and both of Philadelphia.

Plan of Unification.

"The Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South shall be united in one church, with two jurisdictions, under a constitution, with a general conference and two jurisdictional conferences.

"Jurisdiction No. 1 shall comprise all the churches, annual conferences, mission conference and missions now constituting the Methodist Episcopal Church, and any other such conferences and missions as may hereafter be organized by its jurisdictional conference, with the approval of the general conference.

"Jurisdiction No. 2 shall comprise all the churches, annual conferences, mission conferences and missions now constituting the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and any other such conferences and missions as may hereafter be organized by its jurisdictional conference with the approval of the general conference.

"The general conference and the jurisdictional conferences shall be composed of the same delegates. Said delegates shall be elected by and from the annual conferences, provided said general and jurisdictional conferences shall have not more than one ministerial delegate for every 120 members of each annual conference and an equal number of lay delegates chosen according to the regulations of each of the two jurisdictions; but for a fraction of two-thirds or more of the number fixed by the general conference as the ratio of representation an annual conference shall be entitled to an additional ministerial and an additional lay delegate; and provided, further, that each annual conference shall be entitled to at least one ministerial and one lay delegate.

"The general conference shall not revoke, alter or change our articles of religion or establish any new standards or rules of doctrine contrary to our present existing and established standards of doctrine.

Episcopacy to Remain.

"The general conference shall not change or alter any part or rule of our government so as to do away with the episcopacy or destroy the plan of our itinerant general superintendency.

"The general conference shall not revoke or change the general rules of the united societies.

"The general conference shall not do away with the privileges of our ministers or preachers of trial by a committee and of appeal; neither shall they do away with the privileges of our members of trial before the Church or by a committee and of an appeal.

"The Bishops of the two churches as at present constituted shall be Bishops of the united church without further action.

"Each jurisdiction shall have a jurisdictional conference possessing the full powers of the general conference of the churches now constituting said jurisdiction, except such powers as are herein vested in the general conference, or which may hereafter from time to time be legally delegated to the general conference by the jurisdictional conferences."

Bishop Herbert Welch of Seoul, Corea, read a message sent to the conference from Viscount Kiyoura, Premier of Japan, commending "the splendid work which the American churches are performing in the promotion of friendship among the nations."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 7.—No action was taken tonight by the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, attending the Board of Missions here, in regard to the announcement that the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Springfield, Mass., had voted for unification with the Southern Church. The announcement today was received with enthusiasm by both the Bishops and the Board of Missions.

GOOD HEALTH! With all his millions, Carnegie could not buy this. In the midst of music and dancing in his castle in Scotland he said—"I would trade most of my treasure for the promise of twenty years more of life and health."

"Old age" is, however, not a matter of years—it is a matter of health, of the condition of the body mechanism. The date of your birth certificate does not tell how old you really are. Only a thorough physical examination will settle that question.

✣

You may have been born only forty years ago, yet have only six months to live. Or, you may have been born fifty years ago, and yet be good for another fifty years.

✣

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, Director of the American College of Surgeons, says—

"The life of the average person would be prolonged fifteen years, yearly deaths from tuberculosis would be reduced from 150,000 to 50,000, deaths from cancer would be greatly reduced, and thousands would be kept from having diseases of the heart and kidneys if every man and woman in the United States would submit to a physical examination at least once a year."

✣

Dr. Martin's opinion is shared by every leading physician in the country. There is a definite, proved way by which you can add years to your life and increase your happiness.

✣

Won't you let science help you? Won't you have yourself examined before it is too late? It is tragic to see thousands of men and women die every year from preventable diseases when it would be so easy to save these lives—when science is literally begging for a chance to help!

✣

Go to your physician or go to the Life Extension Institute—it makes no difference. But get that physical examination—please. It is the most important thing that you can do to-day.

✣

The Life Extension Institute, as you may know, is a semi-philanthropic organization. It was founded in 1913, with the co-operation of Harold A. Ley, Professor Irving Fisher, former President Taft, Robert W. de Forest, and other forward-looking men of affairs. (Mr. Taft was Chairman of the Board of Directors until his appointment as Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.)

✣

The Institute's services include a standarizedphysicalexamination of the whole body with a study of your personal history, family history and general living habits; confidential reports; suggestions as to any needed form of medical treatment; instructions covering all phases of correct personal hygiene, and many other valuable privileges. The Institute renders no treatment, performs no operations, but makes a scientific survey of your life and body and submits a report which, if some form of medical treatment is needed, assists your physician in making the final diagnosis and applying treatment for the correction of your physical defects.

Since the Institute was organized more than 300,000 men and women have taken its examinations. These examinations are part of the Institute's annual health services, which include a General Health Service $10 a year, and a Standard Health Service $25 a year.

Examinations are made at the Head Office in New York, on appointment between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M. Out-of-town subscribers can be examined either at the Head Office or at the office of the Institute's medical examiner in their locality.

EPISCOPAL PRELATE URGES HERESY TRIAL

SEES DANGER TO CHURCH

Special to The New York Times.

RAHWAY, N. J., May 7.—Bishop Paul Matthews of Trenton, at the 153d convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey here today, urged that the convention give unqualified support to the doctrine of the virgin birth and that it "stand by the Christian faith" at the forthcoming Episcopalian General Convention. He favored heresy trials for those who dissented and said the first trials should be of the higher clergy.

"Let us settle this question fairly and squarely, without rancor or recrimination but without fear or favor," said Bishop Matthews. "Do not let us imagine that it is a situation that will cure itself or a fire that will burn itself out for lack of fuel. It will consume us if we do not quench it."

Bishop Matthews said he believed that the present "unrest" in the church was due to two things; the "outstanding prominence" of some of its leaders, who were attacking the creed and the radical character of the attacks.

"What I should like to see done in the interest of personal faith," said he, "is to go back to the simple and primative New Testament conditions of Christian discipleship and church membership by requiring at baptism only a confession of personal faith in Jesus Himself as a personal savior, instead of faith in the articles of the creed.

"I am profoundly convinced that the denial of the Virgin birth will, in virtually all cases, lead inevitably to the denial of our Lord's bodily resurrection and also a negation of His absolute divinity and of the reality of His incarnation. These men are unconscious Unitarians and their teaching is plainly contrary to the doctrine held by this church. They are liable to presentation for trial and, if they evade the issue, ought to forfeit their standing, and their title to our respect.

"If forced to such necessity, even trials for heresy must be resorted to without regard to age, position or previous distinguished service. In such case, however, I would advocate starting at the top."

Although no formal action was taken, sentiment among the delegates was said to be overwhelmingly in Bishop Matthews's support.

COAT MAY CLEAR MYSTERY.

Sought to Determine Identity of Chiropractor's Assailant.

A blue pajama coat, missing from the room of John O. Vollmer, is being sought by the Newark police to determine the identity of the assailant who crushed the skull of George A. Neilson, a chiropractor, with a hammer Tuesday. Neilson is expected to die.

Vollmer, a roomer and a patient in the Neilson home, is being held. Questioned throughout Tuesday night, he insisted he knew nothing of the attack. He offered an alibi that the police are checking up. Police Surgeon Mullin examined the prisoner and found him to be mentally unbalanced.

RUNAWAY TROLLEY SMASHES ANOTHER

by the other car, its momentum now almost spent.

Charles Lotter of 494 Weiher Court, motorman of the crosstown car, was thrown down by the collision. He scrambled to his feet and threw on the brakes. But neither car was going fast and by the time they had reached Macombs Place they stopped, almost of themselves.

On the crosstown car were Patrolmen Robert McQuade and Fred Pfeiffer. With two other policemen who ran up they began taking out the injured, nearly all of whom were in the crosstown car. Ambulances came and a score of taxicabs and private automobiles were pressed into service to take them away.

List of Injured.

Nearly all of those hurt badly enough to need more than first aid were taken to Columbus Hospital. Those kept in that institution were:

SERFERT, GEORGE, 32 years old, of 1,230 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, motorman of the Ogden Avenue car; fractured right leg, severe internal injuries.

Those treated for minor injuries were:

JACOBY, ANA, 941 Stebbins Avenue, Bronx.

KNIGHT, MAUDE, 412 East 162d Street.

ARONOWITZ, ALBERT, 610 Bryant Avenue, Bronx.

DIMARIA, FRANK, 302 Mott Street.

BROGMAN, RUTH, 515 East 156th Street.

VIVIANI, ALEXANDER, 1,311 University Avenue.

SCHNEIDER, IKE, 480 St. Paul Place.

BERDECH, EMMA, 450 West 165th Street.

Most of the injured were in the back of the crosstown car or in the front part of the runaway. The rear platform of the forward car was telescoped. The platform was crowded at the time and the passengers there were unable to get out of the way. The iron rail behind which he was standing saved McGill from serious injury. In the other car in which the passengers were tossed into a heap and a few hurt, Serfert was hurled against the glass and wooden framework and knocked unconscious.

In the excitement that followed, someone turned in a fire alarm and the clanging of fire bells soon mingled with the voice of excited women and children and clatter of gongs on the ambulances.

The task of loading the wounded into ambulances and automobiles and rushing them off to hospitals through the traffic snarl taxed the police.

Thousands of persons gathered. Hundreds lined the rail of the viaduct, risking a fall to the street, a hundred or more feet, to get a glimpse of the wreck. Policemen had a hard struggle to dirve them away from the rail.

All Bronx traffic was diverted from Central Bridge and from the 155th Street Viaduct. Cars on the Bronx side of Central Bridge were stopped at Ogden Avenue and on the west side of the viaduct they were stopped at St. Nicholas Place.

Reserves from the West 135th Street station in charge of Sergeants Lynch and McVeigh and a special corps of traffic men taken from the vicinity of the Yankee Stadium were called upon to handle the crowds.

William E. Thompson, superintendent of traffic for the Third Avenue Railway, said that he had been unable to ascertain the cause of the accident owing to Serfert's condition. He flouted the story told by witnesses who said they saw the trolley pole fly off, and said that even had the current been cut off in this way, the brakes would not have been affected.

Here's the Minnewaska Prize Cargo

New Woolen Blankets from England's Best Mills

Averaging 88 per cent. wool. Weighing 4¼ to 5 pounds Size about 60x90 in.

$3.75 each — or — $3.50 in bale lots of 25 blankets for $87.50

This is the best blanket news that has come to America since the memorable Wanamaker Sale of Army Blankets in 1919, when the public broke down a door in its eagerness to get into the Store. To get the price so low it was necessary to buy more than a million blankets. But of these England kept the greater part for home and colonial consumption, only a limited quantity being allotted for American sale, of which this is the first public offering.

These are Oxford Gray Blankets

in medium and darker shades, entirely different from the usual army blankets. They are cheerful and fashionable in color—shading in the various grays now so much in favor. The fabric is like a heavy cloth, making it a blanket, a robe, a throw-over all in one.

They were made for the British government, but were never in camps, as they were manufactured since the Armistice, some of them as recently as two years ago. To reduce unemployment England kept on making blankets after the war closed. Most of them are stamped lightly with the broad arrow—the British government inspector's mark, showing that they have complied with the rigid specifications.

All the blankets are brand new—clean as a hound's tooth.

Everybody Will Want these Blankets

They are ideal for summer camps, summer homes, sleeping porches, summer hotels, house boats, yachts, boat houses, for automobile robes, for a throw-down on the grass or beach for baby.

They are fine enough to use in any home, city or country.

They are without competition—price, quality and usefulness considered. You couldn't get the same practical use out of a blanket costing less than $6 or $7. Yet these are $3.75.

Buy the Blankets by the Bale

You then save 25c more on each blanket—a saving of $6.25 on the bale. All bales are uniform. You choose the sample, selecting medium or dark shades, and the blankets in the bale will all be alike—in color, weight, texture, percentage of wool.

No Blanket Less than 82 Per Cent. Wool

The average is over 88 per cent. wool. And that percentage is a splendid combination for warmth and wear. Not too heavy, but warm. And the cotton adds strength.

Order by Wire, Phone or Mail
(Phone orders call Stuyvesant 4700)

We expect to receive orders from all over America, once the good news gets around. Whether we can supply the demand remains to be seen. The Minnewaska and other steamers have brought fifty thousand of the blankets. Other shipments will follow.

SPECIALIZED SERVICE—STREET FLOOR—NEW BUILDING

BANK CASHIER HELD IN $4,900 SHORTAGE

EXAMINERS CHECK BOOKS

Accused Surrenders, Pleads Not Guilty—Locked Up Failing to Give $25,000 Bail.

Charles M. Vanderoef, cashier in the First National Bank at Bellmore, L. I., surrendered to Federal Commissioner J. H. McCabe in Brooklyn yesterday, and pleaded not guilty to a charge that he had misappropriated $4,900 of the bank's funds. He disappeared from Bellmore after bank examiners had arrived at the bank on Tuesday.

Immediately on learning of Vanderoef's surrender, Assistant District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards of Nassau County, began an investigation to determine whether this development had any bearing on the raid on the bank by six armed men on April 4. The raiders shot to death Ernest L. Whitman of Patchogue, a bond salesman, who was entering the bank when the robbers were leaving. They stole $7,036 of the bank's funds. Three men are under indictment on charges of murder in the case, and four others have been arrested as suspects.

Vanderoef had registered at the Hotel McAlpin, Tuesday afternoon. Yesterday he telephoned the Burns detective agency, employed by the American Bankers' Association, saying he knew he was charged with stealing funds of the bank and wished to give himself up. A representative of the agency met him at the hotel and they went before the Federal Commissioner in Brooklyn.

Federal Attorney Ralph C. Green asked that bail be placed at $35,000, but a representative of George M. Levy, attorney for the cashier, induced Commissioner McCabe to set bail at $25,000 for a hearing at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Vanderoef was unable to furnish bail and was locked up.

Dejected and uncommunicative, Vanderoef evaded most of the questions put to him by reporters. He said that he went with the bank in 1917 when it was organized, having previously been employed in a bank at Newburgh, his home city. "I've been a good sport, but I never gambled or played the market," he said.

He said he was aware that bank examiners would be at Bellmore Tuesday and feared a charge might be placed against him after their audit of the books. Therefre, he said, he left Bellmore at noon, after the arrival of the examiners, and went to the Hotel McAlpin.

John J. Bedell, President of the bank and a real estate man in Bellmore, was the complainant. He said that Vanderoef was bonded and that the bank would not lose a cent. He said that the cashier had been a trusted employe and that full confidence had been reposed in him by the trustees. James B. Funston, in charge of the examiners, said the work of checking up the books would take "anywhere from two days to two weeks."

Vanderoef's home is in Washington Avenue, Bellmore. He has been married eighteen years and has a son, Kenneth, 15 years old. His wife is an invalid.

At the time of the bank raid Vanderoef was home at lunch. Later in the day Vanderoef was spokesman for the bank in answering questions of detectives and reporters.

BREMERTON, Wash., May 7 (Associated Press).—Some indication of whether three army fliers at Atka Island, in the Aleutians, had taken the air today on a flight around the world in which they have been engaged since March 17, was awaited late today at the Puget Sound Naval Station here.

In the days of Queen Anne

Soft-toned walnut was the preferred wood when the contours of these lovely pieces were originated... Naturally it has been selected for the development of the writing table here portrayed, which has all the suave curves so apparent in the furniture of the late Stuarts. ¶ From Stuart times also come the lines of the comfortable side chair. These are Hampton reproductions; and the only possible difference which might be observed between them and the originals themselves would be in that certain patina which age alone can really produce in perfection. Yet even this is cleverly simulated wherever needful in many of our loveliest pieces.

The Making of a Stockbroker

By Edwin Lefèvre

From his beginnings at the blackboard, chalking up quotations on the coppers, to his rise in a great Wall Street house, Mr. Lefèvre tells the story of this stockbroker, omitting nothing, sparing nobody. Those who believe that all Wall Street men are curly wolves; the demagogues who use Wall Street as a symbol in their denunciations of wealth; as well as those who picture Wall Street as a financial paradise with golden streets in which customers may pick up money, will find the facts, good and bad, in Mr. Lefèvre's series.

YANKEES WIN, 7 TO 4, FROM THE MACKMEN

PENNOCK BATTED FROM BOX

Is Relieved by Hoyt When Lead Is Threatened in Final Inning—Hauser and Miller Hit Homers.

Having reached that stage where they are more to be pitied than scorned, the less said about the Athletics' shortcomings yesterday the better. Sufficient to say that they lost their third straight game at the Stadium and their ninth straight on all fields, giving the Mackmen the unenviable distinction of possessing the longest losing streak of the current season.

The score was 7 to 4, the Yankees making all their seven runs before the Athletics made any of their four. But it was by no means a dull and vapid contest. On the contrary, the fans were sitting on the edge of their chairs in the last three innings, chewing their finger nails and wondering if Herb Pennock would be able to stem the sudden flood of runs and base hits that poured on him from the Philadelphia dugout.

In the last three innings it was an exciting contest. The Athletics filled the bases in the eighth but coined only run out of it, when Pennock beat down Pinch Hitter Welch's savage liner and threw him out at first base to end the inning.

But Pennock, when he began slipping, went fast, and Miller Huggins had to throw in the towel in the last round. Dykes opened by jabbing a single to centre, and Hale helped himself to a two-bagger, sending Dykes to third. At this point Pennock was wig-wagged to the bench and Waite Hoyt came along to see what could be done about the matter. Paul Strand, the slugger from Salt Lake City, helped Waite immensely by lining straight into the hands of Joe Dugan, who stepped on third base for a double play. That ceased the high tension, and it was no trick at all for Scott to get beneath Hauser's high pop fly.

Hauser Hits Home Run.

After going six innings without moving a wheel, the Mackmen jumped all over Pennock in the seventh for no reason at all. Hauser broke the ice with a home run into the right field bleachers, and Miller repeated a minute later into the left field stand. Then Perkins and Walberg singled and Dykes doubled, scoring another marker, but Pennock had just enough strength left to strike Hale out and totter from the hill.

Back to the attack went the busy Athletics in the eighth. Opening singles by Strand and Hauser put men on first and third, and Simmons's line smack to Ruth helped Strand across the plate. Miller followed with a safe bunt, and the crowd began to stir restlessly. However, Riconda forced Miller at second for out No. 2. A pass to Bruggy filled the bases, and a hit by Welch would have cleared most of them. The pinch batter's drive all but cleaved a hole through Pennock, but the pitcher's game recovery checked the trouble.

In addition to their usual misfortune, the A's had the extra bad luck to lose their shortstop, Chick Galloway, who wrenched his ankle making a gallant but vain stop of Pipp's infield single over second in the third. Although running toward right field, Galloway heroically tried a sideways throw to first base, and it was during this contortionists' feat that the accident occurred. He didn't limp badly walking off the field and will be all right in a day or two.

All the Yankee runs and hits were at the expense of Rollie Naylor, who absorbed the punishment that Connie Mack let him off for the remainder of the afternoon with two men on and two out in the seventh. Walberg and Ogden divided the rest of the game.

Witt and Dugan Score.

Naylor's beginning was none too auspicious. At the very outset Dykes fumbled Witt's grounder and Dugan pounded a single to left which took a bad hop and allowed Whitey to steam along to third, while Dugan made second under cover of the throw. Ruth's tap along the first base line was feeble but it enabled Witt to score and Dugan to get to third, whence he jogged over the plate on Meusel's hot single.

Just for the comfort of the thing the Hugmen annexed another run in the third, which Ruth started with his first single, a sizzling affair between first and second. On Meusel's out Babe rumbled to second, and took another base on Pipp's infield hit—the play which resulted in Galloway's accident. Naylor passed Ward, filling the bases, then couldn't get it over for Schang, whose pass forced Ruth over the pan.

Successive singles by Messrs. Dugan, Ruth and Meusel carved out a fourth tally in the next round, and the Yanks locked the game up in the office safe in the fifth by adding two runs to their already comfortable total. Scott opened fire with a single and skidded to third on Schang's double to right. Miller almost clinging to the ball after a long race over the grass. Pennock raised a sacrifice fly to right, scoring Scott, and Witt followed with another short hoist to left on which Schange, with a burst of speed, made the plate.

The details were just as sad in the sixth. Meusel starting with a double and counting on Pipp's single for the last run.

St. Louis Drives Coveleskie From Box in First Inning.

CLEVELAND, May 7.—St. Louis defeated Cleveland today, 10 to 8, after St. Louis drove Coveleskie from the box and scored six runs in the first inning. The Indians tied the score in the second and went to the front in the third, only to let the Browns take the lead again in the fifth when Levensen was driven from the rubber. Jacobson made five hits in five times up.

Caught at the Plate

The hardest drive Ruth has hit this year was a foul in the fifth, batted off a slow ball and sent on a vicious line straight against the fence behind the "bloody angle" in right. The ball traveled at incredible speed and its impact with the fence sounded like the dull thud of an artillery piece far away.

The Babe's two singles and a walk in five times up helped the old batting average and the Yankee cause, but didn't nourish the home-run record to any extent.

Walberg, with a lot of stuff, fanned the side in the seventh—Witt, Dugan and Meusel. A pass to Ruth came in between.

Everybody but the top and bottom men of the batting order got Yankee hits, which were fifteen in all.

Dykes's two-bagger in the seventh bounced into the stands, but on the foul side of the line, and, therefore, under the ground rules was not a homer.

GIANTS BEAT PHILS IN TENTH BY 4 TO 2

BARNES IN HURLING DUEL

He and Hubbell Pitch in Fine Form Until Break Goes Against Latter in Extra Session.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 7.—A sudden cracking of Wilbur Hubbell's defense in the tenth inning of today's game made it possible for the Giants to win by a score of 4 to 2 and thus get partial revenge for the two humiliating defeats foisted upon them by the Phillies in the two preceding games. Today's combat developed into a pitching duel between Wilbur Hubbell and Virgil Barnes, and the end was hardly in sight when Andy Woehr, young third-sacker of the Quakers, elected to try for a double play he had a slim chance of making. He passed up a certain play at the plate and thus enabled the Giants to score one run and paved the way for another.

Good fielding on both sides helped to keep the total of runs down. In the third inning Mokan pulled a drive by Snyder out of the left field bleachers, clutching the ball as it was about to cross the low wall of the stand. In the fourth inning Southworth went to the extreme centre field corner of the lot for a ball hit by Mokan, and in the eighth Williams took an extra base hit away from Frisch with a running catch in left centre.

The scoring of the two runs used by the Giants to win the game in the tenth inning was done in this wise:

Giants Rally and Win.

Kelly, leading off, missed a home run only by inches when his liner struck the left field bleachers and bounced back into left centre. This hit was good for two bases and Kelly reached third when Jackson was thrown out by Sand. Wary of getting a ball too close to the plate for Snyder, Hubbell worked carefully on the Giant catcher, but ended in walking him, at which Terry was sent up to hit for Barnes and Lindstrom put on to run for Snyder.

Then came the break in favor of the Giants. Terry hit to Woehr, who had Kelly hung up between third base and the plate. Instead of pegging to Henline he whirled about and threw to second base. Ford, not expecting a play at this bag, was late in covering it, but did get there in time to force Lindstrom, but Kelly scored. Southworth followed with a single to centre, and while Williams was trying to catch up with the ball, get a firm grip on it and return it to the infield, Terry dashed all the way home. Southworth got to second on the throw, but was left when Ford threw out Groh.

Bill Ryan went to the mound for the Giants in the last half of the tenth, but escaped with no greater damage to his offerings than a single by Walker, who batted for Sand.

Phillies Tie Score.

The Giants got to Hubbell for two runs in the fourth inning after he had failed to allow a hit for three innings. A base on balls to Southworth started the trouble for Hubbell in this session. Groh was disposed of on a fly to Williams, but Frisch doubled to right. Henrich threw wide to third base. Southworth scoring and Frisch reaching third. Frisch scored a moment later when Young beat out a slow roller to Ford.

Back came the Phils to tie the score in the fifth inning. Williams lined sharply to Young, who muffed the ball. Ford rapped a single to right that sent Williams to third and Young scored on Holke's scratch hit to Kelly. Ford and Holke moved up on Woehr's demise on a grounder to Jackson, and Henline was purposely passed, filling the bases and providing an excellent setting for a double play. Hubbell, however, poked a single to right and Ford crossed the plate. Sand could not get the ball by Groh and a double play followed, Holke being forced at the plate and Sand doubled up at first base.

The Giants had a chance to put a run over the plate in the sixth inning and settle the matter right there, but were turned away. With Southworth, who had singled, on third base and Frisch, who also had a single, on first, Young hit to Sand and Southworth was nailed in a close play at the plate.

Barnes had an anxious moment or two in the eighth inning, but pulled himself out of a hole by fanning Ford with two out, Sand on third base and Mokan on first.

CUBS BEAT PIRATES, 5-1.

PITTSBURGH, May 7.—Five Pittsburgh pitchers were unable to stop the slugging Cubs and Chicago evened the series by taking today's game, 5 to 1. Kaufmann pitched a brilliant game, but was especially effective with men on bases.

BRAVES WIN FINAL FROM ROBINS, 4-1

MARQUARD HURLS VICTORY

Boston Pitcher Goes Route Against His Former Mates—Yarrison Is Driven From Mound in Third.

None but the Braves deserved the ball game at Ebbets Field yesterday, and the Braves got it, 4 to 1. The Boston boys outplayed the Robins from the first out to the last and sent the Brooklyn team away on its first long trip in fourth place instead of third. The Robins will not appear on the Flatbush green again until Decoration Day. Only the regulars came out to wish the home lads bon voyage as they turned their faces toward the golden West, and what those that did come saw was just another ball game.

The fact that it was only an ordinary contest did not deter Uncle Robbie from being extremely anxious to win it. His team had won four straight, and no manager likes to see a winning streak, no matter how modest, broken. So Robbie named Rube Yarrison, his $25,000 Portland pitcher, to make it five straight and sweep the Boston series. Against him Manager Hancroft pitted another and more famous Rube, none other than the wry-necked Marquard.

Marquard was pitching baseball in the big leagues when Yarrison was still a schoolboy, and that is the impression a casual observer would have brought away from yesterday's game. Yarrison faltered in the second and was completely routed in the third, while the older Rube toiled the route. He was nearly always in danger, but his arm and head together were always equal to the emergency.

The Robins worked their solitary run around the paths in the third when he walked Andy High, and Zach Taylor and Dutch Henry followed with singles, but from that time on the veteran southpaw was their master. He gave eight hits in all, and the innings were few and far between when the home team didn't have at least one man on the bases. But third base was the deadline. Past that point Marquard and the brilliant defense of the Braves' infield would not permit them to go. Four double plays were credited to the Invaders, and they made them when they needed them.

The Robins turned in only two twin killings, but one of them was the brightest play of the dull afternoon. Tierney and Sperber singled off Henry, who relieved Yarrison, to start the fifth inning, and Padgett followed with a fly to Gene Bailey in deep right. Tierney dashed for third after the catch, but a fast and absolutely perfect throw by Bailey beat him to the bag by a matter of feet. It was a play that deserved all the applause it got.

The Braves counted a run off Yarrison in the second on a pass and two successive singles, and four more off the same gentleman in the third on Jimmy Johnston's error, a brace of singles and Stuffy McInnis's triple to right. Henry came on after that and quelled the disturbance, but the Robins could not get those three runs and the ball game went with them.

HOLY CROSS BEATS PRINCETON IN 14TH

McENTEE IS HERO OF GAME

Scores Run With Triple in Fifth and Drives in Winning Tally With Another Three-Bagger.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 7.—Holy Cross stopped Princeton's winning streak on University Field here this afternoon and won a fourteen-inning pitchers' battle by a 3 to 2 score. The Purple tallied twice in the fifth and the Tigers made their only two scores in the sixth. The game was won in the fourteenth, when Captain Simendinger of Holy Cross singled and was brought in by McEntee's triple to right field. Prior to today's game Princeton had won eleven straight games this season.

Carroll and Caldwell, who opposed each other in the box, did good work, although the visiting twirler had rather the better of the struggle. Carroll allowed the Orange and Black nine hits in the course of fourteen innings, but struck out a total of seventeen men and allowed only one walk. Holy Cross also reached Caldwell for nine hits, but two of them were three-base hits and two were doubles. He gave two walks and struck out seven.

McEntee was the batting star of the afternoon with three hits in six trips to the plate. Two of his hits were for three bases and on each occasion he drove a run across the plate. In the fifth he came to bat with Simendinger on first after a pretty single and drove a three-bagger into right. He then repeated his performance in the fourteenth and brought in Simendinger with the winning tally.

Princeton's only big inning was the sixth, in which Fisher and Foster each singled and were able to tally when Cooper drove out a nice single through short. This was the only frame in the contest when Carroll showed any signs of weakness.

The New Englanders' victory evened up matters between the two teams for last year. Caldwell held them to two hits and the Tigers won 1 to 0 with six hits from Carroll. The Tigers' next contest will be on Saturday with Amherst on University Field.

Gould and Cutting Defeat British at Court Tennis

LONDON, May 7.—Jay Gould of Philadelphia and C. S. Cutting of New York defeated E. M. Baerlin and C. N. Bruce of England in the doubles competition of the international court tennis tournament here to-day, winning 4—6, 1—6, 8—5, 6—5, 6—4. The British players led the Americans 4—2 in the third set when Gould's game rose to its greatest brilliance, the Americans winning the third and also the fourth and fifth sets. But two singles matches remain in the tournament, the Americans needing only one of them to win the Bathurst Cup.

FORDHAM DEFEATS MUHLENBERG, 9 TO 3

White Gets Three Hits, Steals Three Bases and Scores Three Runs for Maroon.

Fordham defeated Muhlenberg on Fordham Field yesterday afternoon, 9 to 3, after the Pennsylvania team had rallied in the eighth and scored three runs. The tying run was left on third and when Fordham came to bat in its half another rally was staged, resulting in five runs being scored and the game going to the Maroon. Dwyer pitched fine ball for the victors, holding Muhlenberg to a single safety in the first seven innings.

Johnny White, brother of Joe, the Fordham pitcher, started his first game of the year and got three hits out of five trips to the plate, as well as stealing three bases and scoring three runs. He also played a fine defensive game at third base.

In the eighth inning Muhlenberg scored three runs on two hits and Woerner's error. Dorang got a life on the Fordham shortstop's misplay and Weber walked. Borden lined a single to right and Conway tripled to right centre, netting three runs. Dwyer, however, tightened and forced the next two men to pop up. To start the Maroon half of the inning Dunn reached first when Moll let the third strike go by. Singles by Malone, Cartwright, Dwyer and White brought in four runs and White scored the fifth when he stole home.

Fordham tallied three times in the first on White's single, two passes, another hit by Landry and an infield out. White scored a run in the second when he beat out a bunt, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and came home on a wild throw by Moll. Landry's pick-up of Witt's liner, starting a double play, was the fielding feature.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., May 7.—Lehigh University's baseball team won a pitchers' battle here today, defeating Rutgers by the score of 2 to 1. Du Bois started on the mound for Lehigh and after holding Rutgers to two hits in five innings was removed to be saved for the Lafayette game on Saturday. Weston, a rookie, replaced him and, surprised by holding the visitors scoreless. Wolf, the Rutgers hurler, allowed only four hits and fanned ten.

Rutgers scored in the first inning when Prior lost a third strike for the final out and Denman raced home. A base on balls and a single scored Prior for Lehigh's first run in the opening inning and in the third Prior tripled and came home on a wild pitch.

BROWN BEATS YALE IN THE NINTH, 1 TO 0

NEUBAUER STEADY IN BOX

O'Hearn Steals Second and Third in Final Half, but Mates Fail to Bring Him Home

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 7.—Brown defeated Yale this afternoon in a brilliant game, 1 to 0, the winning run coming in the ninth with two men out and as a result of a single by Higgins, pinch hitting for Catcher Welch. In that frame Hoffman worked Scott for a base on balls and went to second on Murphy's bunt. Ruckstull drew a base on balls and Duggan fanned. Higgins, with two strikes on him, shot the ball into right field and Hoffman trotted over the plate.

Yale tried desperately for the tying run in her half with the top of the batting order up, but Lindley dampened Yale's hopes by flying out to Murphy. O'Hearn bunted and Higgins's wild throw pulled Heffman off the bag, the Yale captain being safe. O'Hearn stole second, but Ducky Pond, batting for Giblin, fanned out. O'Hearn then stole third, and Mallory walked. Neubauer pitching four wide ones to the Yale batcher. The best Hatcher could do, however, was to send a grounder to Ruckstull, who tossed him out at first.

HORSE SHOW OPENS IN PHILADELPHIA

Largest Gathering on Record Attends First Night Events—Inca Wins Blue.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—The largest and the smartest gathering that has ever turned out to an opening tonight saw the annual indoor horse show open in Squadron A armory.

The riding fashions class, featuring a group of Philadelphia's leading debutantes in riding costume, and the military class for troopers' mounts vied in interest.

The former, divided into three subdivisions, made an attractive sight. The first section was a park set in which the Misses Anne Ashton and Margaretta McNeal were the only competitors, Miss Ashton finally emerging victorious.

The second section, a hunting set in full dress, with the riders astride, gave the judges a difficult few minutes. They gave the blue to Miss Mary Elizabeth Altemus. Others competing were Miss E. Antoinette Geyelin and Miss Dorothy M. Clothier. The final division was the closest of all, and it was necessary to award two blue ribbons—one to Miss Anita Clothier and the other to Mrs. J. Howell Cummings Jr.

The troopers' mounts were put through all sorts of manoeuvres, and General Bing, the First City Troop Cavalry's entrant, earned his victory. He was aided considerably by his rider, First Sergeant Samuel Wagner.

Perhaps the prettiest of all the horses that passed before the judges was the Montpelier Farm's Inca. Inca, after taking a red in the model saddle class, did better two classes later and drew a blue against a more than usually brilliant field.

Carlisle, '24, H. T. Noyes, '25, M. Solomon, '26, W. L. Brause, '26, and F. L. Scovil, '25, manager. E. M. Itjen, '24, S. Saltz, '26, and W. W. Brotherton, '25, assistant manager, received numerals.

CHECKER LEADERS DRAW.

Ginsberg and Gonotsky Play Four Tie Games in Tourney.

Louis Ginsberg and Sam Gonotsky, both of Brooklyn, the only two players undefeated in the Sixth American Checker Congress at the Hotel Alamac, played four draw games in the semi-final round of the tourney last night. Alfred Jordan, ex-champion of the world, of Los Angeles, and John W. Horr of Buffalo, 1920 American title holder, played six draw games. Both pairs will resume play this morning.

As Jordan and Horr have each lost one heat, the loser of the game between the two will be eliminated from the tournament. Play will continue until two heats have been lost by either Ginsberg, Gonotsky or the winner of the Jordan-Horr game and then the final will be staged. Yesterday morning Jordan defeated George M. Tanner of Illinois after playing eleven draw games with him.

FISCHER RESIGNS FROM TENNIS TEAMS

Says Writer Rule Forces Him to Withdraw From Olympic and Davis Cup Squads.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7. — Carl Fischer, intercollegiate tennis champion, tonight resigned from the American Olympic and Davis Cup squads as a result of the recent player-writer rule of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. His action follows closely that of William T. Tilden 2d, national champion, who resigned from the two squads for the same reason.

Fischer tendered his resignation in the following letter addressed to Julian S. Myrick of New York, Chairman of the Davis Cup Committee:

I herewith tender my resignation from the Olympic and Davis Cup squads. After having given most careful consideration to the report of the Chairman of the Amateur Rule Committee and the recent actions of the officials and Davis Cup Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, I am so out of sympathy with the player-writer interpretation of the governing body that I see no other course of action open to me. I cannot agree with the conclusions reached in Mr. Ward's report nor the premise on which he bases them.

I am convinced that I am not violating the recognized standards of amateurism. However, if my status on the first of January, 1925, continues the same as it now is the report of the Amateur Rule Committee stated that I will be violating Article 3, Section 6 of the Amateur Rule. Therefore, in the eyes of the Amateur Rule Committee I must be violating that clause now. For this reason I feel that my resignation at this time is not only in order but imperative in the interest of international amateur sports.

Fischer, a student in the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, has been covering tennis and other sports events for local newspapers for several years. He said he did so in order to be able to defray his expenses in college. He formerly was captain of the University of Pennsylvania tennis team.

DRIGGS AND SALMON WIN 4-BALL MATCH

Score at Pomonok With a 70, Two Under Par—Title Tourney Starts Today.

Two former Princeton athletes scored a victory in the four-ball competition which was held at the Pomonok Country Club yesterday preliminary to the third annual Long Island championship tournament, the qualifying round of which will be played this morning. The members of the combination turning in the lowest figures for the 18-hole medal play event were Eddie Driggs, former Tiger football star, and H. H. (June) Salmon Jr., one-time backstop on the Nassau baseball team, both being members of the same club, Cherry Valley. Their best ball was 70, two under par.

For one reason or another, perhaps because of the present highway conditions surrounding the Pomonok Club, which is completely isolated through the machinations of the road-builders, only a few of the Long Island district players turned out for the preamble yesterday and only a mere handful had the temerity to turn in cards at all. So unapproachable is the score of conflict, what with detours and the like, that one of the district stars came near being lost. Frank H. Hoyt of the Engineers, who holds a responsible position with the largest dispenser of gasoline in the world, used up all the gas that he started with and had to be towed to the course. He finally arrived, however, and was one of three pairs to tie for second place with a total of 73, three strokes behind that of Driggs and Salmon. Hoyt played with Walter Richard.

The other two combinations to post 73s were the two Nassau stars, Gardiner W. White and Howard W. Maxwell Jr., both of whom are expected to make their presence felt for the next few days, and W. F. Ladd and H. R. Brooks of Rockaway Hunting Club. The last two got away to a flying start when they reached the turn in 34, equalling the figures of Driggs and Salmon, but lost strokes to par on two holes on the incoming round and ended up with 39.

Salmon and Driggs teamed together beautifully, the former having an individual card of 76 and beating his illustrious partner by one shot. Driggs got into difficulties at the 466-yard fourth hole and took a 6, Salmon came to his aid with a birdie 4 after missing his drive. Neither of them could get his par 4 on the 370-yard seventh. Salmon helped the cause by holing a long putt for a birdie at 8 at the dog-leg eighth. Their best-ball cards with par:

ANDERSON VICTOR AFTER FAST MATCH

Gains Semi-Final in North Side Tennis Play by Beating Whitlock, 6-2, 6-0.

MARTIN IS HARD PRESSED

Wins From Von Bernuth on University Heights Court, 9-7, 7-5 — Talmage Also Advances.

Fred C. Anderson, the defending title holder; Paul Martin and Reginald Talmage reached the semi-final round of the North Side championship at the University Heights Tennis Club yesterday. Anderson defeated George Whitlock in the fifth round by the score of 6—2, 6—0. Martin advanced at the expense of Anton F. Von Bernuth, in two hard-fought sets at 9—7, 7—5, and Talmage was carried to three sets by E. H. Hendrickson, winning at 6—2, 4—6, 6—4. Anderson will be opposed to Talmage this afternoon and Martin will meet Elliott Binzen, who gained his semi-final bracket on Tuesday. The final match will be played on Saturday.

Anderson played the best tennis he has shown in the tournament in defeating Whitlock. The heaviness of the court and the balls were not favorable to good tennis, but the champion's strokes were working in their best fashion and he made fewer errors than he does ordinarily. Anderson earned a large number of his points with sharply angled placements that were of the prettiest sort. He found the openings in every section of his opponent's court and his control and pace were just as good off the back hand as off the fore hand.

Most of the time Anderson played from back court, but on the few occasions when he came forward he was highly effective. Following in behind his forcing shots he took Whitlock's returns on the volley and angled them sharply to the opposite side of the court. Whitlock's control was poor and he showed to poor advantage, but he was not so badly beaten as the score indicates. The games in the first set were of long duration and twice in the second set he was within a point of taking a game. His tactics were good but he could not do what he wanted to.

The first players in the two other contests were very evenly matched. Talmage and Hendrickson put up a spirited engagement, both varying their tactics and playing in the most aggressive fashion. Von Bernuth and Martin played more cautiously, with Martin taking most of the chances and giving at times a clever exhibition of sharp shooting. Von Bernuth scored occasionally on well angled placements also, becoming bolder as the match went on. The two men were so closely matched that it was anybody's game to the last.

The summaries:

Fifth Round—First C. Anderson defeated George Whitlock, 6—2, 6—0; Reginald Talmage defeated E. H. Hendrickson, 6—2, 4—6, 6—4; Paul Martin defeated Anton F. Von Bernuth, 9—7, 7—5.

WILD ASTER EQUALS RECORD AT JAMAICA

Ties Track Mark of 1:11 1-5 for Six Furlongs to Beat Bracadale in Spring Handicap.

NINE DERBY ELIGIBLES RUN

Victor Takes Early Lead and Holds Advantage Despite Challenge of Speedy Field.

Nine Preakness and Kentucky Derby eligibles went to the post in the Spring Handicap at the Jamaica race course yesterday afternoon and the result was another overturn in the three-year-old division, Bracadale, conqueror of the mighty Sarazen, going down in defeat to the Greentree Stable's Wild Aster. The Spring Handicap was a six-furlong dash for the three-year-olds, with a guaranteed cash value of $5,000 and Wild Aster beat Bracadale by half a length. The gelded son of Ultimus and Blume, carrying 108 pounds, was forced to equal the track record of 1:11 1-5 to defeat the Rancocas colt and earn $3,850 for his owner.

Wild Aster, a Derby nomination, although ineligible for the Preakness, was a maiden up to the second day of the present meeting, when he won a dash of five and a half furlongs in good time. He bowed a tendon at Saratoga last year and Scott Harlan has been patiently working with him to get him back to the races. The race was considered a final Preakness trial for Bracadale before being shipped to Pimlico with Mad Play to carry the Rancocas colors in the Maryland classic. He carried top weight of 123 pounds.

Nine went to the post, Bracadale and Tester carrying the Rancocas colors, the entry being the favorite at 7 to 5. Wild Aster, on his recent race and reports of his speed, was backed down from 6 to 4 to 1.

There was a fine start and the crowds in the stands were electrified when they saw Wild Aster jump into the lead and hold it from the colt that had lowered Sarasan's colors so decisively. Time Exposure and Bracadale were lapped on the leader on the backstretch, but the former could not hold the pace and Tester came up to support his stablemate.

Wild Aster held a lead of a length until they straightened out for home. Then Laverne Fator challenged with Bracadale, but Coltitetti went to the whip and Wild Aster held off Bracadale long enough to win by half a length. Bracadale was five lengths in front of Tester, which lasted to take the show money by half a length from H. P. Whitney's Swingalong. The Oak Ridge Stable's Apprehension and Laurano finished fifth and sixth, respectively. The fractional times were 0:23, 0:46 3-5, 1:11 1-5.

Five Go to the Post.

The Clarendon Handicap at a mile and seventy yards for three-year-olds and upward, with $1,200 in added money, brought only five to the post in front of the grand stand. C. A. Stoneham's Peddler, which won his first start of the meeting (in which he beat Roseate II by five lengths, was the odds-on favorite, closing at 4 to 5. In the earlier race he was in receipt of ten pounds, but yesterday's race was a form reversal, Roseate II finishing in front of him, the former being second choice.

H. M. Howard's five-year-old Aeronaut gelding Nose Dive, going to the front before the paddock turn, stayed there all through the journey, winning by a length from Henry Stark's Frederickstown. The latter saved a lot of ground on the stretch turn, came through on the rail and would have won in a few more strides. He nosed out Roseate II for the place, the latter taking third money by more than three lengths from Peedler. The winner was held at 9 to 2 at post time.

R. T. Wilson Jr.'s colt Clear View and W. V. Casey's filly Gipsy Flyer then fought out the issue until the last furlong, where Jockey Finn brought Robert L. Gerry's colt Peanuts up on the outside with a great rush to capture first money by half a length from Clear View. Gipsy Flyer was three lengths back to take third money. Clear View was the choice of the public, closing at 11 to 5, while the winner was held at 5 to 1 at post time. The race was run in 1:00 1-5.

Ten maiden two-year-olds ran the five furlongs of the opening claiming race—contest in which the fortunes shifted with surprising rapidity. They were away with a rush when the barrier rose and yellow, orange and old gold silks were massed in indistinguishable confusion for the first sixteenth of a mile. But up on the outside crept the light and dark blue hoops of George D. Widener, borne by his filly Roseberry. The daughter of Trompe la Morte ran into a clear lead, but just when she appeared ready to leave the others she bolted on the turn from the backstretch.

Beatrice Runs Away.

The unexpected happened in the Flapers, the five-furlong dash for two-year-old fillies, last on the card. In the first place the field was about the most untractable of the meeting and to further enliven matters the Belair stud's Beatrice tossed off Jockey Fields, jumped the outer rail and ran away. She was captured and brought back and then the Whitney pair, Mother Goose and Swinging, acted badly, the latter breaking through the barrier. The entry was the favorite on Mother Goose's outstanding race in Maryland, where she was considered one of the speediest fillies of the year.

But it was Swinging that carried the light blue silks of the stable home in front and for a time it looked as though the Rancocas Stable would score. After nine minutes at the post they were sent away, but Gnome Girl was practically left. The Rancocas Stable's Superlette was away with a rush and opened a lead of two lengths on Mother Goose, with Swinging running third. In the stretch drive there was a hard battle, in which Corcoran made a great finish to land Swinging three-quarters of a length in front of Superlette, with Mother Goose a length and a half back. The Whitney entry closed at 13 to 20, with the Rancocas outfit at 9 to 2.

SINGLE FOOT TAKES HIS FOURTH IN ROW

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 7.—J. E. Griffith's unbeaten colt Single Foot, by Wrack-Virginia L., this afternoon won his fourth straight victory when he captured the second running of the Pimlico Home-Bred Stakes for two-year-olds over the course of four and a half furlongs, beating five others. Taking up 115 pounds, the colt ran the distance in the fast time of 0:53 4-5, only one-fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Single Foot went to the front with a rush and set a fast pace, but was tiring and bearing out in the last furlong. He just lasted to beat R. T. Wilson's Faddist by a neck. The winner was the 3-to-5 favorite.

Wise Counsellor, favorite for the Kentucky Derby, was scratched out of the Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class A, which was won easily by A. C. Bostwick's Shuffle Along, the 4-to-5 favorite.

DIOPHON CAPTURES THE 2,000 GUINEAS

Beats Lord Astor's Bright Knight by a Head in Turf Classic at Newmarket.

GREEN FIRE IS NECK AWAY

NEWMARKET, England, May 7 (Associated Press).—Diophon, by Grand Parade out of Donnetta, owned by H. H. Aga Khan, won the 2,000 Guiness Stake, the first classic of the 1924 season, run here today. Lord Astor's Bright Knight was second and J. B. Joel's Green Fire was third.

Diophon won by a head, while a neck separated Bright Knight and Green Fire. The betting was: Diophon, 11 to 2 against; Bright Knight, 100 to 9, and Green Fire, 100 to 8 against.

Diophon and Bright Knight, as well as several other horses which competed in this race, also are entered for the Derby, in which the distance, however, is one and one-half miles, as against one mile in today's event. Diophon is quoted for the Derby at 100 to 8 and Bright Knight at 10 to 1 against.

Grand Parade, sire of Diophon, was bred by the late Richard Croker, the former Tammany boss. He sent the Desmond mare Grand Geraldine to the court of the Derby winner Orby, which was a son of Orme and Rhoda B., the latter having been taken to Ireland by Mr. Croker when he went abroad to live. One of the earliest patrons of Orby was Lord d'Abernon, who bred Donetta to him and got two great race horses from the combination in Diadem and Diadumenos, the former the best sprinter in England. When Orby was no longer available Lord d'Abernon sent his great mare to Grand Parade, which was Orby's best son, with Diophon as the result of the mating.

The winner was C. Bruce Head's Altawood, which came from fourth place to get up just in time to win, when Beau Butler faltered at the end. The latter's stable mate, Bob Tail, was third, and Gibion took fourth money. The race was run in 1:51 4-5.

HARVARD HORSEMEN BEAT V. M. I., 11 TO 0

TUFTS SCORES FIVE GOALS

Handles Stranahan's Accurate Passes in Masterly Fashion—Southerners Lack Power.

The Harvard horsemen sprang a surprise in the intercollegiate polo championship tournament at Fort Hamilton yesterday by scoring a clean-cut triumph over the Flying Cadets from the Virginia Military Institute. Not that Harvard wasn't expected to win, for the Crimson four has been down in Pinehurst getting in some valuable pre-season practice that has built up a strong combination, while the strength of the V. M. I. team was more or less unknown. But yesterday Harvard showed some really fine polo and the overwhelming score of 11 to 0 was a surprise to most followers of the game and perhaps astounding to the group of Southerners who came all the way from Lexington to cheer their representatives.

J. W. Tufts, Harvard's No. 1, accounted for the bulk of the Crimson's points with two in the second period, two more in the fifth and another in the sixth, but at least half of the credit for Tufts's scoring must go to Frank Stranahan, who occupied the No. 2 position. He played in a style that proclaimed him one of the finest players in the ranks of college polo. Stranahan handled his mount well, hit hard and accurately and above all he played his position as it should be played. It was his work in feeding the ball forward that gave Tufts his many opportunities to count. R. A. Pinkerton, Harvard's No. 3, also did some brilliant work with his mallet, driving the ball through the Southerners' goal three times, while George E. Kent accounted for two goals and Stranahan made the other.

For four periods the Southerners put up a strong defensive in the face of heavy odds, holding the Crimson to one and two goals each period, but in the fifth the defense collapsed and four times the ball was rushed through the Cadets' goal posts, Pinkerton scoring twice within the first minute of the chukker and Tufts adding two more during the last minutes of the frame. Up to that time desperate riding on the part of the Virginians had kept the Crimson from rolling up any great score, but with the rally the Cadets faltered and fell back before the steady and well executed advance.

Virginians Out of Position.

The Virginians sadly lacked power when it came to the last few strokes of their attempt to score. On several occasions the V. M. I. forwards worked the ball loose with a clear field ahead, but as a Cadet rider carried the ball down the field his teammates fell to the rear and followed the play, instead of going forward to receive a pass.

Harvard took a much stronger team than was anticipated, and the Crimson may yet cause a complete reversal in the advance information and force its way to the final round. Harvard will meet the winner of today's game between Princeton, the runner-up last year, and Norwich in the semi-finals next week.

It did not take long for the Harvard team to demonstrate its superiority. Although Pinkerton was the only player able to score on the first period, the ball was constantly in V. M. I.'s territory, and Stranahan early showed that by his strong and accurate hitting the ball would be put into position for his teammates to drive through many times before the gong sounded for the end of the game. Pinkerton's first goal was scored on a short back-hand drive after Stranahan had sent the ball into position. In the second period Stranahan and Kent added two more to Harvard's score, and in the third Tufts, playing his position with confidence and knowing that his No. 2 would get the ball up to him, counted twice in the first few minutes.

Kent Scores on Long Drive.

V. M. I. threatened at the start of the second half, but each time that the ball was carried down the field, either the rider would miss at a critical time or he would be turned back as some crimson-clad horseman caught up and sent the ball back down the field again. It was not until the chukker was nearly over that Kent, on a long drive from the side of the field, was able to add another to Harvard's total.

In the fifth period the Southerners were completely outclassed, and in the last it was merely a matter of how many more Harvard would be able to get.

The Harvard ponies arrived on the scene only an hour and a half before they were ridden on the field for the contest, but the long trip in a boxcar did not seem to have wearied them, for more times than they were outclassed they overtook the V. M. I. mounts in races for the ball. V. M. I. used four of their own ponies and were forced to borrow eight more from the Pennsylvania Military College string. Perhaps the unfamiliarity with their mounts had something to do with their downfall.

The line-up:

HARVARD (11).	V. M. I. (0).
No. 1—F. W. Tufts.	No. 1—J. Wise.
No. 2—F. Stranahan.	No. 2—M. K. Kellogg.

RICKARD WILL PAY $900,000 FOR CLUB

Promoter Announces Definitely That He Is to Purchase Philadelphia Arena.

PLANS BIG OUTDOOR POOL

Swimming and Hockey Will Be the Chief Features of Sport Centre, With Boxing Incidental.

The sum of $900,000 will be involved in the purchase of the Arena, formerly known as the Ice Palace, in Philadelphia, by Tex Rickard, according to the statement made by the promoter in discussing his plans for the acquisition of the Quaker City property. This sum, Rickard said, will represent the actual purchase price and expenses which will be involved in extensive improvements he contemplates making to the property after he has obtained possession.

Rickard said that the property is being purchased by him for the New Madison Square Garden Corporation, with the intention of establishing a swimming pool and a hockey centre principally. Whatever boxing bouts he arranges for his Philadelphia property, Rickard asserted, will be incidental.

The promoter expects to make another trip to Philadelphia either today or early next week to complete negotiations for the purchase. Rickard expressed himself as satisfied with the negotiations between himself and the Philadelphia interests owning the Arena, and added that after several minor details have been adjusted he expects the deal to reach a successful conclusion. Work on alterations will begin without delay after he has become owner, Rickard said.

Arena on Large Block.

Rickard said that the plot on which the Arena is located is larger than the block occupied by Madison Square Garden. The Arena building proper does not occupy the entire plot, Rickard said, and his inspection of the site has convinced the promoter that he can build an outdoor swimming pool on the unoccupied property and thus provide Philadelphians with an outdoor pool within easy access of the heart of the city. This proposed outdoor pool, Rickard said, would cover a plot 214 by 235 feet. The promoter expects to have the pool available for use this Summer.

"I am convinced that a swimming pool which I intend to introduce as an outdoor bathing place near the heart of the city will prove an immediate success from the standpoint of investment and a convenience for the Philadelphia public," said Rickard. "I was struck myself with the difference in the weather conditions here and in Philadelphia when I visited the city yesterday. Over there I was really hot, but when I returned here I encountered weather which chilled me. From investigation I have learned that the nearest beach to the heart of Philadelphia is miles away. This condition is one which, I think, will make for the success of my pool.

May Conduct Boxing Bouts.

"The building on the property I will use principally as a hockey centre, although I may conduct some boxing bouts there also. But what boxing matches I arrange will be of minor significance. My idea is to popularize my pool and hockey. I expect to be able to announce in a few days that I have purchased the property. I may go to Philadelphia again tomorrow or early next week to complete the purchase. Everything is practically settled except a few minor details."

Rickard announced that his plans for improving the building now on the property provide for a rearrangement and an increase of the seating accommodations. As the building stands now it will seat 7,200 people comfortably, Rickard said. The promoter added that his plans provide for increasing this capacity to 11,000 under a seating arrangement similar to that in Madison Square Garden.

CARPENTIER LEAVES TO BATTLE GIBBONS

Only 100 Admirers Gather to Cheer French Fighter on His Departure.

PARIS, May 7.—Georges Carpentier, off for his fight in America with Tom Gibbons, clambered aboard the boat train this forenoon amid the plaudits of about one hundred of his admirers. His departure was in striking contrast with the circumstances of his farewell two years ago when he left to fight Jack Dempsey for the world's championship. Then the police reserves were summoned to protect him from being mobbed by thousands of wellwishers at the St. Lazare Station.

The slight drizzle of a belated Paris Spring enveloped the French boxer as, after bidding farewell to Mme. Carpentier, he swung onto the running board of the train while François Descamps, his manager, leaned out of a window and grinned a farewell to the assembled enthusiasts.

L'Auto says it understands negotiations are under way for a bout between Georges Carpentier and Hans Breitenstraeter, German heavyweight, in Berlin on Sept. 7, after Carpentier's return from the United States.

Curley Makes Arrangements.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., May 7.—Jack Curley, American representative of Georges Carpentier, made a flying trip here today to arrange training quarters for the Frenchman during his training for the bout with Tom Gibbons.

Curley selected Pekin Cottage on Lake Michigan, the same spot where Jack Dempsey trained for Bill Brennan in 1922. Curley will meet Carpentier next Wednesday in New York and bring him immediately to Michigan City. Curley ordered an outdoor ring built near the lake cottage, where the Frenchman will box in public daily during his grind here.

Tickets have been printed and will be ready for distribution probably tomorrow.

DESCAMPS OFFERS FORFEIT.

Would Bind Carpentier-Tunney Match—Gibson Still Obdurate.

An offer made by Francois Descamps, manager of George Carpentier, to post a forfeit binding Carpentier's appearance for a bout against Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, after the French boxer's scheduled bout against Tom Gibbons at Michigan City on May 31, did not swerve Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, from his plans to seek an injunction preventing the Carpentier-Gibbons battle.

Gibson received Descamp's offer yesterday in a cablegram, in which the French manager advised Gibson he was sailing today for this country on the liner Majestic, in company with Carpentier. Gibson repeated his intention of instituting court proceedings to prevent a Carpentier-Gibbons match in advance of a Tunney-Carpentier bout, which was originally scheduled for Jersey City on June 20.

6,000 See French Boxers Fight for Olympic Places

PARIS, May 7.—The French Olympic boxing team was selected in the Cirque de Paris before 6,000 spectators, the largest crowd ever attending an amateur boxing event in France. Savignac, a lightweight from Lorraine, was the most promising boxer uncovered. The others selected were Gourdy of Bordeaux, flyweight; Ferrand of Paris, bantamweight; Degont of Paris, featherweight; Douasot of Paris, welterweight; Dioles of Paris, middleweight; Rossignon of Alsace, light heavyweight, and Peguilhan of Bearn, heavyweight.

FRANCE QUESTIONS STYLE OF OSBORNE

International Athletic Council Will Rule on Legality of Jumper's Form.

By The Associated Press.

France has questioned the legality of the high jumping style of Harold Osborne, Illinois Athletic Club star and holder of the world's indoor record, it was learned yesterday, and steps have been taken to determine whether it will be permitted in the Olympic Games at Paris.

The decision is now in the hands of the Council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which acts as an Olympic jury in such cases, according to Frederick W. Rubien, American member of the council and Secretary of the American Olympic Committee.

The American Olympic Committee, however, Mr. Rubien said, has satisfied itself by thorough investigation that Osborne's style, sometimes referred to as the "Western roll" and practiced by other noted jumpers, is perfectly legal. This viewpoint also is shared by at least one other member of the council, President J. S. Edstrom of Sweden. In a letter to council members informing them that Frantz Reichel, French member, has questioned Osborne's style, President Edstrom asserted he personally believed it should be recognized as legal.

Thus the American contention is assured of two out of the five votes, it was pointed out. The views of other members of the council, who represent Great Britain and Hungary, have not been ascertained.

The basis of France's action, President Edstrom's message disclosed, was an article published by a New York newspaper describing Osborne's jumping methods and intimating that he took more of a dive or roll than a jump, twisting his body in a manner calculated to keep the bar in place. This, according to Mr. Rubien, is inaccurate, and he expressed the view that he considered it unfair to Osborne and America's athletes to use such information as a basis for judgment in a case having so important a bearing on this country's Olympic prospects.

RUNNING TRACK ON LINER.

Boxing Ring Also to Be Built on Ship Carrying Olympic Team.

Officials of the United States Line conferred yesterday with members of the Olympic Games Committee relative to accommodations that will be required by more than 300 American athletes sailing for the Olympic Games on the United States liner America on Monday, June 9.

The conference was held at 45 Broadway, where it was decided to install a boxing ring on the boat deck, a fencers' mat on the sun deck, and a two-yard strip of linoleum around the promenade deck so that the Olympic runners may sprint, using spiked shoes. The athletes will board the ship the day before sailing.

At the conference were Colonel Robert M. Thompson and F. W. Rubien of the Olympic Games Committee, who conferred with Thomas H. Rossbottom, general manager of the United States Lines, and E. M. McNary, general traffic manager of the company. In order to expedite the journey from this port to Cherbourg the vessel will not make its usual stop at Plymouth, unless there is an unusual cargo of United States mail.

TO DISCUSS IRISH OLYMPICS.

American Council to Formulate Plans at Meeting Tomorrow Night.

Plans for America's participation in the Tailteand Games, "the Irish Olympics," which are scheduled for Dublin, Ireland, Aug. 1 to 18, will be discussed tomorrow night at a meeting in the New York A. C. of the American Council, of which Murray Hulbert, President of the Board of Aldermen, is Chairman. David J. Burke, American Commissioner for the Irish meet, who is now on a tour of Canada, is expected to return here today and will address tomorrow night's meeting on the plans undertaken for the games.

Some of the athletes of Irish descent who will represent America in the Olympic Games at Paris, are expected to compete also in Dublin. A plan for raising sufficient funds with which to send additional athletes from this country to Dublin will be one of the matters under discussion at the meeting. Before returning to Dublin Burke plans to tour the large cities of the country as far west as Chicago in the interests of the Irish athletic carnival.

HOLY CROSS WINS MEET.

Defeats Boston University Track Team, 87 to 37.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 7.—The Holy Cross track team defeated Boston University, 87 to 37, at Fitton Field this afternoon. The Purple won first place in all but four of the fourteen events. The time in most of the events was slow.

Joseph Tierney, who is indoor champion at 500 yards, was the individual star for Holy Cross, winning the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard run with ease. His time in the 100 was 10 1-10 seconds, but he was not pressed. He ran the 220 yards in 22 seconds. Boston University took first place in the half-mile, two-mile, shot-put and pole vault.

FARRELL BEATS KERRIGAN.

Captures 18-Hole Match at National Golf Show by 1 Up.

Johnny Farrell, Quaker Ridge professional, defeated Tommy Kerrigan of Siwanoy by one up last night in an 18-hole match at the National Golf Show. Kerrigan made a great finish. He was dormie two but holed the eighth hole, 30 feet, in one and very nearly dropped his putt at the eighteenth to square the match.

Farrell was one up at the end of the first nine holes. He was out in 18 against 20 for Kerrigan. Both played the round in 19 the second time. Farrell's medal score was 37 and Kerrigan's was 39.

Miss Glenna Collett, former national womens' champion, will meet Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot golfer tonight in an 18-hole match.

Among those who visited the show last night were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hagen, Mrs. F. E. Dubois, Frank Craven, Cornelius S. Lee, Secretary of the United States Golf Association; Fred Kennedy, Chicopee, Mass.; Morton Treatway, Bristol, Conn., and H. B. Nichols, President of the Winged Foot Country Club.

ABRAHAMS STOPS MACK IN ONE ROUND

3,000 SEE GARDEN BOUTS

Knockouts Come Rapidly as Met. A. A. U. Officials Stage Battles in Two Rings.

The two-ring amateur boxing circus conducted last night in Madison Square Garden, where boxers of the metropolitan area competed in the district's Olympic elimination tryouts, attracted a crowd of about 3,000 persons, one of the largest gatherings of the season at a local amateur tournament. The big entry, numbering some 200 aspirants for a place on the team which will box for America at the Olympic Games, necessitated the use of two rings and kept the necks of the crowd of men and women craned to keep abreast of hostilities.

It was the first time such an arrangement was undertaken and it proved popular with the gathering. When the action in the main ring of the Garden lagged the spectators could focus their attention on the temporary ring pitched on the Fourth Avenue end of the arena, where action aplenty was furnished almost without interruption.

Knockouts in Every Class.

Knockouts came in every class in which bouts were conducted. These decisive finishes kept the crowd excited so that there was more enthusiasm than is ordinarily manifested at amateur tournaments. Among the winners by the knockout route was Joe Mellilo, National Turn Verein of Newark, New Jersey State champion at 112 pounds. Mellilo knocked out Thomas Mormando, Newsboys' Club, in the first round of their scheduled three-round bout. Two other knockouts were scored in the first six bouts held in the flyweight class.

The first six bouts in the welterweight class produced five knockouts in quick succession. In four of the bouts knockouts came in the first round. The other contest ended in the second.

The quickest knockout was scored by Simon Abrahams, unattached, who disposed of Edward Mack, unattached, with a terrific right to the jaw after thirty-one seconds of the first round. Mack had to be assisted from the ring.

Harry Wallach, Beecher's Gymnasium, metropolitan, New York State and Long Island featherweight champion, was scheduled to compete in the 126-pound class, but was disqualified by the examining physicians, who found him suffering from a touch of the grip. Four boxers in the heavyweight class also were rejected, the doctors finding them physically unfit.

Finals to Be Held Tonight.

The finals in the tournament will be held tonight. Winners and runners-up in each of the eight classes are to be selected to compete for this district in the final tryout at Boston.

Samuel H. Dalrymple, a member of the Disston Athletic Association of Tacony, Pa., yesterday was added to the squad of American soccer players who will represent this country in the Olympic Games in Paris, making a total of seventeen selected.

Dalrymple, whose usual position is inside left, is the eighth forward in the list and also the eighth man from the vicinity of Philadelphia. New York City has only one representative, William Findlay of Bayonne, a member of the Galicia Football Club of the Metropolitan Football League. He, too, is a forward. The team will sail on the steamship America, next Saturday.

TO CHALLENGE LEONARD.

Barbarian's Manager Will Post $2,500 for Title Bout.

Sid Barbarian, Detroit's southpaw lightweight, will be added to the list of challengers of Benny Leonard, world's champion, at Friday's meeting of the State Athletic Commission, according to present plans. Sam Pearlstein of Detroit, manager of Barbarian, who is visiting this city with Arthur Clamadge, president of the Avenue A. C., Detroit, and Joe Sarno, the club's matchmaker, announced yesterday that he will deposit with the commission on Friday, a certified check for $2,500 to go as a forfeit for Barbarian in a title match at 135 pounds against Leonard. Pearlstein visited the offices of the commission yesterday afternoon prepared to deposit the check but was advised by Secretary Dan Skilling to return Friday and present his challenge and check before the meeting.

With Clamadge and Sarno, Pearlstein visited Billy Gibson, Leonard's manager, in an endeavor to have Gibson accept an offer of the Avenue A. C. for a Leonard-Barbarian match. The Detroit delegation offered Gibson a guarantee of $15,000 with a privilege of 40 per cent. of the receipts for a bout in which Leonard would be permitted to weigh in at 138 pounds. The contest would be a ten-round no-decision affair, Pearlstein said. This proposition did not appeal to Gibson, according to Pearlstein, who intends to visit Gibson again this afternoon and boost his guarantee offer to $20,000 for the titleholder.

WILLS BOXES FOUR ROUNDS.

Newspaper Men Impressed by Fine Condition of Challenger.

Harry Wills, negro challenger of Champion Jack Dempsey, engaged in a light workout yesterday at Grupp's gymnasium for the benefit of newspapermen who desired to see Wills in training for his scheduled fifteen-round bout against Bartley Madden, west side Irishman, which will be held at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, Monday night.

The delegation of critics was impressed with the superb condition of Wills, who declared that he weighed 215 pounds and felt in wonderful shape. Wills's workout consisted of four rounds of sparring and four rounds of punching the light and heavy bags.

Wills boxed Sammy Herts, a lightweight, for two rounds, and went two rounds with Panama Dixie Kid, but in neither session did he extend himself. He confined his efforts mostly to defensive work, out of a desire to protect his right hand, which is rapidly recovering from an injury he sustained some time ago.

BERLENBACH TO BE READY.

Nostrand Club Gets Word Boxer Will Meet Keiser May 20.

Despite the announcement that Paul Berlenbach, Astoria light heavyweight, who injured his right hand in his recent bout against Harold Abbott, would be compelled because of this injury to forego boxing for at least a month, promoter Charles Henderson of the Nostrand A. C., Brooklyn, yesterday announced that Berlenbach would box Fay Keiser at the Brooklyn Outdoor Club on May 20, as originally scheduled. Henderson said he had received assurances from Dan Hickey, Berlenbach's manager, that the injury to Berlenbach's hand was not as serious as was at first thought, and that the Astoria lad would be physically fit to box Keiser on the date set.

MARTONE TO BOX SCHLAIFER

Welterweights Will Appear in Semi-Final at Garden Show.

A scheduled eight-round bout between Harry Martone, rugged Jersey City southpaw welterweight, and Morrie Schlaifer, Omaha boxer, who has engaged the foremost welterweights of the country, will substitute for the canceled Paul Berlenbach-Tex McGowan bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Martone and Schlaifer will clash in the semi-final to the main bout of ten rounds, in which Quintin Romero, Chilean heavyweight, will make his initial American ring appearance against Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight.

WALKER STARTS TRAINING.

Begins Preparations for Tendler Bout—May Box Nichols.

Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, yesterday started training at Rumson, N. J., for his scheduled ten-round bout against Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw, in Philadelphia's National League baseball park on June 2.

Walker is considering an offer for a ten-round no-decision bout against Johnny Nichols of St. Paul, which Detroit promoters are seeking for May 10. The welterweight champion indicated that he would accept the Nichols match as a "warm-up" bout for the Tendler encounter.

OTHER DIFFICULTIES ARISE

PARIS, May 7.—Members of the American Olympic Rugby team today were almost ready to challenge City Councilor Armand Massard, sporting authority of La Liberte, who in an article yesterday hinted that their amateurism was considerably tainted.

Massard, who is an expert swordsman, would have the duel of his life on his hands, according to a member of the Olympic team, who said:

"Just let him come out here, choose his own weapons, footballs or foils, and we'll soon show him whether we are amateurs or professionals. We haven't had the pleasure of a visit from him and wish that before writing again he would investigate."

Another hitch in the hitherto friendly Franco-American sporting relations has arisen over the determination of the American players to take their own photographs of the match with Rumania Sunday for documentary and training purposes, despite the insistence of the French Olympic Committee that exclusive contracts already had been let to French firms for all photographic work in connection with the Olympic Games. It is expected that the difference will be smoothed out at the conference tomorrow in view of the determination of the Americans to take photographs whether or no.

The team had a good workout of two hours this afternoon and all are in fine fettle, the little rifts in the "Lafayette-we-are-here" feeling making them more anxious than ever to meet the French team.

Dickinson Wins Track Meet.

CARLISLE, Pa., May 7.—Dickinson College today defeated Bucknell University in a dual track meet, 67 points to 58.

UNDERWEAR IN THE NEW YORK MANNER

Each in his own way

IRVIN COBB can take a story—a musty dilapidated antique that's bored you twenty times over—and tell it in such a manner that you'll roar with laughter. Hundreds of people told the same story before he got hold of it. But none of them did it as well.

That's the way with Mansco underwear. Dozens of manufacturers were making underwear before Mansco entered the field. But the Manhattan Shirt Company—the makers of Mansco underwear—have always had the faculty of doing a thing just a little better than it's ever been done before.

They applied their methods to underwear—and produced what we believe is the best cut underwear made today.

If you want some really fine underwear—and it's not expensive, for you can get a Mansco union suit for $1.50—drop in at one of our stores and look over our assortments of Mancos—the largest and most varied selection in America.

For spring and summer wear we suggest union suit No. 115—satin striped check—patented Mansco slide back—$1.50. Or, if you prefer two-piece underwear, we'd recommend the new "Runner" drawers and the "Filette" shirt—unusually comfortable—$1 per garment.

Other union suits, $1.50 to $10.00. Other two-piece underwear, $1 to $6.00 per garment. In dozens of specially woven Mansco fabrics

Erlanger Refuses to Answer Brady Charges—Separate Peace Move Advances.

Twenty-five members of the Actors' Fidelity League, organized during the strike of five years ago by those who dissented from the policy of the Actors' Equity Association, issued a statement yesterday protesting against Equity's continued affiliation with Federated Labor and especially against the proposed eighty-twenty settlement of the Equity shop problem.

The statement was not issued in the name of the Fidelity League, but all of the twenty-five signers, most of them stars, are prominent Fidelity members. The statement, morever, was issued from the offices of Henry Miller, Fidelity's President.

Speaking of organized labor, the Fidelity actors declare that they "object to affiliation with men guilty of the butcheries of Los Angeles and Herrin." The statement is headed, "An Appeal to the American Public." It follows:

The undersigned, representing the non-labor union element of the theatre, now facing a conspiracy to restrict our personal liberties and professional activities, wish, in this extremity, to state our case to the American people.

To do so, it is valuable to outline the cause of the present condition which has been clouded by partisan feeling.

In a spirit of fairness it is encumbent to testify that in our experience, the majority of theatrical managers past and present have been men of intelligence and integrity, and that not until comparatively recent years did we hear of abuses of contract and violations of decency sufficient to unite a group of men and women determined to cure vices and who organized under the inspiring name of the Actors' Equity Association.

Several of us, members of that group, are proud to recall the services it rendered the dramatic profession under the guiding spirit of "Equity."

Aided by the Managers.

It must be remembered, however, that the Actors' Equity Association could not have so progressed without the cooperation and confidence of managers of the better element who accepted the agreement known as the Equity Contract. These achievements appealed to the large element of the profession which had theretofore been supine or indifferent and the membership of Equity became significant.

Breaches of the Equity Contract, however, did occur, and, though not by the better managers, they were yet sufficent to arouse the indignation of the Actors' Equity Association, and in an hour of irritation and impatience they joined Federated Labor.

The undersigned then felt they could not be affiliated with a force so unreliable and the present crisis proves the truth of our intuition. We now further object to affiliation with men guilty of the butcheries of Los Angeles and of Herrin; Equity is attempting an equal butchery of the spirit of the belief in American institutions in denying the right of the independent actor to work, unless he subscribes to their union labor rules. It is true that Equity has offered to make an exception of us and our small group of associates and will give permission to us to play in companies wherever we can arrange to be in a minority of one to four, but we resent such denomination. We do not believe that a profession so dependent upon self-respect as that of the actor can be practised in any numerical servitude. We deny that there can be a decimal melioration of a tyranny. We deny that the fixed disciplinary admission of 20 per cent. of independents constitutes an open shop. We protest against living by sufferance in a house which we have helped to build and in which our title is paramount.

Based on Collection of Dues.

Equity's sole excuse for this attempt is that it is necessary to the collection of its dues.

Responding to this complaint of inability to collect dues from a large percentage of its membership, the managers have offered to engage no Equity member whose dues were unpaid and to agree that any independent actor engaged should subscribe to some actor charity an amount equal to Equity dues. These offers were refused and followed by that pompous dictum that Equity would be more arbitrate Equity Shop than the United States would arbitrate the Monroe Doctrine.

The Actors' Equity Association wishes to wield a bludgeon of labor union control in the theatre, subject only to the Gompers autocracy.

It is signed by E. H. Sothern, Julia Marlowe, Mrs. Fiske, Margaret Anglin, William Gillette, William Faversham, Holbrook Blinn, George M. Cohan, May Irwin, David Warfield, Otis Skinner, Henry Miller, Louis Mann, Blanche Bates, Ruth Chatterton, Jeanne Eagels, Lola Fisher, Laura Hope Crews, Lenore Ulric, Billie Burke, Fay Bainter, Ina Claire, William Collier, Frances Starr and Lester Lonergan.

The existing deadlock between Equity and the round-robin group continued yesterday, and it is now regarded as unlikely that the month of May will see it broken.

A. L. Erlanger, asked for a reply to William A. Brady's charges that E. F. Albee had held up a settlement five years ago and again this year, declared that he did not care to be quoted in connection with anything that Mr. Brady said. He refused to amplify this statement in any way.

In the meantime the newly organized Managers' Protective Association will proceed with its separate peace, the details of which will be formally acted upon by an Equity mass meeting on Sunday.

ALEX. HEINDL A SUICIDE.

Former Member of Philharmonic Orchestra Shoots Himself in Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 7.—Alex Heindl, a former member of the Philharmonic Orchestra in New York and more lately a player in the Boston People's Symphony Orchestra, shot himself through the brain today in the bathroom of his suite in the Back Bay. He left documents indicating that overwork had undermined his health.

He was one of the leading 'cellists in the East, and a member of one of the most gifted musical families in New England. His father, the late Henry Heindl, was one of the original members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Alex and his sister studied in Germany. His wife died a year ago, but two married daughters survive, as does a brother, Herbert, of New York. He was 45 years old.

He took his life at a time when the city was extensively celebrating "Music Week."

4,000 HEAR ORCHESTRA.

The Metropolitan Gives First of Three Rochester Concerts.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 7.—The Metropolitan Opera Company's orchestra gave here tonight the first of three concerts in which the hundred players under Giuseppe Bamboschek are ending their season, following the opera tour to Atlanta, Cleveland and Rochester. They played to an audience of 4,000 in the Coliseum or new Convention Hall on the State Fair grounds west of this city on Onondaga Lake. State Constabulary handled the crowd and policed the line of automobiles for two miles out of town and back again when the concert ended at midnight.

Dusolina Giannini and John Charles Thomas sang with the chorus of the Central New York Music Festival Association now in its twenty-second season. Tomorrow a second chorus from local high schools will appear with Mr. Thomas and Lisa Roma, while the evening's final program by festival chorus and orchestra will present the opera tenor Beniamino Gigli.

Miss Giannini tonight took the measure of the vast hall in the first act air from "Aida," her pure soprano voice carrying to the farthest boxes, in one of which sat Mayor Walsh. Later she sang Italian folk songs harmonized for piano by Carlo Codero, the orchestra's harpist, adding for encores one of Caruso's, the familiar "O Sole Mio," and "Sing to Me, Sing," by Sidney Homer. Mr. Thomas after the baritone air from "Masked Ball" also gave encores in Italian and English. The chorus and orchestra shared honors in short classics of Schubert and Brahms, Elgar, Graenger, Dvorak and Horatio Parker.

A PLAYLET BY TEXANS.

"Judge Lynch" Presented in Contest for Belasco Cup.

The third night of the Little Theatre Tournament, at the Belasco Theatre, saw the production of three more one-act plays in the competition for the David Belasco Cup.

Players of the Little Theatre of Dallas came from Texas to present "Judge Lynch," a play by Will Rogers Jr., a Texas newspaper writer. It dealt, as the title indicates, with lynching, and was played by Julia Hogan, Louise Bond, Joe Peel and Louis Quince.

The Stockbridge Stocks, represented in last year's tourney, produced John Merrick Yorke's play of the slums, "The Poor," with Dorothy Stockbridge in the leading rôle. "'Op o' Me Thumb," by Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce, was produced by the Adelphi College group.

The People's Chorus Tonight.

The People's Chorus of New York, under the direction of L. Camilieri, will give its Spring concert tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Town Hall. Mme. Idalia Hare, soloist of the evening, will sing an aria from Bohème and a group of songs. William C. Breed will speak on "Music from a Business Man's Point of View."

SNAKE BROADCASTS RATTLE

Pennsylvania College's Pet Reptile Is Heard for Miles Around.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 7.—A live rattlesnake broadcast his eerie rattle by radio tonight from the Pennsylvania State College station.

"Kelly," a pet rattlesnake belonging to Professor George R. Green of the college nature study staff, barely had started his scheduled performance when members of the unseen audience within a radius of thirty miles began reporting by telephone that they were hearing the broadcast perfectly.

The snake rattled almost continuously for fifteen minutes. It was stopped occasionally by Professor Green, who placed a stick over the twelve button rattle through the mesh of its wire cage, to enable hearers to pick up the sound.

This was said to be the first time a rattlesnake has been utilized for radio entertainment.

GUNMAN GETS 19 YEARS.

O'Brien Pleads Guilty to Robbery, Larceny and Assault.

John L. O'Brien, 33, a former resident of the Hunters Point section of Long Island City, was sentenced yesterday to nineteen years in Sing Sing by County Judge Burt J. Humphrey in Queens on his plea of guilty to charges of robbery, grand larceny and felonious assault as a second offender. He will be taken to prison today.

O'Brien was arrested on Dec. 22 last as he was running away in Astoria after John De Lackner, President of the Lackner Paper Company, had been shot while defending a payroll of his company that he was carrying.

When O'Brien was tried before a jury to determine his sanity he raved in the courtroom and twice jumped from the witness stand and made for the jury, which later declared O'Brien sane.

BEATEN AND ROBBED.

As Nathan Abramson of 780 East 174th Street, the Bronx, was driving his light delivery automobile through the tunnel under the Grand Concourse at 174th Street last night he was held up by two men with pistols. They ordered him to alight, and when he put up a fight they rained blows on his head with their weapons and then rifled his pockets of about $100.

He was discovered lying unconscious by a motorist. Dr. Schlossman took him in an ambulance to Fordham Hospital. It is feared his skull was fractured. He revived sufficiently at the hospital to give a few details of the robbery and then lapsed into unconsciousness.

PAGEANT BY PUPILS.

Public School 189 Celebrates Its First Anniversary.

Two hundred pupils of Public School 189, Amsterdam Avenue and 188th Street, gave a pageant, "The School's Birthday," last evening on the first anniversary of the opening of the building.

The pageant, written and directed by Miss Jessie L. Sugar, a teacher, portrayed scenes in fairyland and "the land of flowers." There also was a program of songs and dances by pupils and selections by the school's orchestra, which was directed by another teacher, Miss May L. Moran. Leon Dubusky, a pupil, played a violin solo.

SAYS HUSBAND'S KIN OSTRACIZED BRIDES

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, May 7.—That members of the wealthy Allis family ostracized brides who did not come up to the social status of their husbands was revealed here today in the $250,000 suit for alienation of affections brought by Mrs. Amber Allis against relatives of Gilbert Allis, her husband.

"The Allis family reserved the right to pass upon the eligibility of the women who chanced to marry into it," said William Rubin, representing the plaintiff, "and in four cases wives have been ostracized and scorned because they did not appeal to the family."

He said they sought to do likewise to Mrs. Amber Allis.

Gilbert Allis's first wife was divorced from him because of troubles started by relatives, according to Rubin. "The same thing was true of the first wife of Louis Allis," he asserted. "In the case of Jerry Allis, now dead, the family acted twice to break up his home. His first wife, Emma Yates, was divorced and the family refused to have anything to do with his widow, Gladys."

Rubin charged that members of the Allis family had encouraged Gilbert Allis to pay attentions to a Paris woman as a means of disgusting his wife so that she would sue for a divorce; permitted her and her children to live in poverty and conspired with her husband for him to go into bankruptcy.

Woman Freed of Manslaughter.

Mrs. Eula J. Gayle, 40 years old, of 45 West Fifty-ninth Street, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in Judge Mancuso's part of General Sessions in connection with the death of Mrs. Fannie Grant, 74 years old, aunt of Fannie Brice, the actress. She had been a prisoner in the Tombs since Sept. 21, when her automobile killed Mrs. Grant at Lenox Avenue and 115th Street. She was charged with second degree manslaughter. The jury returned the verdict in about an hour.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Sweet Seventeen" will move from the Frolic Theatre to the Morosco next Monday night.

Oliver Morosco's production of "Schemers" will open tonight in Stamford.

Paul Gerard Smith's revue, "Keep Kool," will be seen in Brooklyn next week, and probably in New York the week after. Hazel Dawn heads the cast, which also includes Johnny Dooley and Charles King.

George M. Cohan and Eddie Cantor will appear together in a sketch at the National Vaudeville Artists' four benefits next Sunday night.

"Round the Town," the revue scheduled for the Century roof, will open in Newark Monday night.

The Inter-Theatre Arts School of Acting and Production will stage "Romancer Walk" at the Cherry Lane Playhouse next Sunday night.

A German operetta, "The Romance of Mendelssohn," is announced for production by Louis F. Werba. It will be adapted by Edgar Allan Woolf, with music by Sigmund Romberg.

The Inquiring Reporter
Every day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, This question:
What do you think of "The Ten Commandments?"
WHERE ASKED.
THE ANSWERS.
1. Will Hays, former Postmaster General—"The Ten Commandments" is more than a picture, it is an institution. It is magnificent.
2. I. E. Krakower, Young Men's Hebrew Association, Lexington Avenue and 92d Street—I spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The Biblical scenes, especially those of the Exodus, and even more so, the crossing of the Red Sea, were most vivid and real.
3. Miss Muriel Murill, 126 Claremont Ave., Singer—"The Ten Commandments" is the picture of the age—vivid and glorious—a picture which will be marked in history because of its truth. I enjoyed it and am coming to see it again.
4. Rabbi S. Paltrovitch, 452 West 163d Street.—I admire the picture for its scenic beauty, the excellent direction, well chosen cast, its realism and application to twentieth century life. This picture, shown in natural colors, is the most wonderful I have ever seen. It deserves great popularity and a long life.
5. Mrs. C. Avery, 38 West 93d St., Housewife—The colored pictures were very realistic and beautiful. The scenes of Moses receiving the commandments were most impressive. I was more deeply impressed by "The Ten Commandments" than by any picture I have ever seen.

RADIO AND MOVIES CALLED 'PARASITES'

QUOTE COURT DECISIONS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Denouncing moving pictures and radio broadcasting stations as "parasitic industries," Nathan Burkan of New York, counsel for the American Society of Authors and Composers, today closes the hearings before the House Patents Committee on the Newton bill, which amends the copyright law and exempts motion picture theatres and radio stations from the payment of any compensation for the reproduction of popular songs or musical scores other than the fee charged for printed sheet music.

Mr. Burkan attacked the bill on constitutional grounds, maintaining that it would destroy property rights existing under the present law. Quoting numerous court decisions, he contended that song writers and composers were entitled to compensation for the use of their productions by radio or otherwise and that the proposed change in the law would impose great hardships on a large body of artists.

"Performance rights to musical works have been bestowed on authors since 1901," said Mr. Burkan. "As a result of that enactment we have produced a splendid school of American musicians. We now occupy first rank in musical productions. Before 1907 all our shows were imported from the other side because of the inadequacy and inefficiency of the American copyright law.

"The pending bill is promoted by purely selfish interests who are seeking to secure, for the purpose of profit, the works of American composers without any return. The moving picture owners have amassed tremendous fortunes. The principal part of their programs consist of musical features. This industry began as a parasitic industry, taking novels, stories and plays for reproduction in pictures without leave or license until it was stopped by the Supreme Court in the 'Ben Hur' case.

"This bill seeks to perpetuate parasitic practices in radio communication, as well as in the moving picture world. Broadcasting is operated purely for profit. Definite charges are made for broadcasting service. The radio stations are competing with the legitimate theatre, and if they are permitted to continue unbridled will reduce the theatre to a state of beggary. They are seeking to reap where they do not sow.

"To exempt radio stations and moving picture houses from the payment of legitimate charges for the reproduction of popular songs and music compositions would destroy initiative in the field of music and make us dependent, as formerly, on foreign authors and composers.

"This bill is unconstitutional, because it seeks to take from the authors exclusive rights in their writings. Congress, having given these rights and defined them, it cannot now take them away. The copyright is a contract between the Government and the author and should be respected by all parties in interest."

COONEYS STILL IN JAIL.

"Bob-Haired Bandit" Says She Is Satisfied With Sentence.

Cecelia Cooney, Brooklyn's "bob-haired bandit," and her husband, Edward Cooney, remained in Raymond Street Jail yesterday pending their transfer to State prison to serve the sentences imposed by County Judge Martin on Tuesday. At the request of Judge Martin Warden Honeck agreed not to send the husband to Sing Sing until after the wife had been taken to Auburn. The guards who are to take the woman to Auburn are expected to arrive tomorrow.

The woman spends much of her time reading detective stories. She eats well and retires early. Yesterday she sent this note to the Warden through an attendant:

"Dear Warden: This is to thank you ever so much for letting me see my husband on Tuesday, as I did not expect it. But I am going to ask you one more favor, to let me see my husband just before he leaves for Sing Sing, as I know that seeing me smile before he leaves will make him feel a bit better. He loves to see me smile. It will help him to keep up. Hoping you will do this last thing for me, and thanking you for all you have done for us both, I am, very truly yours,

"Cecelia Cooney."

"I am feeling wonderful," said the young woman. "I am satisfied the Judge gave me what I deserved. All I want now is a chance to see Ed again and to cheer him up with a smile."

Warden Honeck said he would permit the couple to have one more meeting.

Leading Americans Hotly Attack and Defend Congress

Bankers, Labor Leaders, Heads of "Big Business," Politicians, Club Women, Tell the "Digest" "What's the Matter With Congress"

A TIMELY and interesting survey has been made by THE LITERARY DIGEST to ascertain public opinion of Congress. Prominent and representative men and women were asked for expressions and in this week's number of THE DIGEST, the replies, dozens of them, are presented.

Some idea of the range of opinion expressed is indicated by the following: Mr. Orin Lester of the Bowery Savings Bank declares, "with such agencies at work in the country as Bolshevism and the present United States Congress, we have some job on our hands to maintain the integrity of the nation and the security of her institutions." At the other extreme, Captain Roscoe H. Johnson, International President of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, says: "Congress breaking down? Sure, from the viewpoint of Wall Street and its institutions, which thrive on covered-up rottenness. Representative government breaking down? Not a bit of it. Folks back home are simply cleaning house." Some of the prominent persons, out of the many who write their opinions; are:—

E. H. Gary, United States Steel Corporation
John L. Lewis, President, United Mine Workers
Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War
Hudson Maxim, Inventor
Nicholas Murray Butler, President, Columbia University
Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus, Harvard University
Edward Prizer, President, Vacuum Oil Company
H. B. Thayer, President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company
B. L. Winchell, President, Remington Typewriter Company
George Eastman, Eastman Kodak Company
James B. Forgan, First National Bank, Chicago
William Cooper Procter, Procter and Gamble Company
Governor Morgan, West Virginia
Governor Davis, Kansas
Governor Pinchot, Pennsylvania
Governor Preus, Minnesota
Mayor Shank, Indianapolis
Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt
Mrs. Thomas G. Winter
Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson
Miss Elisabeth Marbury
Charles E. Howard, President, International Typographical Union
Samuel Gompers, American Federation of Labor

This news-feature should be of interest to every man and woman because it gives an interesting and, perhaps, accurate slant upon how the people of the country look upon our lawmakers in Washington.

REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS.

President COOLIDGE has now indisputable right to consider himself leader of the Republican Party. His victory in State after State, in primary after primary, in convention after convention, has placed his nomination next month beyond question and left him without a rival to challenge his authority. But what is this Republican Party of which Mr. COOLIDGE has been made the head? Is it a fact or merely an empty name? Does control of the organization mean support by its members? These are the things which Mr. COOLIDGE is apparently trying to find out. Especially does he desire to ascertain whether the Republicans in Congress intend to stand by the President and the leader of their choice. Hence the consultations at the White House with Representatives and Senators, to whom the President is reported to have squarely put the demand that they vote to sustain him on matters of policy which he considers paramount.

First of all comes the Bursum Pension bill. It has met with a Presidential veto. What are the Republicans in Congress going to do about it? Senator BURSUM himself at first declared that the bill would easily be passed over the President's veto. Now he is not so certain about this. What Mr. COOLIDGE wishes to know is what his party supporters—his own nominal supporters—in the Senate are proposing to do. Have they been counting noses? Have they been appealing to party discipline? Do they mean to permit their President to suffer a rebuff and defeat one month away from the Republican National Convention? The argument from economy ought to be enough. The Administration is no more committed than are the Republicans in Congress to the most rigid holding down of governmental expenditures. These would be swollen needlessly and indefinitely by the Bursum bill. It never should have been passed, and its veto ought now to be upheld in the interest of sound public finance. But even if such considerations were not compelling, party loyalty should be sufficient to make sure that the position of the President is maintained.

Behind the Bursum bill stands the Bonus bill. It, too, awaits a Presidential veto. But is that veto to be rendered ineffective by the failure of Republican Senators to muster sufficient votes to prevent its being overridden? That is another thing which the President wishes to discover. Is his party in the Senate working for him or against him? Or is it simply lying back in lethargic indifference? If the leadership of the Republican Party is not to be thought of as a hollow sham, a mere mockery, the President is entitled to insist that he be given much more hearty support in Congress by members of his own party than has as yet been accorded him. It is not simply the question of devotion to Mr. COOLIDGE or liking for him personally. The thing at issue is whether the Republican organization is to prove a broken reed in the hands of the President.

The spectacle which Republicans in Congress have presented during the present session has been almost without parallel in our political annals. They have acted like men dejected and dispirited. Even before the scandals burst, and left them seemingly in a state of trepidation and daze, they presented an appearance of indiscipline, lifelessness and despondency almost unprecedented on the eve of a Presidential campaign. They betrayed little enthusiasm for President COOLIDGE. Some of them scarcely took pains to conceal their dislike of him. They did not spring to his defense. They sat in silence when his enemies attacked him. Their whole attitude was of unconcern regarding what might happen to him or to the party. The whole exhibition has been extraordinary and humiliating. Authority was tacitly conceded to the President, but it was not recognized or followed by the members of his party in Congress.

Obviously, this cannot go on. The President must know where he stands. If the Republican Party in Congress is not to be shown to be a mere simulacrum, a thing having a name to live but really being dead, there must be a revival of party spirit, an enforcement of party obligation, and a rallying of the rank and file to the support of the man whom they have chosen to be commander. Mr. COOLIDGE is not issuing orders. He is making no threats. He appears to have adopted for himself the motto which the Prime Minister of England recently said that he had made his own: "Never say you will do anything, "but, within reason, always keep "people expecting you are going to "do it."

That has seemingly been the President's plan. But now the time has come to execute it. The great test will arrive with the veto of the Bonus bill. If the Republicans in the Senate cannot, with the aid of the Democratic Senators who have been and will be against the bonus, get together enough votes to make it certain that the President's veto will be upheld, then they ought no longer to speak of themselves as a party, but to admit that they have become an undisciplined mob which will be defeated, and will deserve to be defeated, by the first organized and fighting party that falls upon them.

POLITICAL ROADMAKING.

Again Governor SMITH vetoes a bill providing for a State highway map desired by the politicians. This time he urges an amendment of the Constitution "to prohibit the laying out of "highway routes by legislative enact-"ment." The politicians cannot be cured of tampering with maps drawn by the State Highway Department, whose only concern is to give the people the best roads economically built. This year roads that would cost $40,000,000 were added, among them thirty-one miles of "dead-enders"; that is to say, roads not linked up with any system of highway and which have no reason for existence except the accommodation of constituents with a pull or the convenience of a member of the Legislature. It is astounding that the logrollers learned nothing from the Governor's review in 1923 of their conspiracy against the taxpayers. He then reminded them that in the last year of his first Administration Commissioner GREENE's map was thrown into the discard, and a junketing committee submitted a new map which the Legislature of 1921 adopted. At the next session one hundred bills were introduced at the instance of protesting taxpayers to amend it. Later the Commissioner of Highways submitted the rejected map, bringing it up to date. The Assembly, said Governor SMITH, "made it ridic-"ulous by adding unnecessary and "unneeded roads." In his veto last year the Governor said:

> We have a corps of competent engineers who have been in the employ of the State for a great many years, and if the Legislature would leave them alone these engineers would give us a connected and comprehensive State highway system that would be designed to meet the needs of the greatest number of our people.

The road map drawn this year by the Highway Department was approved by such associations as the Farm Bureau, the Dairymen's League, the New York State Grange and the New York State Motor Federation forming an advisory committee, but as usual it had to run the gauntlet of the political draftsmen. "In a certain section of the State," declares Governor SMITH, "roads were added "against the unanimous decision of "the advisory committee. * * * In "at least one case a change was "made by the Assembly not only "against the advice of the advisory "committee, but over the unanimous "protest of the local Board of Super-"visors." So again a scientific plan of road building for the general welfare goes over for another year, because there are "conscienceless politicians who," to quote Colonel GREENE, "would willingly cripple, "even wreck, this great activity of a "State in order to strengthen the "power of their party's political ma-"chine." Can it be doubted that the amendment of the Constitution which Governor SMITH proposes would, if submitted to the people, have their approval?

KU KLUXING AND OUT-SMARTING.

There is a gracious myth about the Hoosier love of literature. What all Hoosiers really love all the time is politics. That is their passion, their theatre and chief amusement. They can't get too much of it, though they get a good deal more of it than the people of any other State. To them, their Tuesday primaries were a great show. There was no excitement over candidates for the Presidential nomination. Mr. THOMAS TAGGART didn't want the Democrats to vote their preference. HIRAM JOHNSON's long trail of disaster made sure his defeat by the usual 6 to 1 or 7 to 1, or whatever the average is. All eyes were fixed on the nomination for Governor. There were six Republican, eight Democratic, candidates. This multiplicity is convenient for experts. If no candidate gets a majority, a State Convention picks out the nominee. Apparently, Doctor MCCULLOCH, the opponent of the now exiled MCCRAY, has failed to get a majority. But the chief action and actor was in the Republican primaries. "Can the Ku Klux Klan 'put over' 'ED JACKSON," now Secretary of State?

It has, or the primary has. Even the versatile LEW SHANK, Mayor of Indianapolis, who looked for a heavy vote in the industrial districts and expected independent Democratic support, was powerless before the Jackson campaign, conducted, as the Secretary of the Shank-for-Governor Club said the other day, "mostly by long-"distance night-riders, reminiscent of "some of the scenes described by "RILEY in such pieces as the 'Nine "Little Goblins' and 'Lugubrious "Whing Whang.'" Here's a State of Whings. Fortunately, Mr. MAX BENTLEY gives us a much-needed light in McClure's Magazine on "The Ku Klux Klan in Indiana." That noble Vehmgericht has been modified by the Indiana temperament and environment. No violence in Indiana, if you please. The first Indiana Klan, organized at Evansville in 1921, was orthodox. Mr. D. C. STEPHENSON, coal dealer, is said to have enlisted 400,000 Klansmen before he quarreled with the Imperial Wizard at Atlanta. He is a born machinist. He is rhetorically described as "the man who took "gold out of the Ku Klux Klan and "put GOD in"—presumably an anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic GOD.

STEPHENSON is said to have organized his Klan "along combined political and military lines." Over his Grand Dragons and Exalted Cyclopses, his Colonels and his Generals, exalted sits the greater than great STEPHENSON, technically known as "G-1," Commander-in-Chief. Mr. BENTLEY doesn't mention it, but every normal Hoosier is a fervent and indefatigable "joiner." This must have been an immense help to G-1. Then, in 1922, the Klan jumped into politics, the inevitable delight and desire, the main source of love and hate, in Indiana. Mr. BENTLEY tells us that the "well known Atlanta 'prin-"ciples' of hate and extra-legal "government of the invisible stripe "somehow left the Hoosier cold." What was it but "hate" that beat a Republican and a Democratic Catholic candidate for State office?

"No one questions that the Klan "voted almost solidly for RALSTON, "and that this bloc vote was a pro-"nounced factor in his victory." Still, many forces of evil are arrayed against our ineffectual seraph, Mr. BEVERIDGE; and the Klan "claims everything." "ED" JACKSON has been a Judge and a soldier. He has sold newspapers, worked in a stave factory and a brickyard. He "has a political strength of his own." One day we hear about the "500,000" Indiana Ku Kluxers. The next day we are told that the Indiana Klan is breaking to pieces. In that mythopoeic Commonwealth, how are we to distinguish between fact and fancy? One turns with comfort to homelier traits. "Fake slates" to bedevil the voter were common on both sides Tuesday. The name of Mr. MEREDITH NICHOLSON, a candidate for a Democratic nomination as State Senator, who, as The Indianapolis News says, "seems to have the support of every "voter who appreciates the better "things of government and stands "for them at the polls," was omitted and another substituted on "a fairly good duplicate of the original slate."

Numerous Republican candidates were "double-crossed." Here Mr. BENTLEY comes to our aid:

> One must learn to appreciate the fine distinction between the cross and the double-cross. As a distinguished Indiana politician explains it, "When "you double-cross a friend you com-"mit political suicide, but when you "cross him you are only out-smarting "him."

INVESTMENTS IN RUSSIA.

London rumors speak of high stakes at the green table where RAMSAY MACDONALD and RAKOVSKY are playing the game of claim and counterclaim. MACDONALD's demands upon Russia in behalf of British bondholders and confiscated British private property are estimated at $5,000,000,000. RAKOVSKY comes back with something like $20,000,000,000 for damage wrought by British support of KOLTCHAK, DENIKIN and YUDENITCH three years ago. On both sides the claims are probably subject to a liberal discount; in the case of the Soviet claim this may come very near to 100 per cent.

The debt issue is not the most vital one. Great Britain can look forward to nothing more than a promise to pay at some indefinite time. The real question is one of new credits for Russia; and as has recently been pointed out in a memorandum by the Institute of Economics at Washington, even the payment of interest on new borrowings is a sufficiently serious undertaking for the Soviet Government. If Moscow is to be asked to pay interest on the old Russian loans and on confiscated properties, there will be a good deal less than nothing left for the service of new credits.

Financial security in the case of Soviet Russia is not at all the same thing as in the case of other Governments. In every other country foreign obligations are safe if the budget condition is sound. But in the Soviet Republic domestic policy is involved. The British bankers in their memorandum to RAMSAY MACDONALD declared that British money would not go into Russia until the inviolability of private property was definitely established, a permanent civil code enacted, and the courts made independent of Government manipulation. In a country ruled by decree there is little encouragement for foreign capital to domicile itself.

This is the anomalous situation today. A Soviet delegation is negotiating for foreign credits at the very moment when reaction toward the pure brand of communism is under way in Russia. Such private enterprise as has sprung up under the encouragement of LENIN's New Economic Policy of three years ago is now being harried and taxed out of existence. To be sure, the Soviet Government may promise to make a distinction between the way it handles its own "capitalists" and its treatment of the foreign investor. But in practice it is a policy that invites trouble. Russia's trade negotiations up to last year were in the hands of LEONID KRASSIN. He has now faded out of the picture. The reason is that he contended that economic sanity at home must go hand in hand with foreign trade. At present the Soviet Government is engaged in reconciling KARL MARX at home with ADAM SMITH abroad.

RAILWAY EARNINGS AND RATES.

Representative and practically complete railway returns show a decrease of gross earnings in March by $30,701,470 compared with last year. The traffic handled did not show a decrease until April, and the total freight movement for the year is still relatively above 1923. Nor is it necessary to infer that railway profits are declining, for the cut in operating expenses is proportionately larger than the decline in gross earnings. This bears out the expectation of the railway managers that the year would be profitable despite the anticipated loss in tonnage moved, owing to increased efficiency of operation and the excellent condition of equipment and roadway. For this year the net operating income is 4.61 per cent., compared with 4.56 per cent. last year. The comparison is encouraging, unless the later months should show a marked turn for the worse. Last year forty-four roads earned excess profits enough to compel them to divide with the Government if the law to that effect is sustained. In March this year thirty-four carriers showed a deficit.

These deficiencies in earnings below the reasonable standard are the result of reductions of rates exceeding a billion dollars during the last three years. No doubt the farmers will continue to press their demands for relief at the cost of the railways. But if railway rates had moved with prices, the country would have paid ten billions more in freight rates since 1915. Professor DAVID FRIDAY has estimated that the keeping down of freight rates raised farm land values from thirteen billions in 1900 to fifty-four billions in 1920. Allowing a decline of 25 per cent., the farmers retain more than twenty billions of farm value increase. The farmers would benefit more by reduction of their tripled taxes than by regulating the railways into inability to do their work as public utilities.

A CHALLENGE.

Senator SWANSON has definitely challenged the Republicans to line up on the question of the World Court. He had waited in vain for some one on the Republican side to offer a resolution to carry into effect the recommendation of President COOLIDGE in support of the earlier and specific proposal of President HARDING and Secretary HUGHES. But now, to accomplish the purposes of this Republican proposal, he declares that if the Administration is in earnest not only will a substantial support come from the Republicans in the Senate, but enough from the Democrats to insure the adoption of his resolution.

It has been referred to Senator LODGE's committee, where the original proposal is now in its second year of repose. Senator SWANSON is determined to save his resolution from a like fate if he can. If, however, hope is sickened by deferring in the case of this resolution also, there remains an alternative which the country at large will support. Senator SWANSON in pressing—moving that the committee be discharged from further consideration of the bill. It will then be possible to know whether the Administration in its advocacy of our adhering to the court, under the conditions proposed by Secretary HUGHES, has the support of its own party in the Senate.

The challenge is made. The adoption of such reservations as Senator LENROOT suggested will be interpreted as nothing but an evasion. The only addition to the Harding-Hughes reservations which Senator SWANSON's resolution makes is that the Powers signing the protocol shall, through an exchange of notes, indicate their acceptance of the reservations and understandings before the United States affixes its signature. As these reservations and understandings do not involve modification of the provisions of the protocol so far as these Powers themselves are concerned, it is not likely that there would be disapproval. One reservation gives clear recognition of the fact that the World Court is a creature of the nations signing the protocol. Moreover, the resolution itself denies any legal relationship whatever on the part of the United States to the League of Nations—as if any such association were the unpardonable sin.

DRAMA IN THE HILLS.

Apparently it is with the theatre as with human nature. The basic laws are few and virtually changeless. The concrete phenomena succeed each other in a dizzy round of fad or fashion. On Broadway it has been a season predominantly of mountain plus religion drama. Miss VOLLMER prepared the way, Mr. HATCHER HUGHES showed how well he could follow, PERCY MACKAYE and others have taken to the hills with less success. Religious fanaticism and primitive appetite against a background of crag and ravine represent a virgin field for the American theatre in more than one sense. From the Blue Ridge the march of the mountaineers has reached the Catskills. If precedent counts for anything, a considerable portion of the North American coastal ranges are due for exploitation on Broadway. The Adirondacks shelter some striking examples of the backwash of white civilization. There should be promise in the hills north of Boston. And there are some notable heights in Colorado and California.

The mountain ore is excellent raw material for drama, and it is being expertly mined. Perhaps the demand has been determining the supply. To the outsider nothing is more amazing in the show-shop business than the speed with which the managers can turn out the popular commodity of the moment. A crook drama makes a hit, and the underworld pours out upon the stage. A flapper play goes over with a bang, and the theatre teems with the young generation. BENAVENTE succeeds, and Spanish playwrights bob up on every side. Mr. COHAN writes "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and the "josh" drama burgeons everywhere. The reason, of course, would be imitation. But the mystery is the speed with which imitation operates. Is the art of dramaturgy really much simpler than is supposed? Or does every producer keep on his manuscript shelf every conceivable form of drama, from Kentucky mountaineer through Long Island nouveau riche to Hungarian decadent? And according to the signs on the ticker tape does he turn in his chair and pick out something Presbyterian from Breathitt County or something pagan from the Magyar plains?

It is a phenomenon not unknown in the sister art of literature. Pollyanna and SHERWOOD ANDERSON, the broad highway and the curvilinear geography of Greenwich Village, have been the creators of fashions. But in the book world a season usually intervenes between the smashing initial success and the full blaze of the mode. In the theatre things move more rapidly, for reasons which have yet to be explained. One other thing to be explained is that as a rule the drama and literature do not borrow from each other. It is extraordinary, for instance, that a little while ago when most of the fiction producers were paddling around in the South Seas, the play producers, hardly gave a sign of having even heard of the Marquesas Islands.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Prohibition Served Up Attractively.

Quite the most vivacious contribution to the endless discussion of prohibition yet made is that of Professor STUART P. SHERMAN, which appears in the May Atlantic under the title of "Cornelia and Dionysus." In it three men, with Cornelia doing little more than listen, present their respective views, and in so doing go over practically all of the arguments for and against prohibition. Both as it is and as its advocates would like to have it.

One of the men, who is or has been in the Diplomatic Service, explains and approves the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act on the ground that they were necessary for the sort of production which war demanded. But he held that for people like himself there was no need for such restraint and that therefore he and his kind, while publicly supporting prohibition, were justified in violating it in the privacy of their homes and clubs.

The second man, a very "advanced" novelist, rather gloried in his own ignoring of the law, but put it on the different ground that the lower and middle classes, as well as those holding themselves higher, could not do without the occasional exhilaration which for most could be attained only by the use of alcohol. Prohibition he held to be an attempt to kill a god, Dionysus—a task impossible of performance and inviting the fate of Pentheus, who spied upon the bacchanals and wanted to abolish their "mysteries."

Then came the turn of the third man, a college professor from the Middle West, who evidently was, or spoke for, the author of the article. He is a very cheerful and tolerant disputant, admits the force of his antagonists' arguments, and then denies most of their statements of fact. He recalls what he remembers of the days when in most States all sorts of alcoholics were sold freely. But what he recalls of their effects, instead of being beautiful or cheery, is terrible or sordid or disgusting. His "horrible examples" are well chosen, and every one of them is in the memory of all who lived and observed in those days; but if his adversaries had been permitted to plead in rebuttal, they easily enough could have proved him guilty of offering a part for the whole, and of ignoring the fact that the village drunkard was not the only villager who ever took a drink of anything stronger than buttermilk.

An Accident Helps the Professor.

Professor SHERMAN's symposium is brought to a curious and moving end. Cornelia, is one of the mothers who holds to the delusion that her children "tell her everything." All through the latter part of the discussion she had been hoping that her son and daughter, who have gone to a dance, will return soon, and then worrying because the hour set for their return, 1 o'clock, has passed without their coming. She goes to the window, and is startled to see, passing by, an automobile among whose occupants is a policeman holding in his arms a bleeding and apparently dying boy. Then the telephone bell rings. The son has been arrested for speeding his car while drunk. It was he who had run over the boy—he, whom his mother "knew" to be, like herself, a total abstainer!

This neatly answers the diplomat's contention that, while it was well for the laboring classes to be deprived of alcohol, there was no reason for robbing others of a pleasure which they knew how to take in moderation. The answer is not so conclusive as it is neat, but it will serve. It at least is as conclusive as were the arguments presented by the diplomat and the novelist.

This is but the merest outline of Professor SHERMAN's article, and it will not detract from the enjoyment to be derived from the reading of the whole of it, no matter with which one of the three arguers one agrees.

Arguments Against the Bonus.

BENJAMIN MOORE, former member of the American Legion and now Chairman of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-bonus League's Committee on Employment of Disabled ex-Service Men, has written for presentation to President COOLIDGE a letter which states with brevity and force the reasons why this organization is as much opposed to a bonus consisting of insurance as it was to one of cash down. He lists them thus:

> That services rendered to the Government in times of emergency are not to be measured in terms of money; that during such emergencies the Government cannot compete with private industry in the labor market; that during the World War the United States Government went far beyond the hopes of the soldiers themselves in the matter of caring for them and their dependents; that an attempt at this time to secure more money for the able-bodied is dictated solely by greed; and finally, that any form of bonus is economically indefensible.

In conclusion Mr. MOORE says that the insurance bonus involves the spending of a vast amount of money and yet, if passed, it will not give the men what the great majority of the bonus-seekers want, which is a lump sum immediately in hand.

All this, in other forms, has been said many times before and its repetition probably will have no effect on Congress. It may strengthen, however, the President's determination to veto the pending bill—if that determination needs any strengthening.

An Unenviable Possession of the South.

One of THE TIMES's readers is grieved because one of its poets recently said something not very complimentary to the epiphyte known in the South as "Spanish moss." As poets say what they please about everything and always stick firmly to their opinions, there seems to be little likelihood of persuading this particular poet to withdraw his criticism of the plant in question.

But why do Southerners so often feel compelled to defend and even to praise as beautiful the Tellandia usnoides, which is, according to the botanists, a strangely errant member of the pineapple family? It takes a good deal of faith for the uninitiate to believe that ascription, but, pineapple family or not, to anybody brought up in Northern fields and woods, Spanish moss is a most dismal vegetable, making the unwonted observer of it think only of graveyards and suicides.

And while our correspondent was right in denying that it is a parasite, he was wrong in calling it a protector of the trees which it "adorns." It does not drink their blood, but, after it has multiplied sufficiently, it can and sometimes does suffocate them by its mere mass.

Spanish moss has a few uses, but it serves none of them really well and the cushions stuffed with it certainly never will take any prizes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We have read the pros and the cons of the Modernists and the Fundamentalists, the unhappy discussion between Bishop Manning and Dr. Parks, and the lesser lights. The exploitation of the Scriptures by some of them has left many adherents of the Anglican Church in such a state of doubt as to wonder if any one who still believes in the Book of Common Prayer can truthfully say with Peter: "For we know and we believe that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

The adherents of the Roman Church have no such doubts. According to one of their publications (Holy Name Journal), they are to give public expression to their faith in the words quoted above in the City of Washington this coming September. They will gather in their thousands, men of every avocation, and from every town and city of our country, and on the streets of our capital city sing their credo to "the Son of the living God."

While we differ on many points of Christian dogma, there are Anglicans who rejoice that thousands of their fellow-citizens have the moral courage thus to publicly honor God, His holy name, and the name of His divine Son. The occasion invites cooperation. Let us unite with them and send delegates to this convocation of the Holy Name Society. I ask Bishop Manning and the vestry of old Trinity, and other members of the Christian faith, to give their opinion.

HILLS.

There is a special glory set apart
For great, green hills that dream against the sky;
High hills, blest, as the sun-priest passes by.
With beauty that makes sudden tears to start.
Yet baffles word or brush—beyond all art:
Enfolding hills, that tempt young feet to try
To find the wonders that beyond them lie—
Dear hills, that beckon back the homing heart!
Poor, they whose childish eyes have never seen
Contented cattle on far hills of green;
Bereft are they who leave no hills behind
When they set forth the rainbow gold to find!
Blessed, they who when they need to be consoled
Can turn them to the hills, as friends of old!

CURB ON CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

LaGuardia Would Prohibit Interstate Distribution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A bill designed to limit the campaign expenses of political parties and providing drastic regulations governing the acceptance of such contributions was introduced in the House today by Representative LaGuardia of New York.

Under the LaGuardia bill money or its equivalent contributed to political committees, including national and Congressional campaign committees, should be used only in the States in which it was contributed. It would be unlawful to send, mail, give or use literature, souvenirs, books, reading matter or advertisements, paid for in one State, into another State, with the exception of advertisements in newspapers that have been published for at least a year. It would also be unlawful for any alien or corporation to give or lend money to a political party.

"The trouble with our whole political system just now," said Mr. LaGuardia, explaining the purposes of his bill, "is that the hand that writes the contribution check is the hand that writes the platform."

"In order to prevent the big moneyed interests of this country controlling legislation, it is necessary to control campaign funds and political contributions. The matter is very simple. Such a law would prevent the big railroads, steel industries, banking interests, packing trusts, oil and coal barons and the like, all of which are centrally located, from piling up a big campaign fund to be used all over the country and thereby acquire political control, or, at least, put the beneficiaries of such funds under obligations to their special selfish interests. Money collected in New York could not be spent outside of New York, and so on. My bill would also make it unlawful for any one to donate outside his own State.

"It may take a little time to obtain the passage of this bill, but I am certain that before long conditions will compel the regulation of campaign funds along the lines suggested."

CHURCHILL QUITS LIBERALS.

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 7.—Winston Churchill, speaking at a Conservative meeting at Liverpool tonight, made a strong appeal for cooperation between Conservatives and Liberals against Socialism as the only way to safeguard the interests of the British nation and empire. He saw in the repeal of the McKenna duties an artifice designed to place a difficulty in the path of Conservative and Liberal cooperation. The repeal was a rough and harsh measure. If the duties were to be removed not three months' but three years' notice should have been given.

The attitude of the Government toward imperial preference, he said, was characterized by a chilling disdain for sentiment and the interests of the Dominions. The budget furnished one of the most remarkable examples of Socialist inconsistency and insincerity.

The Government, he said, was a vast monument of sham and humbug, maintaining itself in office by playing upon the jealousies and divisions of the two older parties, and he characterized Philip Snowden as a "political cuckoo," strutting in plumes borrowed from his predecessors.

Mr. Churchill accused the Socialist Party of wantonly corrupting the character of the British nation.

This speech by Mr. Churchill will definitely sever him from the Liberal Party and identify him with the Conservatives. He may be able to give a lead in the same direction to the Liberals, like Captain Frederick Guest, who have broken with official Liberalism because it supports Labor, and to others who voted against the Snowden budget, because they considered it too much of a rebuff to the Dominions.

FAVOR 20-YEAR WAIT FOR THE PHILIPPINES

SETS UP "COMMONWEALTH"

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—By a vote of 11 to 6, the House Committee on Insular Affairs ordered today a favorable report on the Fairfield bill, which provides a large measure of autonomy for the Philippines and directs that at the expiration of a period of twenty years the islands shall be recognized by the President of the United States as an independent nation.

The bill provides for the creation of the Philippine Commonwealth to be governed by a Legislature in two houses and a Governor to be chosen by the people. This Commonwealth, it is further provided, shall succeed the present Government immediately upon the adoption of a Constitution and its approval by the President.

The committee rejected the provision, contained in the bill as originally offered, stipulating that the Philippines through a plebiscite at the end of thirty years should pass on the question whether they would set up a Government of their own or remain under American rule. The bill specifically prescribes that upon the expiration of the Commonwealth, which is limited to twenty years, the President shall proclaim the independence of the Philippines, withdraw the American troops and terminate all evidence of American authority in the archipelago.

A report on the Fairfield bill will be presented to the House later in the week. Its author, Representative Fairfield of Indiana, Chairman of the Insular Committee, is hopeful of obtaining action on it at this session.

An effort will be made by Democratic leaders to force the adoption of an amendment granting the Philippines immediate independence. This move is expected to meet with failure in view of the opposition of the Coolidge Administration, which is understood to endorse the main provisions of the Fairfield bill.

A number of important amendments were incorporated in the bill as ordered reported. As introduced, the bill created the office of American Resident Commissioner in the Islands, with power to annul laws and to call troops into the field in case of emergency. An amendment adopted today vests these powers in the President instead of the Resident Commissioner. A provision also was adopted making the new Philippine Government responsible for the island's bonded indebtedness.

Another amendment provides that the Philippines, acting either as a Commonwealth or as an independent Government, shall not enter into any treaties with foreign powers affecting either territorial integrity or sovereignty.

MASONS TO ELECT TODAY.

Grand Lodge Gets Good-Will Message From Britain—Tompkins Ill.

Sir Alfred Robbins, President of the Board of General Purposes, the governing body of the United Grand Lodge of England, delivered an address of greeting and good will to American free masonry at yesterday's session of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York, in Masonic Hall, Twenty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue.

The message came from the Duke of Connaught, Grand Master of Britain's Grand Lodge. It pictured free masonry as a vital force in promoting accord and strengthening the ties of friendship existing between English-speaking nations. Sir Alfred is the first officer of the United Grand Lodge of England to be sent to America on an official mission.

George F. Roberts, Grand Master of the District of Columbia, spoke on lodge matters. The rest of the session was devoted to the reading of committee reports.

Deputy Grand Master William A. Rowan presided, owing to the illness of Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkinr, Grand Master for the State of New York, who was taken ill while reading his annual address at Tuesday's session. He was confined to his home at 45 Nevada yesterday, suffering from a severe cold and sore throat. He expects to be able to attend today's meeting, at which officers will be elected.

Thomas Penny of Buffalo, Past Grand Master, was guest of honor at a dinner last evening at the Hotel Majestic given by twenty officials who served under him. Among others present were Hugo Taussig, William Rowan, Robert L. Robinson, Charles H. Johnson, Arthur K. Kuhn, Edward Pauchard, Henry Walther, T. C. Moore and Dean Treder of the Garden City Cathedral.

NAME MICHIGAN DELEGATES.

Republicans Back Governor's Choices—Ignore Senator Couzens.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., May 7.—The "regular" Republican organization, under the unchallenged leadership of Governor Alex J. Groesbeck, dominated the State Republican Convention today and named the administration's slate of delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention. A great ovation greeted the Governor, the convention being virtually unanimous in its favorable demonstration.

Herbert F. Baker, gubernatorial candidate and avowed opponent of the Groesbeck régime, who had threatened to challenge the Governor's power, failed to rise to the promised fight.

Delegates-at-large elected to the Cleveland convention are Governor Groesbeck, Charles B. Warren, Mrs. Orrin T. Holt, Muskegon; John W. Blodgett, Grand Rapids; Joseph W. Fordney, Saginaw; Alton T. Roberts, Marquette, and C. S. Mott, Flint.

Senator Couzens was ignored in the draft of resolutions presented by the resolution committee, as was the case in nearly all county conventions two weeks ago. Edwin Denby, former Secretary of the Navy, was endorsed, but the committee also made public a telegram from Mr. Denby saying he would not be a candidate for United States Senator.

WILL FIGHT TIES UP $11,000,000 ESTATE

BEQUESTS MADE TO CHARITY

Contestants Charge That There Was "Undue Influence" Exercised Upon the Testator.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, May 7.—Five cousins who were cut off without a cent in the will of the late Miss Emily A. Watson, today petitioned Westchester County Surrogate George A. Slater for appointment of temporary administrators of the $11,000,000 estate pending trial by jury of their contest of the instrument. Surrogate Slater said he would make the appointments after the contestants had filed necessary affidavits.

Miss Watson, who was noted for her philanthropies, died at her home in White Plains Feb. 1 last. She inherited her fortune from her father and her sister. The father had left, among other bequests to her, a special trust fund of $500,000. In her will, executed June 7, 1918, Miss Watson divided the principal of this fund among eighteen hospitals and other institutions in sums ranging from $25,000 to $75,000. Shortly before her death she gave $1,250,000 to the White Plains Orthopedic Hospital for Crippled Children, which she founded a few years ago.

The bulk of her estate went to first cousins and other relatives. To the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor Miss Watson left $50,000. A similar sum went to the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital and $25,000 was left to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The contestants are Harriet Watson Sanders of Ardmore, Pa.; Mary Rufus Watson Foster of Birmingham, Ala.; Frances Watson Carothers of Temple, Tex.; Tennessee Taylor Watson Oyen of Columbus, Miss., and George P. Miller of Milwaukee. In an affidavit filed in their behalf the contestants alleged that the will, if ever executed, was "procured by the undue influence of the proponents and by the undue influence of some other person or persons unknown to these contestants." The proponents were the cousins who were made legatees by the will and the executors were Bertram H. Fancher, President of the Fifth Avenue Bank in New York and Howard E. Foster, former President of the Central Bank at White Plains. This group offered the will for probate on March 19 last.

The contestants' petition for appointment of temporary administrators was approved by the executors, who informed the Court they desired temporary administrators so that the estate might be conserved pending the trial, to be held in the Fall. Appearing for Mr. Fancher, Attorney Herbert M. Teets said that it was ridiculous to allege that Mr. Fancher had exercised any undue influence on the testatrix. "The contest has no substance and I challenge the contestants to name any legatee who exercised undue influence," he said to the Court.

Frederick McLaughlin, also of counsel for Mr. Fancher, stressed the point that four of the five contestants had not been acquainted with Miss Watson and that the fifth had met Miss Watson only three or four times, these occasions being after the will had been executed.

PRINCE SENDS GEMS TO LONDON MARKET

Expects Unsold Russian Jewels for Relief of Refugees Will Go Better There.

GOT $190,000 FOR PEARLS

Youssoupoff and Wife and Dr. Weizmann Among Passengers Sailing on the Aquitania.

Prince Felix Youssoupoff, before sailing yesterday on the Cunard liner Aquitania for Southampton, disclosed that he was unable to sell the large collection of jewelry he brought to this country and had sent the pieces back, with the exception of the black pearl necklace he sold to Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry of Washington, D. C., wife of the Senator from Rhode Island. He said that the price paid for the necklace was $190,000. At the time of the sale it was reported to be $400,000.

The Prince, who was accompanied by his wife, who is a cousin of the late Czar, said that the unsold jewels will be exhibited at the Colonial Exposition in London. "I rather think they will sell better abroad than in America, as the Europeans regard them from a historic viewpoint rather than for their commercial value," he said.

The Prince declined to discuss his action to recover a group of Romanoffs which he says he hypothecated with Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia for a loan of about $350,000. He said he plans to return to the United States in November. He expressed appreciation of the generosity of Americans contributing to Russian relief, and said that some day Russia would show its appreciation.

Another passenger on the Aquitania was Ogden Reid, publisher of The New York Herald-Tribune. He was accompanied by Howard Davis and Howard Cross. Mr. Reid is going to Paris in connection with taking over the Paris edition of The New York Herald.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe (Mrs. Sothern) left for a vacation in Paris, London, Versailles and the Alps.

COURT PERMITS CITY TO JOIN PHONE FIGHT

Motion to Intervene in Action by Company for 10% Rate Increase Is Granted.

HEARING IS SET FOR MAY 16

Judge Knox Calls on Hough and Winslow to Sit With Him as a Statutory Tribunal.

The motion made by Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson that the City of New York be permitted to intervene as a co-defendant in the action begun by the New York Telephone Company to establish its right to make a 10 per cent. increase in telephone rates was granted yesterday by Judge John C. Knox, sitting in the United States District Court.

Judge Knox's decision was accompanied by no opinion. He merely endorsed over his signature on the motion papers submitted by Corporation Counsel Nicholson:

In an additional order Judge Knox called upon Judge Charles M. Hough of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and Judge Francis M. Winslow of the United States District Court to sit with him as a statutory court to hear the main issue, which was joined by the filing of a motion by the telephone company for a preliminary injunction restraining the State Public Service Commission and the Attorney General of the State of New York from enforcing the present telephone rates. The order provides that the statutory court shall open its sessions on May 16 at 2 o'clock P. M., in Room 434 of the Federal Building.

Corporation Counsel Nicholson and his assistant, Maldwin M. Fertig, who appeared for the Corporation Counsel's office in the preliminary bouts with counsel for the telephone company, were much pleased with Judge Knox's prompt decision in favor of the city's intervention as a party to the action. The naming of so early a date for the beginning of the trial, they believe, indicates a desire on the part of the Court to expedite the case and to press it to a speedy conclusion in the public interest.

The decision to grant to the city the right to intervene came just one day after the filing of his supplementary brief by the Corporation Counsel. The sole defendants originally named in the action brought by the telephone corporation were the Attorney General and the Public Service Corporation of the State.

Mr. Nicholson declared that in an action the outcome of which might require telephone users to pay an additional $20,000 a day, the city itself, as the largest single subscriber, should be permitted to become an active participant. He also made it known through his brief that the city already had spent upward of $150,000 in what he termed "an intensive study of the telephone situation."

Being Well Dressed Is Better than Merely Being in Style!

THAT involves style, of course, but it also involves something far more important than slavish adherence to change. A man can be an absolute copy-plate of fashion and yet not appear to advantage, whereas another man can wear a last year's suit and still convey the impression of being well-dressed, because while it is a last year's suit it possesses something which is superior to mere style and independent of its fluctuations — the everlasting virtue of being beautifully made!

And it is in suits of that character that we want to interest you now—suits in which the men who wear them, as long as they wear them, will be WELL DRESSED!

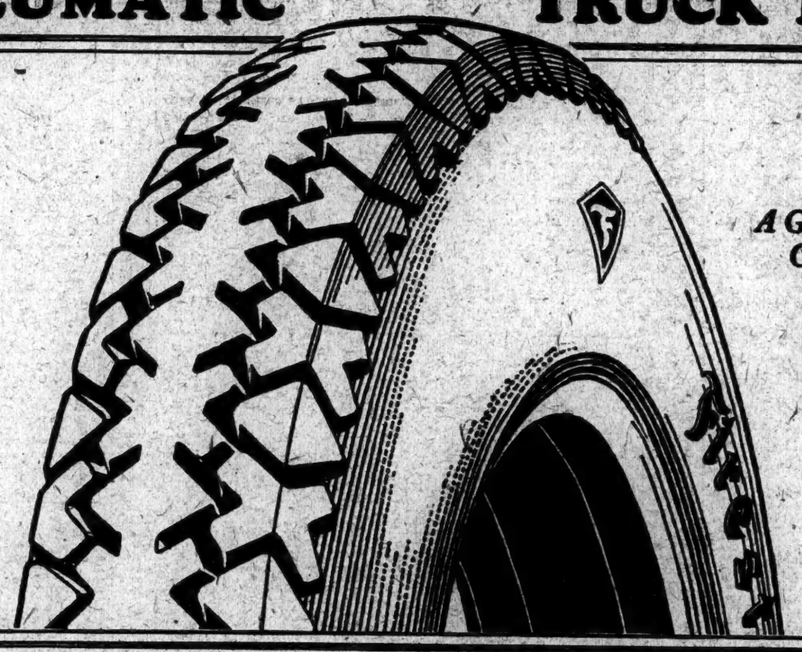
PNEUMATIC TRUCK TIRE



A Gum-Dipped Cord Tire

The Mark of Quality

Expert Service Cuts Truck Operating Costs

Our job is to reduce the cost of operation for all kinds of trucking enterprises. We have not only the facilities for speedy, efficient, economical service; but we also have the complete line of Firestone truck tires for every road, load, and condition of service.

Discuss your trucking problems with us. If the conditions require a pneumatic tire, we recommend the Firestone Pneumatic Truck Tire. The Firestone gum-dipping process gives it unusual strength and enduring qualities. This means thorough dependability and long mileage—most important factors in truck operation expense.

If you knew the construction of this tire as we do, you would never use any other. The special reinforced ply arrangement or "tie-in" stiffens the bead and carries the flexing up into the side-walls, thus reducing strains and wear. The semi-flat tread gives astonishing traction and maximum loading capacity.

But whether you use pneumatics, cushions, or solids we are ready to supply you with the right tire for your needs. As truck tire experts we can quickly tell you which type of truck tire will give you the most ton-miles per dollar. There is a Firestone tire, or combination of tires, which will do this without sacrificing the cushioning qualities your truck and load require.

ATTITUDE ON TRANSIT MODIFIED BY MAYOR

Not Planning to Scrap All Routes Approved by Commission, He Announces.

SAYS SOME "MAY BE USED"

But He Will Never Build Any Subways to Be Hooked Up With the Present Ones.

OMINOUS RUMBLE HEARD

Straphangers Again Restive and There Is Talk of Revival of Waterman's Citizens' Committee.

Confronted by the threat of an intensive revival of the "Say It with Shovels" campaign, which last Summer proved so effective a goad to action in the hands of Frank D. Waterman's Citizens' Committee, Mayor Hylan began to explain yesterday that his attitude concerning new subways had been exaggerated.

The Mayor denied that his strictures against the present Transit Commission and the "blunders and errors" committed by its engineering staff meant that he planned to scrap bodily all the new subway routes approved jointly by the Transit Commission and the Board of Estimate during the last six months of comparative harmony between those two bodies.

What the Mayor meant, he explained to inquiring reporters, was that all these matters now would be held for final adjudication until they can be acted upon by the new Board of Transportation, which he is to appoint on July 1 and which thereafter is to be exclusively responsible for the planning, routing and construction of new rapid transit lines. Mayor Hylan said that such parts of the new subway routes now drafted, including the Brooklyn crosstown and the Washington Heights lines, as may be found by the new board to be available and unobjectionable, might be ratified and used. The point which he again stressed was that under no condition would any new subways be built which could be hooked up with either the existing lines of the I. R. T. or the B. M. T. systems.

He Will Sort Out "the Good."

"We shall use what is good and throw away what is bad in the plans of the Transit Commission," said the Mayor. "The Brooklyn crosstown subway will be built, but it will be built in our own way. No plan will be adopted that connects city-owned subways with the existing subway corporations that have exploited the people for their own profit."

The Mayor intimated that the main line of the Brooklyn crosstown would be built virtually in accord with the plan submitted by the present Transit Commission and ratified months ago by the City Administration's Conference Committee headed by Dock Commissioner John H. Delaney, who is to be the Chairman of the new Board of Transportation.

He also intimated that the proposed route of the Washington Heights trunk line would be modified only to the extent that would make that subway essentially an independent city owned and municipally operated enterprise. Concerning the fact that this expedient, pending recapture by the city of existing subway lines, would impose upon subway riders a multiplicity of fares, such as followed the breaking up of the old surface trolley systems, the Mayor had no comment to offer.

Following the announcement by Mayor Hylan that Mr. Delaney would head the new Board of Transportation on July 1, it became known from an authoritative source that the second member of the board would be Grover A. Whalen, present Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures, champion-in-chief of the motor bus as a public transit utility, and at one time private secretary to Mayor Hylan. Who is to be the third member of the triumvirate the Mayor has not yet decided.

Mayor Hylan's letter, which was read to the Board of Estimate on Tuesday, brought a mild case of shell shock to persons and organizations that had interested themselves in advocating the early construction of much-needed subway facilities. They were astounded when they read that the Mayor had denounced the work of the Transit Commission and its engineering staff as worthless and had clearly intimated that he would not be willing to sanction any actual digging until after his new Board of Transportation takes the field.

"Say It With Shovels," Revival Seen.

Frank D. Waterman, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand, which last Summer received the Mayor's pledge to go ahead at once with subway construction, declared that it was "unthinkable" that Mayor Hylan should break that promise. It was this committee which set up the slogan "Say it with shovels!" and under that banner enlisted so many thousands of tired straphangers that the city authorities soon came into line for action rather than talk. A revival of last Summer's campaign was predicted by many of Mr. Waterman's associates yesterday in view of what they considered the needlessly dilatory tactics of the city authorities now.

Arthur S. Somers, President of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, which has been enthusiastically sponsoring the Brooklyn-Bronx line, declared that if the Board of Estimate did not appropriate money for that portion of the route on Bedford Avenue, which is not in dispute, "every civic organization in Brooklyn" would take action in protest.

Members of the Brooklyn chamber said they would launch an intensified campaign soon in an attempt to show Mayor Hylan that the people of the city want subways built.

TO TRY HOFFMAN MAY 19.

Prosecutor Causes Arrest of Witness in Bauer Murder Case.

Harry Hoffman, indicted for first degree murder two weeks ago in connection with the killing of Mrs. Maud A. Bauer on March 25 last, in Chelsea, S. I., will be called for trial on May 19, District Attorney Alfred C. Fach said last evening after a conference with County Judge Tiernan.

The prosecutor also announced that Harry Edkins, 17 years old, of 127 Bennett Avenue, Port Richmond, who was Hoffman's assistant at the Palace Theatre, Port Richmond, had been arrested as a material witness and committed by Judge Tiernan in default of $10,000 bail to the West Fifty-fourth Street Prison in Manhattan.

Edkins was a witness before the Grand Jury which indicted Hoffman. Asked why the boy had been arrested, Mr. Fach intimated that he was not satisfied that young Edkins had told all he knew about the case. He added that it was possible that others would be arrested as material witnesses.

Douglas and Mary Unknown As They Try to See Danish King

COPENHAGEN, May 7.—When Douglas Fairbanks's press agent informed a Danish newspaper today that Fairbanks and Mary Pickford were ready to visit Denmark if the newspaper could arrange an audience for Douglas and Mary with the King, the editor of the paper rang up the King's Chamberlain and asked whether this would be feasible.

"Who are Fairbanks and Pickford?" asked the Chamberlain.

Learning their vocations and nationality, the Chamberlain replied that "American citizens must apply for an audience through the American Minister."

MOGUL TAXI MEN GO BACK TO WORK

UNION ACCUSES POLICEMEN

Strikers Say Their Pickets Were Intimidated by Detectives.

With the ending of the strike of drivers in the employ of the Mogul Checker Cab Corporation, the Brotherhood of Taxi Chauffeurs yesterday directed its attacks on the Yellow Taxi Company, which employs about 5,000 drivers.

The union officials said that they had succeeded in getting 800 drivers of the Yellow Taxi Company to go on strike. This was denied by W. E. McGuirk, President of the company, who declared that the attempt to get his employes to strike had not drawn out a single man.

Harry Lubelsky and Carl Eberhaus, trustees of the Brotherhood of Taxi Chauffeurs, said yesterday that they would call on Police Commissioner Enright to appeal for an investigation of their charges that detectives were intimidating union pickets and ordering them away from garages housing Yellow taxicabs.

Lubelsky declared that early yesterday morning he was assaulted at Broadway and 103d Street by two plain clothes men while an official of the Yellow Taxi Corporation looked on. The men who beat him, he said, threatened to "beat the skulls" of any brotherhood members who attempted to picket at the public hack stands.

Inspector Dominick Henry, in charge of traffic, called the charges of intimidation "ridiculous." "There have never been an order issued never by me nor instructions to the police to take sides in any controversy," he said.

President McGuirk, replying to the union's charges that the Yellow Taxi Company had been allowed special privileges at the Polo Grounds, the Yankee Stadium and at the public hack stand at Seventy-second Street and Fifth Avenue, said: "Any taxi is permitted on the public hack stand at Seventy-second and Fifth Avenue. We have had no concessions from the Park Department.

"We rent a whole field south of the Polo Grounds and keep our cars there. We do the same thing at the Yankee Stadium, so far as the charge that our cars are inspected in our own garages, I can only say that the arrangement was made at the suggestion of the License Bureau, which did not have facilities for inspecting all our taxicabs in one place."

A committee of eight owners and operators of taxicabs whose drivers did not join the strikers called on District Attorney Joab H. Banton yesterday and said that their chauffeurs were being waylaid and assaulted by "guerrillas." Mr. Banton told the operators that violence would not be tolerated and offenders would be prosecuted to the limit.

"The New York highways are going to be safe for taxicabs and anyone who tries to make them otherwise will get what is coming to him," said the District Attorney.

TESTIFY TO PAYING LANGLEY FOR INFLUENCE

Whisky 'Ring' Witnesses Aver He Appealed for Money—One Names Searcy.

COVINGTON, Ky., May 7 (Associated Press).—Tales of conspiracy, coercion and bribery involving the prohibition departments of two States and men prominent in politics in Kentucky were told today in the Federal court here at the trial of Representative John W. Langley of Kentucky and four other defendants charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government through illegal removal of whisky from a warehouse in 1921.

Witnesses for the prosecution related a number of "conferences" held in September, October and November, 1921, at Lexington and at Louisville. These meetings were arranged in advance, the witnesses testified, and were for discussing the transportation of whisky from the Belle of Anderson Distillery of Lawrenceburg, Ky., to Philadelphia and other cities. Langley attended most of the meetings, the testimony showed.

As Government witnesses, confessed members of the "ring," told of whisky operations and implicated the representative, he testified. He received large sums for his influence in obtaining permits, his alleged former associates testified. When he needed money he appealed to men in Washington who worked in conjunction with whisky dealers in this State and the money was given as "loans," not to be repaid if he was successful in a "particular piece of work," according to the testimony.

Politics was a big factor in the arrangement, witnesses testified, it was averred.

The name of Chesley Searcy, Republican National Committeeman of Kentucky, today was brought into the trial by Elias P. Mortimer of New York City, a witness for the prosecution and an associate of Langley in Washington, who testified that Langley told him that "Searcy has promised to permit me to name a Prohibition Director for Kentucky. Searcy, he said, was present at one of several meetings held in Louisville at which liquor permits were discussed.

TRAVELER, 93, LOST.

Arrives From Ohio With $552 "to Marry Rockefeller's Daughter."

An aged man, well dressed and carrying a traveling bag, was found last night, apparently lost, in the Grand Central Terminal. He was unable to give any account of himself, but from letters and cards in his pockets it was learned that he was August Mehlon, 93 years old, of Oak Harbor, Ohio.

There he said that he had come to New York to marry Rockefeller's daughter. When told that this could not be arranged immediately Mehlon said he would wait. In various pockets Mehlon had $554.

GOV. SMITH VETOES PENSION MEASURES

Says Bills Would Give Special Benefits to Individuals and Groups.

APPROVES 12 MEASURES

Holds Forcing Partisan Primaries in Commission Governed Cities Violation of Home Rule.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 7.—Twelve bills were approved and ten were vetoed by Governor Smith today in his final drive to clean up less than 100 of the remaining thirty-day bills before the period expires Saturday night. Nearly 700 bills were dumped into the executive hopper by the Legislature during the closing days of its session. Up to date the Governor has approved 642 of the bills passed.

One of the measures vetoed today was the Reiburn bill, which would have increased the fees of Municipal Court marshals in New York City. The Governor said he believed it had been defectively drawn. Five bills amending the Civil Service law with regard to pensions were disapproved. In a memorandum the Governor said:

"All of these bills passed the Legislature on the last day of the session, and I feel reasonably satisfied they did not receive the consideration to which they were entitled. The employes' retirement system, as well as local systems, to be successful must be built upon a sound financial and actuarial basis. A reading of these bills indicates that they have been prepared in the interest of some individuals or blocs of individuals who by their provisions are to obtain privileges and benefits not permitted to the mass of the membership of all of the pension funds of the State.

"I do not see how the Legislature could have been in possession of the necessary information to give proper consideration to these measures. It was for the prevention of just such legislation that a permanent pension commission was created, having put upon them, among other duties, the study and recommendation to the Legislature of various proposals intending to amend the pension laws. The Permanent Pension Commission of the State is the only body I know of that has made any detailed or exhaustive study of our existing civil pension systems. The commission is opposed to every one of these bills.

"I am convinced that their conclusions regarding them are entitled to my most careful consideration. Especially is that true in view of the fact that while before the Legislature these bills were referred to different committees. Some were considered by the Committee on Affairs of Cities, some by the Civil Service Committee and some by the Judiciary Committee."

Holding that it was a violation of the principle of home rule, the Governor vetoed the Shadino-Jenks bill, which would have provided for partisan primaries in cities with the so-called commission form of government. About a dozen would have been affected. At present they have non-partisan primaries for nominating their city officers.

The Governor said regarding this measure:

"Under the home rule enabling act recently signed by me all of the cities operating under the commission form of government can change the present method of nominating their city officers.

"The bill before me seeks by an amendment to the election law to compel them to change it. It is, therefore, in letter as well as in spirit, a violation of the home rule principle, to which we are so strongly committed by constitutional amendment as well as by legislative enactment. If we desire conscientiously and honestly to carry out our intention to give freedom to all the cities of the State for the control of their local affairs, we must watch carefully every bill proposing to abridge or limit in the slightest degree the right conferred by the enabling act under the constitutional amendment.

"This amendment to the election law has for its effect the nullification of that part of the enabling act which would permit cities now operating under the commission form of government to make what changes they themselves desire with regard to the manner or method of nominating their city officials. We cannot be declaring in one bill for the principle of home rule and then destroying any part of it in another. It is a principle. We cannot begin to compromise with that principle we are inviting its ultimate destruction."

Two bills designed to check "chain" libel suits against newspapers were approved. One provides for the consolidation of actions brought for the same alleged libel. The jury, if it finds in favor of the person bringing the suit, would be authorized to apportion the damages among the defendants. The other would permit a newspaper to prove, for the benefit of the jury, that the person suing had recovered from another defendant for the alleged libel.

The Governor also approved the measure creating the Erie County Park Commission.

CHICAGO DELEGATION AWAITS NEW CARDINAL

Mgr. Mundelein, Due Tomorrow, Will Exchange Ceremonial Calls With Mgr. Hayes.

A ceremony probably unique for New York will take place tomorrow upon the arrival of Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago on the Berengaria. In accordance with ecclesiastical etiquette, he will go directly from the pier at the Battery to the residence of Cardinal Hayes in Madison Avenue for a call, which Cardinal Hayes will repay an hour later by a visit to Cardinal Mundelein's suite in the Vanderbilt Hotel. Cardinal Mundelein will be escorted to Cardinal Hayes's residence by a group from the procession which is to accompany him as far as Thirty-third Street and Fifth Avenue but the rest of the procession will turn east at that point and go to the Vanderbilt.

Cardinal Hayes will hold a reception this afternoon at 2:30 at his residence for 100 priests who came yesterday from Chicago to welcome Cardinal Mundelein, and as many more laymen who will arrive today. The party will march to the reception from the Vanderbilt, starting at 1:30 o'clock. Among the priests is Rev. Joseph McMahon of Minooka, Ill., who is the oldest priest in the Chicago Archdiocese, having been ordained 56 years ago today.

Two boats will go down the bay tomorrow to meet the liner with the visitors from Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 7.—Fear that radicals, inspired by the same animus that caused Jean Crones to put poison in the soup of the guests at the University Club dinner in 1916, when Mgr. Mundelein was welcomed as Archbishop of Chicago, may attempt violence at the Chicago demonstration for the Cardinal at the Auditorium Theatre Monday night, led today to protective measures of "impenetrable thoroughness."

It was said by committee members that J. D. Rooney, of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, had been selected to take charge of all Secret Service and police details connected with the arrival and reception of Cardinal Mundelein.

"The action of the committee in taking every precaution is not an alarmist move," said a Federal agent, "but the wisest sort of a protective measure."

Prof. Smiddy May Be Free State Envoy Here; Objection by England Viewed as Unlikely

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, May 7.—On inquiry at the Free State Ministry for External Affairs today, I was informed that Professor Timothy A. Smiddy of Cork University would almost certainly be appointed Free State Minister to Washington very soon.

The British Government has apparently raised no objection to the appointment, and as soon as the Government of the United States has signified its acceptance of Professor Smiddy as persons grata the legation will be established officially.

For some time past Professor Smiddy has been in the United States, where he represented the Free State's interests unofficially. He was formerly Professor of Economics at Cork University and was Chairman of the recent Fiscal Commission in the Free State. He has had much experience of the United States and is recognized generally as a man of ability and of sound and moderate views on Irish political affairs.

LONDON, May 7.—The consent of Great Britain to the appointment of Professor Timothy A. Smiddy as the first Irish Free State Minister to Washington has not yet been given, according to officials here, and the appointment is still under consideration. At the same time it is admitted that the appointment of Professor Smiddy is probable, since Great Britain, not having raised objections respecting the appointment of a Canadian Minister to Washington, is not likely to object to the appointment of an Irish Minister.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Confirmation of reports from London and Dublin that Professor Timothy A. Smiddy, for two years observer in Washington for the Irish Free State, may soon be designated as Free State Minister to the United States has not reached the State Department or the British Embassy. Professor Smiddy when interviewed today said he had received no official confirmation of the report.

"I hope the glad news is true," he said. "I have been looking for something of the kind for the past three or four months, but I must await official confirmation before I make any statement of consequence."

Pressed for his views on the Irish situation and what it would mean to the Free State to receive diplomatic recognition in the United States, Professor Smiddy said:

"It means that Ireland, fighting for freedom for so many years, will have a representative in Washington who will be empowered to deal directly with the American State Department on all matters affecting the Irish Free State without appealing to the British Ambassador or his representatives.

"Recognition of the Irish Free State means that the country will be placed on a plane equal with that of many other independent Governments not half so prosperous of influential as Ireland, in so far as world affairs are concerned."

NASSAU JURY HEARS FOUR BOND DEALERS

Deputy Attorney General Curious as to "Why All This Juggling of Securities."

NO HELP FROM OFFICIALS

New Indictments Expected Monday Over Long Beach Affairs or $1,000,000 Bridge.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 7.—Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, who has charge of the Extraordinary Grand Jury investigating Nassau County affairs, is expected here Monday.

Rumors indicated the likelihood of further indictments on that day. If they come, it was said, they probably will deal either with the administration of the City of Long Beach or with the $1,000,000 Long Beach bridge contract, which was a county affair.

Four New York City bond dealers testified before the Grand Jury today. They were John Farson, of Farson, Son & Co.; John Watkins, of Watkins & Co.; Harry Benkard, of Benkard & Co., and Colonel Thomas Fairservis, President of the Union National Corporation.

Deputy Attorney General Kenneth M. Spence desired to question the bond dealers about several Long Beach bond issues, particularly one bid in on Dec. 23 last by Harold Andersen, a Lynbrook contractor. Mr. Spence said he had been informed that Andersen took the bonds to the Union National Corporation, which then turned them over to Farson.

"I want to find out why there was all this juggling of these bonds," said Mr. Spence.

Other witnesses today were John R. Speiman, special engineer on the Long Beach bridge contract, and Frederick W. Starcke, Nassau County engineer, who were questioned by Deputy Attorney General Timothy N. Pfeiffer about the Long Beach bridge.

"We are receiving absolutely no cooperation from the public officials, either inside or outside of Nassau County," Mr. Spence said. "All I have talked to have refused to cooperate. They will give no information whatever, unless compelled to by a Grand Jury subpoena."

Henry A. Uterhart, of East Norwich, who has law offices in New York City, has been retained as special trial counsel for Mayor Reynolds of Long Beach. He successfully defended County Supervisor C. Wilbur Doughty and former Sheriff Charles W. Smith, who were freed four years ago of charges of protecting Nassau County gamblers. He was the attorney for William M. Cressy, acquitted of the murder of Edith Lavery, Freeport school teacher; for Bianca de Saulles, acquitted of the murder of her husband, Jack de Saulles; and for Mrs. Florence Carman, acquitted of the murder of Mrs. Lulu Bailey.

HELPS APPEAL OF SLAYER.

Court Permits More of Diamond's Trial Record to Be Included.

Supreme Court Justice Cropsey, in Brooklyn yesterday, authorized inclusion of most of the trial record in the appeal for Morris Diamond, one of the four convicts in the death house at Sing Sing Prison for the murder of two messengers of the West End Bank. In a motion by Diamond's attorney it was sought to include in the appeal from the conviction a copy of the complete examination of talesmen when the jury was selected.

"The affidavit submitted on behalf of the defendant contains many false statements," asserted Justice Cropsey to the attorney, David Malbin. "Fortunately there are few members of the bar who would submit such an affidavit."

Justice Cropsey decided that it was useless to print the several hundred pages that are filled with questions put to jurymen. "The defense did not exhaust its peremptory challenges," he said. "However, every ruling made by the Court, as well as every remark by the Court, may be printed, with such portions of the examination of the respective talesmen as bear upon the remarks or ruling made."

W. S. Hart Wins Point From Wife.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—William S. Hart, the motion picture actor, won a technical victory over his wife today when hearing of her suit was set for April 16, 1925. Mrs. Hart, who is estranged from her husband and is supported by the interest on a trust fund which Hart established for her and Bill Jr., is suing to have one clause in her agreement so construed by the judge that it will permit her to return to work. Hart demurred, saying the whole purpose of the agreement was to keep his wife from doing anything but to care for the child.

REPORT IRISH CRISIS MAY FREE DE VALERA

ULSTER GOVERNOR MAY ACT

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, May 7.—Among the Irish republicans there is a feeling of satisfaction over the boundary issue, brought about by Sir James Craig's refusal to appoint a commissioner, because the Free State Government must now take a definite course to stand square to its pledges. A new atmosphere seems to have been created here. The air is filled with rumors of the release of prisoners, including de Valera and other republicans, and President Cosgrave's absence from the Dail last evening lent color to reports of negotiations regarding the releases. The popular belief is that the boundary crisis may bring liberty to the prisoners, but the most complete reticence is being observed in official circles.

Reports of the pending release of prisoners appear to have had their origin in the fact that a motion in the Dail, calling for debate on the subject this week, has been withdrawn.

While the recognized nationalist or free state press stands firmly for fulfillment of Article XII. of the treaty, the Irish Times continues an attitude of extreme nervousness. It sees disaster in the findings of the proposed commission. It says the stage will be set in such a fashion that not even an archangel, much less some bewildered Englishman, Canadian or Australian, could hope to be able to contrive a new border that both parties would accept. The paper says further, that the publication of any commission's findings "will be a signal for the end of peace and progress in both the Irish States. A cloud of anger will swoop down like Virgil's harpies upon the land; armed forces will be hurried to both sides of the border; both parliaments will be diverted from the normal duties of legislation, and any incident may drag the British army once more into the vortex of Irish affairs.

Among the former Constitutional Nationalist press, the Irish Independent says the British Ministry must now take what action it deems best so carry out its obligations.

"It isn't for us," the paper adds, "to say what those steps should be. We can only repeat that the treaty must be honored without delay. As Mr. O'Higgins remarked last night, we in Ireland regard no article of the pact as more or less binding than another."

Again, while the Irish Times submits that both Irish Governments owe a duty to their citizens to make sacrifices to avert disaster—the Free State, for instance to postpone the final settlement of the boundary question and Ulster to abandon her attitude of refusal to budge an inch—the Freeman's Journal says:

"It isn't irrevelant to warn Sir James Craig's British allies that their policy of non-compliance, were it to succeed, wouldn't merely eliminate a clause, but would mean repudiation of the treaty.

"The Saorstat Eireann (Free State) has no desire to coerce the Northern minority. It insists, however, that the Nationalists arbitrarily included in the six counties shall be free to exercise the option granted them under Article XII."

McADOO TO CONFER HERE.

Will Discuss Outlook and Convention Strategy.

William G. McAdoo, candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, is to come to New York for a series of conferences a week from next Sunday, according to David Lord Ladd Rockwell, manager of the McAdoo campaign, with headquarters in the Hotel Vanderbilt. Mr. McAdoo is to remain in the city two days.

The prospects of Mr McAdoo and especially the outlook in nearby States will be discussed. It is expected, too, that convention strategy will be considered as the Democratic National Convention is little more than a month off. Whether Mr. McAdoo will make a public speech while he is in New York Mr. Rockwell could not say.

Mr. Rockwell declared he was highly gratified with the selection of delegates in Oklahoma and California, adding that both delegations, under the unit rule, would be solidly for McAdoo.

COMMEND BROOKS ON REPLY TO BUTLER

Woman's Missouri Club Members Say Attack on Prohibition Was "Courageously Refuted."

G. O. P. LEADER IS ASSAILED

Anti-Saloon League Aroused by Failure of George K. Morris to Answer Its Questionnaire.

The Missouri Woman's Club, holding its annual meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday, passed a resolution commending Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, President of the University of Missouri for replying to President Nicholas Murray Butler of the University of Missouri, for reply-made his speech against present methods of prohibition enforcement at the dinner of the Missouri Society on April 29.

The resolution read as follows:

"Whereas, on April 29, 1924, at a dinner given by the Missouri Society at the Hotel Plaza, the head of Columbia University, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, voiced his sentiments strongly against the Eighteenth Amendment; and

"Whereas Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, President of the University of Missouri, situated in Columbia, Mo., courageously refuted practically every assertion of Dr. Butler; and

"Whereas many members of the Missouri Woman's Club present deplored the controversy: Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Missouri Woman's Club in session desires to express its great admiration of the attitude taken by Dr. Brooks on his speech before the Missouri Society; and be it further

"Resolved, That this resolution be spread upon the minutes of our organization and that a copy be presented to Dr. Brooks."

The meeting was a small one in point of numbers and there was little discussion of the resolution and no opposition to it. The point was made that Dr. Brooks had not been prepared to make a speech on prohibition, but when he heard Dr. Butler's address, discarded his own prepared remarks on another subject and took issue with the President of Columbia University. The members of the club held he should be thanked publicly for this action.

Conjecture on Miss Butler's Views.

Further activity of women in connection with the controversy started by Dr. Butler's speech was hinted at yesterday by those who discussed its bearings on the political activity of Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, his daughter. Miss Butler is Vice Chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Among some of the women connected with the State Committee and with the party organization in general it was said that Miss Butler stood in an anomalous position owing to the speech of her father. Most of the women of the Republican organization are "dry," it is believed among politicians, and they will be restless, it is declared, until they know whether Dr. Butler's views on the prohibition question are shared by his daughter.

This feeling found expression a few days ago when officials of the New York Women's Committee for Law Enforcement addressed letters to Miss Butler and to Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, Republican National Committeewomen, asking them to define their views on the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act. It is admitted when the letters were sent that Dr. Butler's speech had caused the women to think they had better know the attitude of the Republican women leaders. No letters were sent at that time to Democratic women occupying similar positions in the party councils.

Orville S. Poland, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of New York, yesterday issued a statement commenting on the reply of George K. Morris, Republican State Chairman, to his letter of the day before in which he asked Mr. Morris to state whether President Butler spoke for the Republican organization of the State or whether the organization held similar views.

Mr. Morris's Statement.

In a statement to the press, Mr. Morris had said he "never paid any attention to letters from the Anti-Saloon League" because they misquoted him, and further that Dr. Butler did not speak for the party and he had never discussed with him the subject of his Missouri Society speech.

Mr. Poland's statement was as follows:

"I asked the Chairman of the Republican State Committee a respectful and direct question: 'Does the Republican Party in this State stand with Dr. Butler in his assault upon prohibition, or does it stand against Dr. Butler and in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement?'

"Mr. Morris, as quoted in one of the morning papers, has replied that President Butler did not speak for the Republican Party. It is clear that this reply is not an answer at all to the question. It simply denies any authority on the part of Dr. Butler to speak for the Republican Party, but does not indicate whether or not the views of the party are in accord with those of Dr. Butler.

"It is going to be after the Republican National Convention speaks the State organization will say, 'Me, too.'

"Since when has the Republican leadership of this State surrendered its right to form any judgments of its own on the prohibition question? So far as Mr. Morris is concerned, the organization in this State is apparently waiting for the national convention to do its thinking for it and to outline its policies. It may be that the conclusions of the national organization are more likely to be sane and constructive than those of the State organization, but the people of this State have a right to know something about the views of the State organization on a question which is within the province of the State organization."

CALLS BUTLER LOGIC MUSHY.

Mrs. Catt Asks, "Should We Repeal Law Against Murder Because It Can't Be Enforced?

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 7.—Speaking at a luncheon of the Westchester County League of Women Voters at Briarcliff Lodge today, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt took issue with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, when she called his appeal for the repeal of the dry law because it cannot be enforced, "the mushiest logic she ever heard." Mrs. Catt referred to the league's endorsement of enforcement of all laws and added:

"Recently the Hon. Dr. Butler has seen fit to say that the dry law ought to be repealed because it cannot be enforced."

"I want to say to you who applauded that that is the mushiest logic I ever heard."

Stormy applause followed.

"The Ten Commandments have been laws for thousands of years and murder is still being committed. Should we repeal that law because it cannot be enforced?" Mrs. Catt asked.

She said there never were any drinkers in her family, and she took no interest in prohibition when it was first advocated. Once while in San Francisco she saw a young man whom she knew drunk. He came to her later and apologized and said that he had drunk wine because he had seen her take wine.

"That was forty years ago," said Mrs. Catt, "and I resolved then and there that I would never touch another drop."

Liquor-Running Submarine Periscope Only a Porpoise Fin

Submarines were running liquor from the rum fleet to the South shore of Long Island, according to a report that prohibition headquarters here received a week ago when boatmen thought they sighted a periscope off Jones Inlet. Three agents were sent to look for it in a fast Government boat.

After a week of constant vigil, the agents sighted yesterday morning a suspicious dark object in the water ahead of them off Fire Island. They pursued it and the object disappeared. Momentarily it reappeared and disappeared. Day was breaking when they sighted it once more. In the first faint sunlight they learned that what they had believed to be a periscope was the dorsal fin of a porpoise.

PRETENDED TO BE A DOCTOR

His Numerous Fiancees and Their Parents Were Generous With Dowries.

Six young women whom he had engaged himself to marry glared at Frank Kronengold yesterday as he started back for a cell in the Tombs, after being sentenced to five years in Sing Sing by Judge Mancuso in General Sessions on a grand larceny charge. Kronengold, who is 25 years old and gave his address as 1,635 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, had just pleaded guilty to defrauding the father of a young woman whom he had promised to marry out of $6,500, which was part of a $10,000 dowry that had been arranged after the engagement was announced.

The complainant in this case was Morris Greiff, a retired drug manufacturer, of 1,560 President Street, Brooklyn, who declared that when he gave the young man the money a year ago Kronengold represented himself as a physician and explained that he needed the money to open an office and laboratory. Kronengold's father previously had told him at a social gathering, Greiff said, that his son had been recently graduated from the medical college of the University of Chicago.

Investigation of Kronengold's past revealed that he had never been a student at the university, and at the time that he said he was studying medicine there he was in Elmira Reformatory, to which he had been sentenced in 1923 for defrauding Bessie Bellinsky, his former wife, out of $4,000, which he obtained as a dowry when he represented himself as a physician. She had her marriage to him annulled, having left him after five days of married life when she learned that he was not a doctor.

Called "Despicable Swindler."

Kronengold declared he was a "laboratory scientist," when he was arrested on the grand larceny indictment several months ago. In imposing sentence yesterday Judge Mancuso referred to the fact that the prisoner had been accused of defrauding young women or their parents out of a total of $25,000 received in the form of dowries. Kronengold was such a "despicable swindler," said Judge Mancuso, that he regretted he could not send him to Sing Sing for life.

Assistant District Attorney Kunstler told the Court that investigation had disclosed that Kronengold early in 1923, after becoming engaged to Jennie Weitzman, of 1,428 Wilkins Avenue, the Bronx, got her to give him $4,000. When she learned that he was not a physician she broke the engagement. He also obtained $2,000 from Pauline Brodsky of 80 Chester Avenue, Brooklyn, the prosecutor said, after demanding $4,000 as a dowry to marry her and tried to swindle Regina Schwartz, a dentist, of 2,114 Mermaid Avenue, Brooklyn, out of $135, but she frightened him into returning the money by threatening to have him arrested.

Mr. Kunstler said that in order to impress Mr. Greiff, and his nineteen-year-old daughter, Frances, Kronengold used part of the Greiff money in fitting up a laboratory at Lexington Avenue and Sixty-third Street, Manhattan, and an elaborate office at 321 Seventy-ninth Street, Brooklyn, placing a sign in front of each place reading "doctor of neuropathy."

Kronengold will be taken to Sing Sing this morning.

DRY AGENTS MAKE RAID ON COLOMBIAN LINER

Seize Liquors Valued at $5,000 on the Martinique and Arrest Five Men.

Agents of the special service squad of the Port Surveyor's department made two visits to the steamship Martinique of the Colombian Line early yesterday, seizing $5,000 worth of liquor and taking five prisoners. They boarded the ship, which was docked at Pier 8 in the East River, shortly after midnight and seized twenty bottles of whisky. On this visit they made no arrests. They returned an hour later, and this time, concealed in a secret compartment in the forward part of the boat, they say they found cordials and more liquor.

The arrested Carl Lindstrom, Manuel Gonzales, Manuel Ingleisos and Howard Crites, members of the crew. When Agent E. J. Starace attempted to search Herman Avery of 417 West Twenty-second Street, Avery is alleged to have resisted him, and Starace placed him under arrest with the members of the crew. He was visiting the ship at the time. All five were taken before Edward Barnes, Assistant Solicitor of the Legal Division of the Customs Service.

Later six agents of the customs marine patrol in two skiffs hailed the K-13, 335, a motor boat, in Gravesend Bay, arrested four men whom they found on board and seized one hundred cases of liquor. The men arrested gave their names as Dewey Robison, John Farley, John Sullivan and Frank Marino.

A distilling plant, the output of which had been carted through a thirty-five foot tunnel to a garage, was seized when prohibition agents and policemen raided a house at 2,013 Seventy-sixth Street, Brooklyn. Four men were in the premises when the raiding party entered, and one was said to have jumped out of the first floor window and escaped.

Testimony concerning bootlegging practices alleged to have been carried on by members of the crew of the steamship Orduna of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company was given yesterday in the libel action against the liner before Federal Judge A. N. Hand by Edward Collins, one time assistant steward on the vessel.

Collins, according to his story, fell out with some of his fellow-bootleggers on the vessel because they offered him a smaller share of the profits than he thought he should have had. When he failed to obtain a satisfactory settlement of the matter he told the American Consul at Southampton that the Orduna was bringing liquor to this port for sale. Word was sent here and Major John Holley Clark Jr., the Assistant United States Attorney in charge of prosecution of violations of the prohibition law, went for Collins to come here and testify.

The witness said that he had been employed on the Orduna from November, 1922, to February, 1923, as assistant steward and had made two trips. On the first trip he noticed unusual activity on board the vessel after she had docked here. Men in strange garb appeared from the stern and marched along in such numbers as to "clog the deck." These men, said Collins, were loose leather jackets with many pockets, and over these jackets they wore loose overcoats. These men, said the witness, would visit the storeroom, and when they came out they were very busy and walked carefully as if they were afraid of spilling something. Once a bottle fell out of a bootlegger's pocket and broke as it hit the deck. The smell indicated that it contained whisky, Collins said.

The witness said the storekeeper told him that he would get 5 per cent. of the profits of the traffic, and when he accepted the offer he was permitted to become more famil

FINANCIAL MARKETS

On yesterday's stock market the now familiar uncertainty of movement again prevailed. Whereas prices the day before hade declined in the early trading and advanced later, they began by rising yesterday and ended with moderate reaction. On the whole the trend was upward, but with no evidence of a general tendency and with transactions again exceptionally light.

The foreign exchange market presented what seemed to be even more positive evidence of uncertain or conflicting purpose. Without any very great activity, the franc lost all of Tuesday's advance and more; it declined nearly a third of a cent for the day. It was not easy to trace the source of this abrupt reaction, except for the fact that the greater part of the day's decline occurred on Wall Street after the European markets had closed. The reaction brought to the market, however, a reminder of the fact that the French bank's restraining influence has been applied on each occasion when the price had gone above 6½ cents.

Sterling and most of the other exchanges moved very little, though the rate on Brussels fell with the rate on Paris. A rather extraordinary weekly statement of the German Reichsbank reported addition to its paper circulation of 102 quintillion marks, or no less than 15 per cent. But this seemed to attract no more attention than an unusually large increase in coinage of copper cents at the American mint. The exceedingly "nominal" price of the German mark on foreign exchange remained exactly where it was before.

The day's most interesting sidelight on the industrial situation was the report of last month's iron production in the United States. This statement shows the first decrease of the present year; a decrease which was less than the reduction of August, September or November last year, but which was proceeding more rapidly at the end of the month than at its beginning. Whereas on April 1 the active daily capacity was greater by 380 tons than the average daily production of March, the May 1 capacity is reported as 11,416 tons short of the April average. This evidently means that this year's highest rate of output was reached last month, but that the decrease has been both sudden and rapid. The Iron Age's estimate is that the United States Steel Corporation is now working at 73 per cent. of capacity as against 95 a month or so ago, and the independent mills at 65 to 70 against 90.

Substantial as this reduction in last month's output is shown to have been, it is possible to draw too broad inferences from it. The reduction as compared with March still leaves the April output larger than that of any other month since last August and the present active capacity as large as it was in January. It is possible, therefore, to consider the pending curtailment as a consequence less of diminishing consumption than of recent overproduction. This peculiar phase of the present industrial situation appears at almost every turn, displaying itself in narrowing stocks of merchandise in the merchants' hands while the ultimate consumer goes on buying.

In the case of steel, the Iron Age points out that with some companies business is barely half of current shipments; yet its conclusion is that actual consumption is greater than actual new orders placed, and that therefore the orders must eventually increase. In its testimony to distribution of merchandise, yesterday's railway car loading figures again bore out this inference. Loadings, as reported for the last week in April, were once more far below those of the corresponding week in 1923, yet they were nearly 10 per cent. above the largest figure ever previously reported for the week. This means, first, that comparison with a year ago, when the sudden and impetuous "trade boom" was at its climax, is apt to be misleading; second, that we are not yet confronted with any disturbing shrinkage of consumption.

MONEY.

Wednesday, May 7, 1924.

Stock Exchange call money was again maintained at 3½ per cent. throughout session being unusually quiet, with turnover of nominal proportions. Time money was also dull, there being little bidding for new money, most brokers, in fact, paying off loans as due and taking advantage of the ease in demand funds for accommodation. Brokers' report of quotations included 4 per cent. bid for two months, 4¼ for three-four months, and 4¼@4½ for five-six months' maturities, with actual business confined to a few loans for four months at 4¼. Business money markets were quiet and without change.

STEEL OUTPUT LOW; MAKERS HOPEFUL

Very little improvement is noted in the ratio of forward business in the iron and steel trade, according to reports of journals of the trade, issued today. The ratio of production continues to decline.

The Iron Trade Review says:

"So swift and extensive has been the recent curtailment of iron and steel production that indications now point to a better balanced condition in the market. Price variations have narrowed, and in several quarters sentiment is beginning to brighten again after the recent period of distrust. New buying is not improved and remains comparatively light. Yet consumption appears to be keeping very comfortable proportions, and producers continue to count upon strong basic conditions to restore activity in due season.

"Not since the severe depression of 1921 have so many blast furnaces gone out of production in so short a period as during April. In that month the total net loss was thirty-five stacks. Since May 1 the number of furnaces blown out has further increased, and other furnaces and steel works' suspensions are about to follow.

"Pig iron production in April did not fall as far as the load of active furnaces indicates, since many of these changes came the latter part of the month. The total was 3,226,401 tons, compared with 3,405,389 tons in March. Average daily output fell from 111,737 tons to 107,546, or 3.8 per cent."

The Iron Age thus summarizes the market:

"The Steel Corporation has recently reduced its steel output relatively more than its pig iron output, as its steel production is now at 73 per cent. of capacity, whereas the industry as a whole is at 65 to 70 per cent.

"With all steel companies new business is less than current shipments, in some cases as much as 50 per cent. less. But as consumption is plainly of much greater volume than are new orders, the steel companies have a basis for the expectation that the latter will increase. In fact, some producers have had better bookings in the past week than in the last week of April."

SHARP CURTAILMENT IN APRIL IRON PRODUCTION

Especially Rapid at End of Month —First Monthly Reduction Since December.

Pig iron production in the United States during April, figures of which were published yesterday, shows decrease of 112,658 tons, as compared with March, or a reduction of 4,028 tons per day. This is the first decrease of any month since last December. The decrease in daily output during the month was 3½ per cent.; the April production was 1.8% per cent. less than the highest monthly average of 1923, in May, and 8% per cent. lower than the April output of last year.

The Iron Age states that the figures for the month do not fully measure the curtailment of production, since many of the furnaces blowing out did so in the last ten days of the month. The net loss in active blast furnaces during April was forty, comparing with a loss of only twenty-eight in the unfavorable month of August, 1923, under the combined influences of the coal and railroad strikes.

On May 1 the 230 active furnaces represented a capacity of 96,365 tons per day, as against 112,240 tons per day for the 270 furnaces active on April 1.

The May, 1923, production was the largest on record. As against that month's daily average of 124,784 tons, the highest in war-time was 113,945, in September, 1918. The smallest since the war was 27,889 tons in July, 1921, which was the lowest since December, 1903.

Price of Lead Again Reduced.

The American Smelting & Refining Company announced yesterday a reduction of ¼ cent a pound in the price of lead to 7¼ cents, the new price being the lowest thus far this year.

The Lure of "Easy Money"

FOR the vast majority of people, getting rich quickly is impossible. But in spite of this fact almost everyone seems to cherish the secret hope of some day making a fortune through luck rather than hard work.

With chances overwhelmingly against them, people persist in this hope and in their costly ventures. Desire for easy money is strong, and man's inborn optimism feeds on stories of success, not of failure. Sunday supplements show pictures of the half dozen who become wealthy overnight in speculative enterprises; they do not mention the thousands whose worry and privation bring them nothing but bitter disappointment.

"But," asks the average man, "How can I get anywhere without taking chances? Is there any sure way to financial success?" Yes, there is,—through careful investment.

There is nothing spectacular about safe investment, but success is certain, provided the investor is persistent enough to carry out his plans over a reasonable length of time. It is sure because his funds are safeguarded at every turn; it is sure because safe investments can be depended upon to earn money every hour and every month and every year.

People who think sound investment too slow a process for them do not understand how it works. The power of money to multiply itself, when safely invested over a term of years, is one of the most surprising facts in the science of economics.

The magic of compound interest turns hundreds of dollars into thousands with amazing swiftness and without effort on the owner's part. This is really the "easy money" after all, and the only easy money it is possible for every one to share.

FAVORS LOWER TAX ON STOCK SALES

WAR LEVY NEVER LIFTED

In Annual Report to Exchange Governors He Praises Martin Act—Corporation Statements Urged.

Seymour L. Cromwell, President of the New York Stock Exchange, who will retire this month after having served three terms, submitted to the Board of Governors yesterday his report for the year ended May 1, 1924. He discusses the economic situation and its effect upon the securities markets of the last year, the efforts of the Exchange to safeguard the public against fraudulent securities and many other topics relating to securities.

Regarding taxes upon stock transactions, Mr. Cromwell says:

"It is unfortunate that the burden of special taxation imposed upon the stock market during the war has not yet been lifted, and that the market's machinery must function under conditions much less favorable than those prevailing before 1914. The present double tax on sales or transfers of shares, imposed by both State and Federal Governments, interferes with the orderly marketing of shares through the New York Stock Exchange and as a result with the free flow of investment capital into American enterprises. The existing rates of taxation, taken together, have been set considerably beyond the point of 'diminishing returns' and not only weaken the market but yield less public revenue than would be provided by a lower and better proportioned rate.

"Stock transfer taxes do not, in fact, constitute an impost upon 'Wall Street;' like most sales taxes, they are in the last analysis levied upon the millions of purchasers and investors all over the country. A more equitable tax rate on the sale of shares must be established in order that the stock market may afford the investing public the readiest facilities for purchase and sale and the closest prices and smallest intermediary fluctuations."

The Martin Act.

Regarding security frauds, the report says:

"After extensive study and investigation of the effectiveness of the 'blue sky laws' in other States, the Stock Exchange has not been favorably impressed with the practical value or usefulness of such laws; it is convinced that the punitive rather than the preventive type of legislation with bring the desired results. It has consequently found itself in hearty agreement with the opinion of the eminent committee appointed by Governor Smith to investigate the question, that what was mainly needed was a flexible, virile, fraud-hunting State machinery driven not by statute, but by human intelligence and human activity.'

"In line with this attitude, the Stock Exchange from the first endorsed the so-called 'Martin act,' which gives the Attorney General of New York State power to halt by injunction the operations of suspicious individuals and concerns in the security business."

Regarding security issues in England the report says:

"The protection afforded British investors by the British Companies' act is based upon compulsory publicity and definite placing of responsibility. The act requires issuers or vendors of securities to place on file in a public office detailed information as to the charter, capitalization, management, promotion, operation and financial condition of the company prior to the offer of its securities to the public; promoters and organizers are furthermore made civilly and criminally responsible for the truthfulness of the statements filed. Since the filing of this information operates automatically as a permit of issue, the State is thus relieved from the burden of judgment as to the merits of the securities and from the consequent danger of political manipulation, while at the same time the public is furnished with the essential facts necessary for such judgment."

Corporation Statements.

Mr. Cromwell urges the necessity of corporations issuing statements periodically for the information of investors and he extols the United States Steel Corporation for its frankness with stockholders. He points out that 660 of the 957 companies with shares listed on the Stock Exchange publish statements periodically, 242 publishing quarterly reports, 79 publishing semi-annual reports and 339 publishing annual reports. The 297 companies not issuing reports listed their securities prior to the time the Exchange adopted a ruling requiring the publication of such statements.

Mr. Cromwell, however, points out that some companies object to the publication of such statements on the ground that their business is seasonal and that quarterly statements would be misleading; some object on the ground that their properties are located in different parts of the world and compilation of such information every few months would be extremely difficult; others object on the ground that publication of the figures would give valuable information to competitors who do not supply such information. In connection with this, Mr. Cromwell says:

"Personally, I have little sympathy with the objections advanced against the publication of frequent company earning statements. The railroad companies have benefited themselves as well as the public by complying with the demands of the Government for more adequate and more frequent reports. In the industrial field, the frankness with which the officials of the United States Steel Corporation have met the public has likewise been a most important factor in its prosperity. If one company in a stated business can keep its stockholders satisfactorily informed, it would seem that other companies could and should be able to do likewise. In my opinion, there are many companies now furnishing only annual earning statements which should make these reports quarterly, or at least semi-annually."

FOUR WARSAW BANKS FAIL.

Caught by French Franc's Rise—Textile Houses Hard Hit.

WARSAW, May 7.—Four Warsaw banks suspended payments today, their bankruptcy being caused by speculation, mostly on the fall of the French franc. The present improvement in Poland's financial situation is expected to be followed by the failure of numerous banks, many of which profited through speculation during the financial chaos of the last two years. Failure of a number of Viennese banks is also expected to affect Polish houses connected with them.

Several textile houses at Lodz have failed, partly because of the high taxation and the high cost of credit, which has reached 10 per cent. monthly, but largely because of speculation, as the dealers speculating on the fall of the mark closed their transactions for the Spring calculating on a dollar being worth 30,000,000 marks while beginning with January the dollar has remained steadily under 10,000,000 marks.

Sinclair Corporation Denies Report.

In connection with the decline in the stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, reports that the company was contemplating new financing were circulated in the financial district yesterday. At the offices of the company the report was officially denied.

Rickenbacker Stock on Curb.

Trading in the capital stock of the Rickenbacker Motors Company was begun on the New York Curb Market yesterday. The first transaction was for 100 shares at $7 a share.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

London Selling and Liquidation by Tuesday's Purchasers Brings Reaction in Francs.

French and Belgian francs were violently reactionary yesterday, a movement which was in sharp contrast with that of Tuesday when both enjoyed substantial advances. The decline not only cancelled all of that gain, but in the case of Paris checks sent the rate down to 6.34½ cents, unequaled since April 25, and in Belgian to 5.15½ cents, last touched on April 12. Heavy foreign selling, together with liquidation by those overenthusiastic operators who went beyond the limit, reported to have been 6.58 cents, at which the syndicate ceased purchasing on Tuesday, accounted for the break. At the day's low and final, Paris showed a decline of 28 points, and Brussels approximately 20 points.

London and the Continentals were sympathetically affected by the break in the franc, sterling selling down ¾ cent, to $4.37⅞, with a fractional recovery from this point at the close; Italian sagged 3 points to 4.47⅝ cents; Holland yielded 4 points to 37.43 cents, with the Spanish and Scandinavian bills also heavy. In the Far Easterns, both India and Japanese currencies were slightly higher, but the Chinese were dull, while the South Americans generally held around prevailing levels.

The first issue to be brought out by the new banking connection of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company is scheduled for the last of this week or early next week. Dillon, Read & Co. and Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. are preparing for the offering of $7,000,000 of Florida Western & Northern Railroad Company first mortgage sinking fund 7 per cent. gold bonds. This company will be leased to the Seaboard Air Line at an annual rental of $800,000 and the bonds will carry title to the common stock of the Florida Land and Development Company, which stock will be deposited with a trustee in the ratio of ten shares for every $1,000 bond. A sinking fund of $210,000 will be devoted to the purchase or redemption of bonds beginning May 15, 1926.

The Florida Western & Northern Railroad will form an extension of the main line of the Seaboard Air Line from Coleman, Fla., south to West Palm Beach.

S. Davies Warfield, President of the Seaboard Air Line, said yesterday that the policy of the company would be changed in no way by reason of the change in its banking affiliation. "For several months I have been in negotiation with Messrs. Dillon, Read & Co. in respect to the sale of certain railroad securities," he said. "Neither these negotiations nor the effect thereof in any manner changes either the management, any of the officials or the policy of the Seaboard Air Line. Nor do they mean that there is any change in the control of this property. Those who assumed the active management at the time of the purchase of large blocks of Seaboard stocks some years ago continue in their relative relations to the property."

Contemplated financing for the Government of Peru will be for the purpose of improving sanitation works, it was stated yesterday. The prospective loan will be for $6,000,000 and an early offering is expected. White, Weld & Co. and Blyth, Witter & Co. are the bankers interested in the financing program.

A. B. Leach & Co., Inc., as syndicate managers, announced the oversubscription of the offering of $3,000,000 Public Service Company of Colorado 6 per cent. gold notes due on April 30, 1925.

Pennsylvania R. R. Improvements.

Improvements by the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Pittsburgh district will cost more than $8,000,000 this year. These do not include the program to relieve the Pittsburgh gateway and facilitate the handling of freight at that point.

CAR LOADINGS SHOW GAIN.

1,969 More Than Last Week, but 83,686 Fewer Than in Same Week of 1923.

Car loadings for the week ended April 26, with a total of 878,892 cars, were 83,686 fewer than for the same week last year. This is the sixth consecutive week in which there was a decline in the number of cars loaded compared with the corresponding weeks of last year.

Compared with the previous week, however, the loadings advanced 1,969 cars, and were 127,781 cars more than for the corresponding week in 1922.

Loadings of merchandise and less than car load lot freight, often considered an indicator of general business, were 6,414 above the same week of last year with a total of 247,952 cars. Miscellaneous freight loadings amounted to 328,209 cars, a decrease of 27,751 cars compared with the corresponding week of 1923.

The Northwestern and the Southwestern districts were the only two parts of the country to report increases over the corresponding period of last year. All districts except the Pocahontas loaded more traffic than in the same week of 1922.

KNOW NOTHING OF RAIL DEAL

Pere Marquette Officials Deny Ford Seeks Control.

If Henry Ford is endeavoring to purchase control of the Père Marquette Railroad Company, the present stockholders and officers of that company know nothing about it, according to Frank H. Alfred, President, in an interview yesterday. Mr. Ford had stated last week that he was not seeking control of any additional railroad properties, but the rumor persisted.

Recent buying of Père Marquette stock, Mr. Alfred said, was as much a mystery to him as to any one else. It was explained that no dividend action of any kind would be taken until the first Wednesday in June.

Philippine Railway Deficit Grows.

The annual report of the Philippine Railway Company shows a deficit of $216,245 for 1923, against $177,445 in 1922. The gross business was $618,672, against $645,232, but the expenses increased so that the net after taxes was only $126,022 in 1923, compared with $168,755 in 1922. Total assets of the company are $17,146,627, current assets $283,077 and current liabilities $78,181.

STEEL INGOT PRODUCTION.

Total for April Was the Lowest Since Last December.

The American Iron and Steel Institute made public yesterday figures covering the production of steel ingots in the United States in April. The Institute estimates the country's production at 3,386,356 tons, the smallest total reported since last December, when production reached low ebb following the decline which set in a year ago. Last month's production compares with an output of 4,197,942 tons reported in March, 2,863,266 tons reported last December and with 4,216,355 tons reported in May, 1923.

The daily average production for the twenty-six working days of April was 130,241 tons, against 161,075 tons for the same number of working days in March, and with 156,549 tons in the twenty-five working days of April, 1923.

Reduces Number of Directors.

The directorate of the Atlantic Fruit & Sugar Co. was reduced yesterday from fifteen to eight members. The new board is to be composed of the members of the former executive committee. President Thomas O. Mueller said that no report for the year would be issued until application to list securities of the company on the New York Stock Exchange had been made.

PIPE LINE STEEL ORDERED.

Standard of Louisiana Makes 28,000-Ton Purchase.

The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, has placed an order with the National Tube Company, a Steel Corporation subsidiary, for 28,000 tons of pipe with which to lay a pipe line from Louisiana to the Texas oil fields. The company also is expected to buy 25,000 tons of steel to construct a tank farm to store the oil delivered through the pipe line. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is reported to be in the market for 5,000 new freight cars. Car builders have orders on their books for approximately 80,000 cars, which will call for about 1,500,000 tons of steel. The Denver & Rio Grande Western is reported to have placed an order for 10,000 tons of rails with the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company.

New Investment Company Formed.

A new investment corporation, to be known as Henry D. Lindsley, Inc., will open for business in a few days, at 5 Nassau Street. It will be headed by Mr. Lindsley, who formerly was a partner of Potter & Co. J. H. Markin, who also was connected with Potter & Co., will be the secretary and treasurer of the new corporation.

BANK COMBINATIONS FAVORED BY SCHIFF

Would Consolidate Them Into Stronger Chains, He Says in Omaha Speech.

TALKS ON FARM DEPRESSION

Blames Unsound Banking and Reckless Political Exploitation for Present Conditions.

Bankers and politicians were blamed for depression in the agricultural industry prevailing today in certain parts of the United States by Mortimer L. Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., in a speech last night before a group of bankers and business men in Omaha. A copy of his prepared address was given out yesterday.

"The farming industry on the whole is in good shape; it is only in special crops, such as wheat, which, after all, is only about 8 per cent. of our agricultural products, or live stock, and certain one-crop localities such as the Northwest, where there is serious trouble," said Mr. Schiff. This, he suggests, is not far different from other industries, and asked if it were not reasonable to attribute part of the difficulty "to the lack of recognition that farming is nowadays a specialized business, which, like manufacture, requires scientific knowledge and financial judgment as well as a reasonable amount of capital."

"It looks to me as if two of the important contributory causes to such farming troubles as exist are unsound banking and reckless political exploitation," he said. "Credit has been made too easy and expansion too greatly encouraged by both private and public agencies. And what is the remedy? Getting back to sound economics. Artificial measures may be palliative, but they will not cure."

Mr. Schiff described the McNary-Haugen bill as vicious in principle and bound to be disastrous.

Mr. Schiff, whose firm has been one of the most important financing agencies for the development of American railroads, said that railroads today are facing a new and serious problem in motor competition. He declared that, "In beginning, one thing may safely be set down as the starting point—motor transportation has come to stay. It must henceforth be considered as part of the transportation machinery as a whole."

Mr. Schiff said he favored consolidation of railroad lines into a few large systems, but that any forced or artificial combination of roads would be a failure.

The banking situation, he said, is good. He expressed the belief that America has too many banks, and indicated that he favored the consolidation of banks into stronger chains. Branch banking, while defended, would be accomplished better, he believed, through taking "over existing smaller banks in the locality to be served and to retain, if possible, the officers who know and are in touch with that locality."

Recently, he continued, methods have been employed by banks to get new business through offering "free" services. These services, he said, often depart from sound traditions and sound banking practice.

IRON STRIKERS WIN RISE FROM ONE FIRM

Thompson Starrett Co. Agrees to $1.50 a Day Increase—Men Return to Work Today.

The Thompson-Starrett Company yesterday agreed to pay the striking iron workers $12 a day and the mechanics who quit that company on May 1 for a wage increase of $1.50 a day, will return to work today.

P. J. Morrin, President of the International Association of Iron and Structural Steel Workers, said last night that he was pleased with the situation and asserted that approximately 65 per cent. of the 7,800 strikers in New York and northern New Jersey had returned to work at $12 a day.

The Thompson-Starrett Company decided to pay the higher scale because of the insistance of the owners of a $10,000,000 apartment house being erected at 277 Par kAvenue that the work must go ahead. The 500 bricklayers on the building which covers a square block were due to be laid off today because of the strike. When the iron workers quit on May 1 they had only ten days' work before them on the building.

Another Thompson-Starrett building affected by the strike is the new Equitable Building, at Thirty-third Street and Seventh Avenue. There is sufficient iron work on this structure to keep the mechanics busy three weeks.

Among other concerns affected by the strike are the George A. Fuller Company, Milliken Brothers, Henry Steers Company, Turner Construction Company, Northfield Construction Company and Lynch Construction Company.

Most of the strikers work for members of the Iron League. The union claims a membership of 3,500 in New York and 5,000 in Northern New Jersey and asserts that 90 per cent. of the New Jersey strikers have returned to work at $12 a day. Employers say these figures are much exaggerated.

Secretary Robert Thomas of the Iron League, said his organization, which has been conducted on the open shop plan since 1905, would not recognize the union and that an appreciable number of the strikers had returned to work for the old scale. He could not give any figures.

A mass meeting of iron workers will be held at 2 P. M. Saturday afternoon at Cooper Union and reports will be made of the progress of the strike.

St. Louis Intervenes in Merger.

The Missouri Public Service Commission has granted to the City of St. Louis the right to intervene in the application filed with the commission last week by the Laclede Gas Light and Electric Company to purchase the stock of the Laclede Gas Light Company. The action is a sequel to the purchase by outside interests of the control of the Laclede Gas Light Company and is construed as a move to forestall any possible increase in rates as a result of the transfer of the stock.

UNPLEASANT NEWS FOR CLIENT No. 287

WHEN one prominent manufacturer subscribed to our Investors Consulting Service a few years ago, several of his investments were speculative to the point of a sheer gamble. To his surprise, we found one of his bonds in permanent default.

Acting on our advice, he has gradually "cleaned house." Today he owns $150,000 worth of sound securities, which, if desired, could be turned into $150,000 cash. He enjoys an average of 5½% interest, and tells us that he sleeps nights.

Our Investors Consulting Service is designed to put business men's investment funds on a sound basis—and keep them there. The fee is moderate. Full particulars of this unusual service on request.

The Two Main Essentials of Successful Investing

The first essential is, of course, to select securities that meet your own exact needs, and to know that their future safety has been determined beyond all possibility of doubt.

But regardless of how carefully your securities were chosen in the first place, the problem of successful investing is only partly solved unless you are kept correctly informed on your holdings.

For instance, it is important, from the standpoint of profit, to have timely notice of called bonds, prompt collection of coupon payments, periodical analyses of security holdings, income tax counsel and other data.

On such matters, the services of a capable, experienced investment house prevent many losses that might result from the investor's lack of information.

The ability of this House to cooperate with investors is indicated by a letter recently received from a business man who has invested with us for eleven years—

"I wish to express appreciation for the promptness, efficiency and reliability of your service. I am solicited by a number of bond houses, and friends in the bond business. However, I am so thoroughly pleased with your methods that I do not intend to invest through any firm but your own."

The Three Chief Investment Elements In One Bond

INVESTORS know that, normally, the price of a bond is a measure of its safety, and the cost of marketability is recorded in the yield. The greater the safety, the higher the price; the broader the demand, the lower the yield.

But in the Secured Serial 6% Gold Bonds of this investment Company the exceptional is found—

Powerful safeguards in the form of liquid assets with a maintained market value substantially greater than the par value of all Bonds outstanding;

The protective assets of these Bonds consist of more than 500 separate securities of nearly every industry and 24 countries.

Present Price: Bid 99—Offered 100 and Interest.

CANADIAN PACIFIC EARNINGS GAINED

E. W. Beatty, Elected Chairman, In Annual Report Tells of Property Improvement.

TRAFFIC LULL IN APRIL

Prospects for Steamship Business in Coming Year on Both Atlantic and Pacific Good.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, May 7.—The directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway today elected as Chairman of the Board, E. W. Beatty, President of the company. In his annual report, Mr. Beatty said:

"The operations of the company were conducted during the year in a satisfactory manner and with satisfactory results. A fairly substantial increase in gross earnings resulted in a moderate increase in net earnings due to the fact that in view of the highly competitive conditions now existing in Canada your directors did not consider it desirable that your property should be permitted to deteriorate physically in the slightest degree. Therefore, the property has never been in so excellent a condition as it is now.

"The tonnage moved during the past year amounted to 30,852,894, an increase over the previous year of 3,108,408., and over 1921 of 7,142,388. The increase was principally accounted for by a heavier movement of grain and lumber, manufactured articles and general merchandise, the largest individual item of increase being that of grain products.

"Due to the great prosperity which existed during the year in the United States there was an increase in international tonnage, but this year the company did not participate in it to the same extent as other companies by reason of its not enjoying the advantage of ownership of feeding lines in the eastern and central parts of that country.

"For the first three months of the present year traffic has shown satisfactory increases, but some diminution took place during April. Operating conditions during the Winter months were less difficult than during the previous Winter, and this, coupled with heavier movement of traffic, has produced an increase in net earnings for the first quarter of 1924 of $1,253,814."

Regarding the company's steamship revenues, the President said in part:

"Your business on the North Atlantic route was naturally affected by the immigration restrictions of the United States, and that on the Pacific by the resultant dislocation due to the disastrous earthquake in Japan. The prospects for considerable business on both oceans during the coming year are, on the whole, good."

Regarding rail traffic at the present, Mr. Beatty said there seemed to be a distinct lull in both export and domestic shipments. This was due in part, he said, to unsettled conditions in industrial districts and to the fact that purchasers were buying cautiously.

NEW CUTS IN SUGAR PRICES.

Wholesale Quotations Down to Lowest Level Since February, 1923.

Local refiners announced reductions ranging from 10 to 20 points in the wholesale price of granulated sugar yesterday, bringing it to the lowest level since February, 1923. Yesterday's reductions followed ones of from 10 to 40 points earlier in the week.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company and A. B. Atkins & Co. are quoting 7.40 cents a pound and Arbuckle Bros. 7.45 cents. The American Sugar Refining Company, Mowell Sugar Company, Warner Sugar Company, McCahn Sugar Company of Philadelphia and Revere Sugar Company of Boston, all quote 7.50 cents.

The reductions followed an easier tone to the raw sugar market which dropped further yesterday on reports from Cuba that the seventy mills which have finished grinding turned out 8,057,197 bags of sugar this year, an increase of 199,197 bags over Himley's estimate. One hundred and ten centrals are still grinding. The Cuban raw sugar market was quoted at 4@4 1-16 cents a pound yesterday, which was a fraction below Tuesday's prices. The American Sugar Company is credited with having purchased 5,000 bags of Cuban raws yesterday at 4 cents a pound, c. i. f., a drop of one-sixteenth of a cent.

DURANT PLANS STOCK DEAL.

Considers Offering Participating Units in Foundry Company Shares.

W. C. Durant, head of the Durant Motors organization, is contemplating offering participating units in United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Company stock, according to reports in the financial district.

It was learned yesterday that Mr. Durant had the matter under advisement, but no official information was obtainable. Mr. Durant was out of the city, but was expected to return today. Credence was placed in the report because Mr. Durant was said to have been a heavy buyer of the stock, and also because he had sold participating units in the stock of the Fisher Body Corporation.

According to the report each unit will represent one-fifth of a share of the common stock of the Foundry Company. They are to be sold at $18 each.

Chain Stores Increase Sales.

S. H. Kress & Co., for April report gross sales of $3,012,854, against $2,495,961 a year ago. Gross sales for four months of 1924 are $10,240,949, against $9,214,342.

G. R. Kinney Co., Inc., reports gross sales of $1,860,682 in April, against $1,093,444. For four months sales were $4,781,881, against $3,775,715.

A CORN EXCHANGE BANK BRANCH NEAR YOUR HOME AND ANOTHER NEAR YOUR BUSINESS

BUSINESS AND HOUSEHOLD BANKING COMBINED

THE CORN EXCHANGE BANK'S branches throughout the Greater City simplify the problem of household banking just as they reduce the details of business banking for many thousands of firms and corporations.

They find it much easier to keep records of family expenses when bills are paid by check; they avoid the worry which accompanies the accumulation of cash in the house or apartment.

The business and household banking of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Long Island families may be combined in the Corn Exchange Bank's system which is so designed that

No matter where you live and work a Corn Exchange Bank branch is near your home and another is close by your office.

The way you may use this double service can be described best by illustration:

Suppose you live in Flushing and your place of business is on Murray Street, Manhattan. You may have your business account with the Washington branch of the Corn Exchange Bank. Your wife may have her personal checking account with the Corn Exchange Bank's branch in Flushing. While they are individual accounts, maintained for separate purposes, they may be used as a single account in making deposits.

You may deposit funds in the branch, at Broadway and Murray Street, and direct that the money be credited to the household account in the branch at Flushing.

At any time you may order the transfer of funds from your business account to your wife's account.

No charge is involved. Joint deposit arrangements may be made in a few minutes at the head office, William and Beaver Streets, Manhattan, or at any of the branches.

This is one of many Corn Exchange Bank services evolved through close study of banking needs in New York and made possible by a system of branches that covers the entire five boroughs of New York City.

SMITH BUSY AT WORK HEARTENS HUNGARY

FINANCE MINISTER HOPEFUL

He Says Currency Will Be Automatically Stabilized When Loan Is Received.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, May 7.—There are many signs that the arrival of the American Commissioner General in Hungary has given a fresh impetus to the reconstruction schemes, the execution of which has now been begun in earnest. The fact that Mr. Smith was hard at work at his desk a few hours after his arrival in Budapest and is now to be found every morning at 9 at the Commissioner-General's offices in the Finance Ministry, has been an inspiring example in a country where time is not money. Mr. Smith has, moreover, stated that he wishes to devote his time to work and will go little into society.

The first steps toward reconstruction have been taken an dthe Commissioner-General has had long conferences with the Premier and the Ministers with a view to deciding on the methods of carrying out the reforms agreed upon. Rigid economy is planned for every department. The Commissioner-General has also, considered the question of restricting paper currency issues, which has been discussed at length. It has been decided that after June 1 no further uncovered notes will be printed, so that the new bank of issue can begin to exercise its functions on June 2, as already planned. The fact that the shares in this bank have been largely taken abroad has awakened confidence here. The printing of uncovered notes to the extent of 30,000,000,000 crowns a week was agreed upon with the League Financial Commission and is intended only to cover arrears and not to be applied to the present budget.

The new tariff bill, which is part of the general reconstruction program, is now before Parliament and its passage is expected at an early date. Hungary feels that the restriction of her industries is necessary for the execution of her general reforms, but the neighboring States naturally look unfavorably upon this protection.

The departure of the British Minister from Budapest is looked upon as a significant political incident by this Government, especially as the British Labor Party has already attempted to interfere in Hungarian politics, owing to what it considers the reactionary tendency of the Government. Nevertheless close observers believe that only the present government would have been strong enough to carry the reform bills which have been passed.

Baron Koranyi, the new Minister of Finance, in an optimistic statement says that the Government will not resort to any artificial measures to stabilize the crown and predicts that the currency will be automatically stabilized when the foreign loan is received, probably on the average level of the last few days. Baron Koranyi says that the fall of the crown is due to the Vienna stock market and is in no way influenced by the general reconstruction plan. He attributes this fall to the throwing of Hungarian stocks on the Vienna market after the recent franc crisis. He says that the international loan outlook is most favorable and that within the next few days a conference of foreign bankers will be held in London, at which the question of placing the loan on the market will be settled. Several prominent Hungarian bankers are now in London awaiting this conference.

COOL FOR COTTON AND CORN

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture issued in Washington yesterday in part follows:

"It was rather too cool for the best growth of cotton in most of the South, though temperatures were more favorable in Atlantic coast districts. Rain the first part of the week interfered with field work in central and eastern portions of the belt, but otherwise conditions were favorable for planting, replanting annd cultivation. Cotton made poor progress in Texas because of cool nights and stands are irregular in central and northern portions of the State, owing to recent unfavorable weather for germination.

"General condition of the crop is fair. Early cotton shows fair to good stand in Oklahoma; planting was under way in all sections. This work has been completed in most of Arkansas, where the early crop shows irregular stand, ranging from poor to very poor to very good.

"Planting made good progress in the western portion of the corn belt under favorable weather conditions, though moisture was needed in the upper Mississippi Valley. In Missouri planting was well advanced northward to the Missouri River and excellent headway was made in the Great Plains States. This work was begun in Northern Illinois, but there was little planting done in Indiana and Ohio, where conditions were less favorable for field work and it was too cool for germination. Early corn did fairly well in the Southern States, though growth was slow in the West Gulf district because of cool weather. Planting made excellent progress in the Atlantic coast States from Virginia southward and early corn is generally up to a good stand. In the other Atlantic States preparation of soil made slow progress.

"Except in the area west of the Rocky Mountains and in a few sections in the North Central States where it was too dry, Winter wheat was favorably affected by the weather of the week generally. Progress was satisfactory in the Ohio Valley States, though the conditions remained poor and spotted in many localities. Good advance continued in the area between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains, though growth was slow in Nebraska and only fair in Iowa, because of the deficient moisture. Bulk of the wheat crop is jointing in Kansas and jointing was reported from Southern Missouri. Good growing weather for wheat prevailed in the Atlantic coast area but it was much too dry in the producing districts in the far Northwest.

"Late Spring wheat seeding advanced rapidly. This work has been practically completed in the principal producing sections and the weather was favorable for the early-sown grain which has come up generally to a satisfactory stand. Oats need rain badly in Iowa and parts of Illinois, but the crop is coming up nicely in Ohio and it is improving steadily in the Great Plains except in a few sections where it is too dry. All small grains made satisfactory advance in the South. It was too cool for best growth of rice in Louisiana, but conditions were favorable for this crop in California, where some flooding is being done.

COTTON LOSES GAIN MADE ON COVERING

Early Rise Creates Demand for Contracts, but the Improvement Disappears.

FOREIGN MARKET FIRMER

Increase in Spot Sales Also Contributes to Activity at the Start—May Up 16 Points for Day.

More active covering on the part of certain speculative interests caused an advance in cotton at one time yesterday but all the improvement disappeared before the close. Demand for May took several thousand bales from the ring. At first contracts were taken at rising quotations, but later in the session buyers waited for recessions to obtain cotton. Appearance of a cold wave in the Northwest, bringing predictions of frost at some points in the West belt advanced new crops 20 points but both July and late months closed at a net loss for the day. May gained 16 points over Tuesday.

A decidedly firmer foreign market and an increase in spot sales to 10,000 bales, of which 8,000 were American, caused the most active covering of old crop positions in some days. During the recession in prices last week brokers operating for houses with trade connections bought a quantity of May contracts. This demand had absorbed the floating supply, and the recent movement of cotton out of New York evidently induced certain interests to cover outstanding obligations. The buying that developed in May soon after the opening advanced that month above 24 cents and to a premium of 185 points over July, the greatest difference established so far this season. It was not until prices had gained 40 points that prominent spot interests offered May at prevailing differences and supplied all demand. A similar covering movement developed in July which carried the level to 28.97, or a cent over low figures of Monday. Cooler weather in Oklahoma, together with the rise in near months, lifted new crop positions 20 points during the morning.

A smaller export movement, only 5,000 bales yesterday, and the fact that prices had risen steadily for two days, left an easier situation. The last hour prices ran below previous closing and with the exception of May, all months closed at a slight loss for the day.

The weekly weather report reflected low temperatures of last week and cool temperatures at night were a subject of comment from many States. Planting, however, was reported to have made steady progress and in Arkansas, for instance, this work was said to be nearing completion. In general, weather was not such as to bring vegetation along rapidly. The season is still behind and predictions of cooler weather were issued for today. As compared with conditions the first half of May a year ago, when floods occurred in Oklahoma and Arkansas, planters have been working under more favorable surroundings this season.

ASKS SMALLER TEST OF TRAIN CONTROL

Railways' Spokesman Says Plan of I. C. C. Would Cost Roads $100,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—W. J. Harahan, President of the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley Railway Companies, testifying at the opening of the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission today on the commission's orders requiring more than ninety railroads to install a system of automatic control on parts of their lines, declared that the order would cost the railroads more than $100,000,000. As spokesman for the railway executives, he asked the commission so to modify its order as to permit the test of various automatic train control devices in different sections of the country.

"It is earnestly suggested" he said, "that train control can be worked up to a sufficient stage of development if, instead of the colossal trial which has been ordered by the commission, there be selected a certain number of miles in each region, that is, the Eastern, Southern and Western regions, for the purpose of trying out these signals under all conditions of density of traffic, heavy grades, weather and all the other factors necessary to be overcome in the solution of this subject. It is thought that 100 miles in each region, located on various railroads and in places where the most severe tests could be made, would be adequate.

"Automatic train control will not prevent all collisions. On the other hand, automatic block signals protect against occurrences which are likely to take place any day, anywhere. Is it not reasonable that the railroad executives should feel that they should provide as much of this character of protection as is possible before they depart into realms of conjecture which the automatic train control has presented up to this time?"

NEW PRESIDENT FOR ROAD.

F. E. Taplin Now Holds Two Chief Positions of Pittsburgh & W. Va.

F. E. Taplin of Cleveland yesterday became the operating head of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia Railway, through the resignation of H. E. Farrell, President. After the meeting held in New York, it was announced that Mr. Taplin, who has been Chairman of the Board of Directors, would also serve as President.

The change is one of the final moves in the obtaining of complete control by the Buttle-Taplin interests. At the time they purchased control of the property, W. H. Coverdale resigned as Chairman and was succeeded by Mr. Taplin.

FOUND SHIP BOARD LAX IN ITS METHODS

Fleet Corporation Treasurer Found No Record of Millions in Trust Funds.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Large amounts in securities, drafts and unpaid checks were spread promiscuously throughout the various offices of the Shipping Board, when he took office in 1921, T. L. Clear, Treasurer of the Fleet Corporation, testified today at the House shipping inquiry.

Prior to 1921, he asserted, there was no record kept of millions of dollars in trust funds advanced in bulk amounts to managing operators of Shipping Board vessels, a general canvass of all the offices was made, he said, and all securities were concentrated in the Treasurer's office under his control.

Examined by Representative Lehlbach, Mr. Clear said more than $900,000 in uncanceled checks, drawn on the Fleet Corporation, had been found in the various offices. He did not know why the checks had not been deposited but discovered some of them had been held by request.

"I disregarded all requests," he continued, "and put them in the bank. It created great consternation in banking circles, here. I have collected all except $11,000 covered by two checks and in these cases the banks went into receivership long before I found the checks."

Mr. Clear added that he had recovered $36,000 which was found to be due the Fleet Corporation after canvassing all banks where deposits had been made and accounts closed.

He abolished the system of paying out sums in trust funds to operators and substituted a plan whereby the expenses of the operators were met from drafts on the United States Treasury.

Asked by Representative Bankhead for recommendations for the operation of the Government fleet, the witness said it was a "one-man job." The President of the Fleet Corporation, he held, should not be answerable to the Shipping Board.

Representative Bankhead read from a detailed record of intangible assets, showing that the Fleet Corporation had discounted letters of credit on which it owed to it by purchasers and shippers and for supplies. Some were discounted at 4¾ per cent., three days before maturity.

Mr. Clear said this was a plan of liquidation in force in 1922 to realize from sales a part of the money appropriated by the Congress. The system had been corrected and there had been no recent sales of such securities.

Large losses to the Shipping Board had resulted from the failure of foreign agents of managing operators to make immediate deposits in banks abroad of vessels' revenues, thereby taking advantage of foreign exchange fluctuations, Mr. Clear stated.

"If the value of foreign currency increases subsequent to the collection of the money by the agent," he said, "the agent makes the exchange as of the date of collection, pocketing the difference. If the exchange is down the collection is made as of the date of deposit and the United States as usual is the loser.

"There is no question that the American ship is considered common prey in practically every port of the world. I have operated ships through operators in all ports. I know what American ships suffer and any way in which they can be robbed of money is considered right."

During an approaching visit abroad, Mr. Clear added, he would endeavor to effect an arrangement under which all financial transactions of the Shipping Board and Fleet Corporation would be handled through one bank in each port. Such operators' agents be required to deposit Government funds the day they were collected.

VOTES £400,000 LOAN FOR WEST INDIAN CABLE

House of Commons Does So in Face of Protests Against American Control.

LONDON, May 7.—The House of Commons tonight passed the third reading of the West Indian Telegraph bill, which provides for the expenditure of £400,000 for the establishment of a system of cable and wireless communication in the British West Indian Islands and British Guiana.

Speaking on the bill, Sir Douglas Hogg, former Conservative Attorney General, said there was no doubt that the money which the Government would advance would be loaned to a company which, although it was called British, was entirely controlled by American capital. He referred, he said, to the Commercial Cable Company.

J. H. Thomas, Minister for the Colonies, explained that arrangements were being made for the transfer of sufficient shares to leave the controlling interest in the lines in the hands of British subjects, but admitted that they were nominally servants of an American company. He remarked that the cables might have been the property of Great Britain, as they were offered to the late Joseph Chamberlain before the Americans bought them, but Mr. Chamberlain declined.

Sir Harry Brittain, Conservative, declared:

"As regards control, it is perfectly legitimate for the United States to press their influence wherever they can all over the world; but we are entitled to see to it that over an all-British route we have British news and British influence first. There have been grievous complaints of the fact that the news supplied to the West Indies is seen through American glasses a ' ' and it is of necessity American-colored.

"A report made recently to the Empire Press Union stated that the subsidized service of the direct West Indies Cable Company to the British Islands was obviously designed primarily for American readers.

"That is the disquieting side of this business, and we are handing over £400,000 to strengthen this American service. I think that the House ought to be told all the facts, particularly as regards control, for it is a fact that every one on the Board of Directors which controls these cables is either connected with, or in most cases a paid employe of, the American Commercial Cable Company, and that the bulk of the capital is held in American hands."

Says Nation Profiteered in Wheat.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A charge that the Government "profiteered" in its wheat transactions during the war was made by Senator Gooding, Republican, of Idaho, in a Senate speech today urging farm relief legislation. He said he did not intend to press his bill to fix the price of the 1924-25 crops of wheat at $1.50 per bushel, in view of the more favorable status of the McNary-Haugen bill proposing the establishment of "ratio prices" for farm products.

Mail to St. Louis Firm Barred.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Postmaster General New issued an order to the Postmaster at St. Louis today instructing him to return to senders all mail matter directed to the Union Home Builders, or its officers, with the word "fraudulent" marked on such mail. He acted on charges that the company was engaged in conducting a scheme for the distribution of prizes by lot or chance through the mails.

Penn Central Light Earnings.

Gross earnings of the Penn Central Light and Power Company for March were $300,800, compared with $267,128 for the same month of 1923. Net applicable to reserves, income tax and dividends was $58,078 compared with $52,500 for March, 1923.

WHEAT DEPRESSED BY BREAK IN CORN

Milling Reports Lead to Free Offerings of Corn, With the Response Feeble.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 7.—A break of 6¾ cent in wheat today was due largely to sympathy with corn, which broke 1¼@1½ cents on the report that the American Maize Company would close down its plant, that a Decatur, Ill., industry was grinding only three days a week and that a Cedar Rapids, Iowa, industry was shipping cash corn to Chicago. Oats were ¼ cent higher to ½ lower, the former on May, and rye ½@¾ lower.

Reports that the Argentine strike was practically settled had a depressing effect abroad, with Liverpool closing ½d higher to ¼ lower, but this failed to have much influence on the export demand, with sales of 600,000 to 750,000 bushels of Manitobas. Ocean room was in active demand at the seaboard, with claims of room having been taken for around 2,000,000 bushels in the past two days.

The Government May report to be given to the trade tomorrow at 3:15 P. M. Chicago Daylight Saving Time. It is expected to show around 560,000,000 bushels, or the same as the private reports, and will compare with 572,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Loss in acreage is estimated at 5 to 8 per cent. from the 40,191,000 acres seeded last Fall. Private estimates on condition ranged from 84 to 86, against 83 in April and 80.1 last year.

Primary arrivals of wheat today are 576,000 bushels; week ago, 410,000; last year, 512,000. Shipments were 482,000 bushels; week ago, 707,000; last year, 603,000.

Commission houses were persistent sellers of corn futures and found support slow, the decline was easily attained. The market has been giving a rather poor account of itself for several days when the firmness in wheat is considered, this being due largely to the continued slow Eastern demand.

The Corn Products Company was reported to have taken 250,000 bushels corn from Duluth, but this was offset by the closing of the American Maize plant for an indefinite time. It had been buying ten to fifteen cars cash corn per day in the sample market. The basis there was again easy.

Sales of cash oats for shipment were 150,000 bushels and there was fair buying of the May.

Corn receipts were 675,000 bushels; week ago, 718,000; last year, 378,000, and shipments, 515,000 bushels; week ago, 842,000; last year, 1,168,000.

HARVESTER PROFITS JUMP.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 7.—Improvement in the agricultural implement industry is shown in the annual report, issued tonight, of the International Harvester Company. The profits were nearly double those of 1922.

Net profit for 1923, after charges and taxes, was $10,274,376, equivalent after preferred dividends to $6.06 a share on the $99,676,772 common stock. After paying dividends of $5 on common stock there was a surplus of $1,064,868, but this was more than absorbed by a 2 per cent. stock dividend which amounted to $1,068,368. The result was a reduction of $893,500 in total surplus, which now stands at $31,908,173. Net profits in 1922 were $5,540,768, equivalent to $1.35 a share on the common stock.

"For the first time in three years domestic business resulted in a small profit," said President Alexander Legge. "Over half the total business represented sales in foreign countries and products other than farm equipment. The foreign trade prospect indicates a further gain.

"The year 1923, while far from normal, showed some improvement over the preceding year. There is still a great disparity between the prices the American farmer receives for his produce and the price he must pay for manufactured articles. Until this spread is reduced the agricultural implement industry cannot expect a return to normal conditions."

Cattle Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 7.—Hogs averaged 5 cents higher with the top, $7.65, the best since April 18. Butchers were good buyers. Lambs were irregular, with choice wooled up to $17.35, a new high. Aged stock, due to scarcity, was up 25 cents, with choice wooled ewes up to $9.35. Cattle were 10 to 25 cents lower, due to increased offerings.

Cigar Profits Mounting.

The Consolidated Cigar Company reports for the first quarter $181,586 net profit, which after allowing for preferred dividends, was equal to 53 cents a share earned on the no par value common stock. In the first quarter of 1923 earnings equaled 67 cents a share.

10,000 MURDERED IN AMERICA IN 1923

Rate Rose From 9 Per 100,000 of Population to 10.2, Insurance Man Finds.

25 TIMES THAT OF ENGLAND

Life Safer in New York Than in Most Big Cities—Barring of Mails to Firearms Asked.

The number of murders committed in this country in 1923 shows the regular annual increase in "the American murder wave," and indicates that we are slowly drifting toward a degree of acquiescence in crime and criminal traits which, if not sternly dealt with, will permeate every stratum of society, according to an analysis of crime figures made by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, and printed in The Spectator.

Statistics that cover most of the cities indicate an increase in murder from 9 per 100,000 of population in 1922 to 10.2 in 1923. They show that the homicide rate has doubled in twenty years.

"On the basis of a conservative estimate," said Dr. Hoffman, "there are certainly not less than 10,000 murder cases a year in this country."

On the other hand, there were approximately 200 murders in England and Wales last year, so that actually fifty times as many people were murdered in this country. On the basis of population, murders were twenty-five times as frequent in the United States as in England and Wales. For each 100,000 of population about three times as many persons are murdered in this country as in Italy.

Although the death penalty apparently acts as a strong deterrent in England and Wales, Dr. Hoffman favors abolition of capital punishment here, arguing that the failure to enforce the penalty is one of the things that puts a premium on murder.

"The sale of firearms, except to those properly authorized to carry them, should be absolutely prohibited," says Dr. Hoffman. "The sale through mail order houses is unquestionably one of the most fruitful sources of murderous crimes. An admirable example has been set by Butler Brothers of Chicago, a mail order house of international reputation, which has discontinued the sale of firearms absolutely. It is entirely within the power of Congress to prohibit the sending of firearms through the mails. Until this is done the present evil will only continue to grow worse."

The murder rate in New York is almost 50 per cent. less than the average for the rest of the country. New York's homicide average is 5.5 per 100,000, as against 12.7 for Chicago, 8.3 for Philadelphia, 3.9 for Boston, 16.3 for Cincinnati.

"It is an appalling indication of the growth of lawlessness and crime," says Dr. Hoffman, "and without a parallel in the social history of nations.

"At the head of the murder list stands the appalling record for the city of Memphis, Tenn. There were 113 murder deaths in Memphis in 1923, equivalent to a rate of 60 per 100,000. In other words, Memphis is nearly seven times more murderous than the country at large. Memphis has a population of less than 200,000. Birmingham, Ala., England, with a population of nearly a million, in 1920 had five deaths from murder. Almost identical with the murder rate of Memphis is the current murder rate for Jacksonville, Fla. In 1923 the rate for Jacksonville was 61.7, against a rate of 45.9 for 1922."

Next to Jacksonville stands Nashville, Tenn. Its rate in 1923 was 38.7. Other cities with extremely high homicide rates are: Louisville, 35.6; Charleston, S. C., 26.1; Mobile, 25.3; New Orleans, 20.9; Savannah, 21.1, and St. Louis, 26.1.

"A point has been reached in our national life where no one is safe anywhere at any time," Dr. Hoffmann goes on. "Murder is set forth with alluring attractiveness in countless cheap publications which cater to a morbid and depraved appetite. Murder is featured in films to the point of downright suggestiveness of crime. Murder is encouraged by long-delayed trials and the uncertainty of conviction and of severity of punishment.

"Out of 458 murderers sentenced to death in the State of New York from 1889 to 1923 only 298 were executed, according to Warden Lawes of Sing Sing Prison."

TANNERS RAP FANCY SHOES.

50 Per Cent. of the Nation's Feet Affected, Convention Is Told.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 7.—The present-style trend in women's shoes and the use of rubber heels were attacked by the Tanners' Council of America in convention today.

Fraser M. Moffat of New York, President of the council, said fancy footwear was ruining the feet of the nation's women. Ten times as many women as men, and 50 per cent. of the American people, were undergoing foot treatment, he said. "Real leather shoes" were advocated.

Excessive motoring also was criticized and mote walking advocated as a health builder.

Hosiery Buying Picks Up.

A noticeable improvement in the demand for silk hosiery of the better grades was reported in this market yesterday, and it was further said that some of the stores are now operating beyond their immediate needs for the first time in quite a while. A number of buyers in various parts of the country who had been ordering goods in quarter dozens and in incomplete size ranges were said to be placing business in multiple-dozen lots in all sizes. This action was taken to indicate improved consumer buying and possibly a little lightening of the "heavy hand" that so many merchandises men have placed on stocks during the past several months. In the popular shades, white topped the list during the past week with one of the most prominent manufacturers, with light and very light tan shades coming third and second, respectively.

Talked About the Rug Auction.

Comment concerning the $4,000,000 auction of rugs that is to be staged here next week by the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, beginning on Monday, dominated the local market for floor coverings yesterday. The announcement of the auction, which will include 45,000 rugs of Axminster rugs and 40,000 bales of tapestries and velvets, came as a great surprise to both buyers and competing manufacturers. Comment by some of the latter indicated that their plans for the season had been seriously upset, while others were unwilling to admit that the coming sale would have any material effect on them. It was admitted, however, that buying had been checked and that some of the business already placed had been canceled. About two-thirds of the goods to be sold at the auction will come from stock, the remainder representing production to June 1. By an executive of the Smith company it was asserted yesterday that the decision to hold the auction, which will be the second in a period of a little more than two months, was the result of the failure of early orders to come in as expected. Prices on the Fall lines of the company were issued to the trade only a week ago today.

Gray Goods Show no Change.

No change was shown in the local gray goods market yesterday. Trading was no more active than it was on Tuesday, and prices were the same. Some spot business was done in 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths at 5½ cents, with a few lots of June deliveries of that construction sold at 5⅝ cents. For 39-inch 68-72s, 10½ cents was paid, and the same was true of 38½-inch 60-48s at 7⅜ cents. Sheetings were again without feature. For 37-inch 48-square, four-yard goods 10¼ cents was asked by sellers, with 7⅝ and 7 cents the best that could be done, respectively, for 36-inch 5.50s and 6.15s. Nothing less than 9⅛ cents would be accepted for 40-inch 2.80-yard sheetings.

Reorders Have Been Good.

Recent business in men's wear Summer fabrics tends to strengthen the impression that these cloths are now in a strong position, filling as they do the needs of a distinct season, as apart from the regular lines. Commenting on the recent duplicating that has been done, the selling agent of the mill making Palm Beach cloths said yesterday the reorders have been very satisfactory. A review of these orders, he said, indicates the manufacturing clothiers have strong confidence in this type of suit and are finding a ready outlet for their merchandise. The staple sand and grey effects have taken well. Fancies in these shades, as well as powder blue and the blue and black piece dyes in check, stripe and corded patterns, have figured most prominently in the reorder business done.

Chinese Trend in Fall Silks.

The Chinese influence is dominant in the lines of Fall silks which Cheney Brothers opened yesterday. Not only in color but in treatment of design is the inspiration of the new lines Chinese, as the patterns are derived from tapestries, scrutan, peacocks' feathers, Chinese rugs, coats of mail, dragon vases, &c. Brocades, tinsels and velvets form a prominent part in the lines. Gold, silver and high colors dominate fabrics for formal wear. Printed velvets are featured in subdued shades of red, blue, purple, orange and green for evening wraps, gowns and capes, and also for linings. Inlaid brocades of artificial silk and crêpe de Chine are stressed in two-tone effects. Prints are offered for linings in both large and small floral patterns. In plain fabrics the ribbon weaves and the satins lead. The latter comprise three groups—the crêpe satins, those with soft, dull sheen and the highly lustrous satins in which artificial silk is used. The color range is extremely large. Prices range from $1.60 to $13.50. In general, the level is said to be slightly lower than that of Spring.

Fur Clearances Large.

Withdrawals of furs from the warehouse of the New York Auction Company, Inc., were liberal yesterday, it being "prompt day" for the recent Spring sale of the company, and it was estimated at the close of business that from 80 to 85 per cent. of the skins disposed of had been taken out by buyers since the sale was completed. A feature of the withdrawals was said to be that the remaining 15 per cent. was well scattered throughout the different varieties, which would indicate that no particular fur or class of furs is entirely out of demand. "Prompt day" is the last day on which buyers can earn a rebate of half the auction fee, which is 1 per cent. by "clearing" their goods. Final clearance of all furs sold at the auction must be made by June 7.

Fine Gems Hard to Get.

The difficulty in getting diamonds of a quality good enough for the American market is also experienced in buying emeralds and rubies, according to a gem buyer who has recently returned from a trip to the other side. Not only is there a real scarcity of these stones, but strong competition for them is reported from practically every country in Europe. The wealthier persons in those countries were said in some instances to be buying gems in order to protect their money from further shrinkage through depreciation, and in others to offset certain taxes levied on wealth. The result is that prices in this market have been forced to high levels. The shortage of fine rubies was said yesterday to be even more marked than that of emeralds, and it was further said that, if the demand for the former was as good as that for the latter, their prices would be astonishingly high.

Good Coat Business Expected.

If the labor question were not subordinating all other matters in garment trade discussion at the moment, it was said yesterday, more attention would be paid to the possibilities of a good business in women's coats next Fall. This expectation is based on the pronounced change in the character of the coating fabrics, which makes it practically impossible for a woman who wishes to be correctly styled to wear last season's garment. The leading fabrics for last Fall were the pile coatings, which even then did not appeal to the consumer of higher grade coats. The new coatings are the cashmere weaves, and once the labor uncertainty is cleared up, it is expected that they will be well received both by the cutters and the consumers who are looking for new merchandise.

Browns Lead in Fall Colors.

Browns are featured in the Fall color card of the Textile Color Card Association of the United States, Inc., released for general use yesterday. Eighty colors are shown on the card. These are mostly made up in silks, although the group of colors for woolens is the largest the association has ever shown. Slight shades for shoes, leather and hosiery are also depicted. A special grouping on the card is called the "Directoire colors," made up of twelve pastel shades. These are featured for evening and Winter resort wear. Grays and the wine shades are also stressed. Navy blues are shown in three different shades. Six of the shoe, leather and hosiery shades are browns. The woolen colors are new, with varied brown and grays standing out.

Waistline Getting Higher.

Departures from the accepted straight-line silhouette and low waistline seem to be indicated for Fall. The leading style houses here have been advised of this trend in the fashion centres abroad, and, while the change from the straight-line effect in ready-to-wear may not entirely take place in the Fall, it is believed that the first signs of the passing of this vogue have been shown. So far, the indicated style drift has been toward a higher waistline, depending on the character of the garment, gradually leans to the bouffant style, which, in its first stages, it is expected, will be developed in modified form.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Greenworth Silk Corporation, formerly located at 130 Madison Avenue, has discontinued business as mill selling agents.

E. P. Wadsworth, formerly Secretary of the Greenworth Silk Corporation, has organized the Wadsworth Silk Company, located at 470 Fourth Avenue. The new firm will be factored through Kreeger Brothers and will represent several mills.

FIFTH AVENUE PROJECT.

Apartment to Replace Two More Fine Old Mansions.

Two more Fifth Avenue houses are to be demolished to make way for a high-class apartment house.

They are the former Raymond Hoagland residence at 817 Fifth Avenue, southeast corner of Sixty-third Street, opposite the large apartment that was reared on the site of the Progress Club. With the Hoagland place also went the adjoining house at 816, owned by the Gerry estate.

The old Hoagland house was sold by G. Nassauer for about $375,000. The Gerry estates parcel brought about $230,000. Both were bought by the Matchett Realty Company. The site abuts the William Ziegler residence, which was recently taken by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in part payment for the Belmont Hotel, which Mr. Ziegler bought last Winter.

The combined properties sold by the Nassauer and Gerry interests brought about $119 a square foot, which, when the valuations are reduced to taxes, indicates about as plainly as anything could the reason why Fifth Avenue mansion owners are disposing of their properties wherever they are able to apart-ment builders.

One purchaser, George V. Martin, bought twenty-three lots, including two corners facing Sherland Avenue, Spuyten Duyvil Parkway and Johnson Avenue. These lots were 40 to 62 inclusive and were sold for $34,450. Others who were prominent among the buyers, purchasing several lots each, were F. C. Wood, Henry Hogan, J. A. Sharp, Charles Coriotti and Jacob Eiferman.

WANTED
MORTGAGE MAN
For Brooklyn and Queens
By Reputable Mortgage Organization
We want a man who has been connected with a Brooklyn mortgage institution for a number of years; one who has great faith in Brooklyn; who knows Brooklyn thoroughly; knows real estate values there; and knows the various financial institutions and their officers.
If there is such a man who can meet these requirements we can work out a very satisfactory plan, whereby he can become affiliated with a growing mortgage brokerage house. We know how to appreciate good work. This is an opportunity for the right man to make a good and permanent connection.

A STRONG SALESMAN.

A thoroughly established, highly-rated service organization, whose customers include the largest corporations, lawyers and financial houses, has an opening for a successful salesman in New York. This opening is due to the addition of a new product, a service furnishing tax and trust information. The unit of sale averages $100.

We want a man with a good education and sufficient business ability to meet the executive on his own level. Such a man will earn between $4,000 and $6,000 in commissions the first year; and his income will increase automatically due to renewals. Give sufficient information, including education and experience in your first letter to enable us to judge your qualifications for our work; include telephone number. Your application will be treated in strict confidence. Box 891, 2501 World Tower Bldg.

CAN YOU SELL HOME SITES?

There has been a continuous growth in the demand for exclusive home sites within New York City; both the customer-investors and the salesmen of our home sites are making money; men and women who can sell, who are willing to apply themselves, either giving their entire time or part time, can earn generous commissions; besides, we assist you in creating and developing prospects, and offer you a systematic course of training in real estate salesmanship; back of this offer there is a large and responsible real estate organization; please write today, giving your experience and references in detail.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, May 7.—An extensive area of barometric pressure covered the region east of the Mississippi River Wednesday night, and within it there were three centres of minimum pressure—one over Ohio, another over extreme Northwestern Florida and a third in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras. The last-mentioned disturbance will increase in intensity and move north-northeastward, attended by increasing east and northeast winds and probably gales, with thick weather and rain along the Middle Atlantic and Southern New England Coast during the next twenty-four hours.

Within the last twenty-four hours there were quite general rains in the Northern Plain States, the great central valleys, the region of the Great Lakes and showers at scattered points in the South Atlantic and Gulf States. Fair weather prevailed in all other parts of the country during Wednesday. There were local snows Wednesday morning in the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota and freezing temperatures were quite general over the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions, the Northern Plains States and Northwestern Kansas.

In New England and New York the weather will become unsettled, with rain Thursday and probably Friday, with moderate temperature. In the Middle Atlantic States there will be rains Thursday and Thursday night and clearing weather on Friday, with moderate temperature. In the South Atlantic States there will be local showers and thunderstorms, with somewhat lower temperature Thursday and fair weather on Friday. In the East Gulf States, Tennessee and Kentucky the weather will become fair Thursday and continue fair through Friday, with moderate temperature.

You can stuff your body with food and still suffer from Malnutrition

"Dietary studies show that because of lack of knowledge of the nutritive value of foods, whole families are often underfed. Some classes of the rich, too, are equally liable to be underfed, as they are more prone to food notions and are able to indulge them."
—Human Foods

"The larger part of man's food is used for the production of energy, and it is physiologically economical that this energy be supplied by the non-nitrogenous nutrients, particularly carbohydrates."
—The Principles of Human Nutrition

More than three-fourths of the content of Grape-Nuts are the precious carbohydrates—your greatest source of strength and vitality.

"A food may contain a comparatively large amount of a compound, and yet, on account of its low digestibility, fail to supply much of it to the body in an available form. Hence it is that the value of a food is dependent not alone on its composition, but also on its digestibility."
—Human Foods

In Grape-Nuts the carbohydrates have been dextrinized, that is, they have been scientifically broken down into the form your body most readily digests.

"The function of the mouth is to prepare the food for digestion, which is facilitated in proportion to the amount of this preparation. . . . Besides crushing the food, mastication is also of great importance for a thorough mixing with the saliva."
—Teeth, Diet and Health

Grape-Nuts is in a form which you must chew. This gives the teeth healthful exercise and starts the flow of the salivary and gastric juices—the first step to sound digestion.

You can overeat and still actually starve.

You can do worse. With food you can breed in your body the poisons and acids that bring about almost every physical ill.

But there is another side. With food you can build yourself a healthy body, and supply it with all the power it needs for mental and physical work.

The power that daily renews your mental and physical strength and vigor is stored in the carbohydrates (a great part of which comes from the grains). They are your greatest source of vitality. At least one-third of your nourishment should come from them.

MORE than three-fourths of the content of Grape-Nuts (made from wheat and malted barley) are these precious carbohydrates. And in Grape-Nuts you get the carbohydrates in the form the body can digest and transform into strength and vigor.

In order for your body to get the full nourishment from carbohydrates—they must be carefully prepared to suit your body's needs. Otherwise, instead of supplying you with nourishment they may clog your digestive machinery and produce the poisons and acids that give rise to almost every physical ill.

In Grape-Nuts they have been scientifically broken down into just the form your body best can utilize. They have been dextrinized.

No chance of choking or clogging your delicate digestive machinery. No chance of producing dangerous poisons. Healthy exercise for each organ—no strain on any one. Grape-Nuts will tone you up. It will do much to keep you up to the mark—wide-awake—alert.

Grape-Nuts has this great added value to your health

Grape-Nuts comes in crisp golden kernels you must chew. You can't help chewing them and you enjoy it. This chewing starts the proper flow of the salivary and gastric juices. It keeps the whole mouth healthy. It starts digestive processes in the mouth—the first step to sound digestion.

There is no other food like Grape-Nuts in form or in taste. Eat it every day. You will be astonished to find how much better you feel.

Served with milk or cream, it gives you just the nourishment you need. All grocers have Grape-Nuts. Hotels and restaurants serve it in individual packages of a single portion. The Postum Cereal Company, Inc., Battle Creek, Mich.
